LAWSON AND DILLABAUGH

One Asleep in Bed and the Other Hiding Under a Verandah-Case Will Go on To-Day.

HAMTLTON, June 11.—(Special.—Wm. Lawson, 127 North Hughson-street, and Henry Dillabaugh, 27 Gorestreet, the deputy returning officer and poll clerk wanted in connection with the West Hamilton ballot case, were arrested this afternoon at 3.30. The police got a tip that Dillabaugh had returned to the city and Detective Coulter gathered a posse and surrounded his home. While the other officers blocked all the exits the detective searched the house from cellar to garret, and finally located Dillabaugh hiding under the floor of an enclosed verandah. Dillamaugh took his arrest cooly. On him was found an offer of a first class position in New York. aridah. Dillamaugh took his arrectory. On him was found an offer of a first class position in New York.

The police next went to Lawson's house. The front door was locked, so they forced their way in thru the backdoor and found the missing returning officer asleep in his bed in his clothes. When the detective woke him up he laughed and took it as a joke. The prisoners have never been very far from the city. The police got a tip yesterday that they were at Bayview, but when the officers reached that place they found that the pair had escaped in a steam launch, which appeared to me at their disposal, and in which it is supposed by the police that they have been spending most of their time.

Lawson is charged with supplying Dillabaugh with election ballots and Dillabaugh with trying to dispose of them; The penalty provided for offences of this kind is three years' imprisonment. Dillabaugh promptly semand hall and was given his freedom. prisonment. Dillabaugh promptly secured ball and was given his freedom. The authorities say that they will e ready Friday morning to proceed

Ten Years for Stabbing.

Judge Snider this afternoon wound up the criminal business at the general sessions, when he sentenced Wm. Randall, found guilty of cutting and wounding John Harris, to ten years in Kingston penitentiary. His honor told Randall that he had made an attempt practically to murder two men by making a brutal attack on them.

William Roberts, charged with cutting and wounding John Lane, was acquitted by the jury. Percy Servos, Caistorville, charged with obtaining the foster. J. B. Fotheringham (mathematics), Miss M. M. County Council.

At the closing session of the county council to-day Councillor Guest, Ancaster, resigned because some of the township roads were placed under the jurisdiction of the county. The resignation cannot become effective until it is presented to the township council. Mr. Guest complains of ex-travagance in the management of roads, and says that the council is ruled by Tammany Hall methods.
