for the government of the Northwest Territories, and parliament then decreed that the territories be administered liberally and unanimously introduced into the territories a system of separate schools, and the parliament of Canada in 1880 and in 1886 and in 1898 deliberately ratified that system.

Dr. Sproule asked if Hon. George Brown did not in 1875 oppose separate schools for the territories.

Sir Wilfrid replied that he had, but he also said that if the principle of separate schools was introduced then according to the terms of the constitution it was introduced for all time to come. "I am delighted," continued Sir Wilfrid, "that my hon. friend has brought my attention to this, because really the whole subject is contained in his question. We have decided upon the very terms of the legislation which was introduced in 1875."

of our create discord in the Northwest. Mr. Burden pointed out that the constitution of the Northwest territory schools clause governing for a time he did not speak in a legal sense but in a political sense. He said that in a constitutional sense could have it placed with the territories.
The speaker then read the clause and said the C. P. R. tax exemption clause, said Mr. Wilford.

"The question would be the question of vested rights," suggested Mr. Howden. He emphasized the point that the territories were not to be treated in the manner with the territories than it was in 1875, when the territories were brought into union concerning the migration, the land, the railroads, the mineral rights, grants to railways (arranged for the benefit of the territories and unearned, and other facts necessary to an act of Congress, and the territories also for public and separate schools statutes for the Northwest Territories.

Mr. Burden closed with an expression of hope that the question would be disposed of in a satisfactory manner, and which actuated or was said to actuate the hon. gentlemen opposite on a certain point. I have said that religious feeling had been deliberately introduced to the political arena by the Liberal party, and I have said that the interests of the Liberal party and the interests of the Liberal party would be opposed to the opposition of to-day would emulate that example.

"The hon. gentleman said, 'that there are two sides to a question, that the question must be considered from the standpoint of the Liberal party as well as from our own natural feelings.'"

He hoped that by the exercise of common sense a solution of the question might be found which would be acceptable to both parties of Canada.

Dr. Spence then proceeded to denounce the "Don't" Shackle Them.

He began serious turn by congratulating the prime minister on the healthy pole of the political arena. He hoped the prime minister would not shake their limbs and prevent them from doing their duty. He hoped that the second readings of the bill should be delayed for three weeks or a month, and he has a chance to make themselves heard.

Both bills were then given their first reading.

OUT AT LAST.

The real cat came out of the bag yesterday morning. It meant the opening of Baxter's Segar Store at Yonge and Adelaide-streets. This segar store is a credit to Toronto, or any city must be so, in the size. It is a blaze of electric glory. There are 750 lights in the store alone. The store is fitted with all the latest size. It is a model in the manner of carling for and keeping segars, tobaccos and cigarets in proper condition. That means a lot to the patrons, and it is certainly enterprising, and will deserve all the patronage they receive.

STOESSSEL ON HIS SURRENDER.

port Arthur Could Not Hold Out a Day Longer.

In a box of Michie's Card

Kaffa, Crimea, Feb. 21.—Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel, the former commander at Port Arthur, arrived here to-day. Gen. Stoessel was welcomed by a cheering crowd, and a deputation from the municipality presented an address of welcome. Many relatives of those who had defended Port Arthur were present and there were pathetic exhibitions of grief and joy, according to the news received of their friends. The general expressed indignation at the London newspaper reports regarding the numbers of the available troops

Port Arthur at the time of the surrender of the fortress and said the statements made were all untrue. The Russian fleet, he added, was destroyed beyond repair. There was no medicine in the fortress; it could not have held out more than a day longer and the surrender saved the women and children.

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor discoloration and small dark spots, possibly due to age or handling. A faint vertical crease is visible near the right edge, suggesting it was once folded. The overall tone is a warm, off-white or light beige.
