Prince Errant ⁵ DISCOVERS ALADDIN'S LAMP

418-2-4-MY 20-76

Haha! the jester: Well, this is a queer place to find a lamp.
Prince Errant: It's lucky we found it; now we can get out of this dark wood.

Prince: Why, it has a name on it, A-L-A-D-D-I-N, Aladdin. Why, it's the long-lost Aladdin's lamp; I'll rub it and see what happens.

Geni: I am the slave in charge of Aladdin's treasures. Command me.
Haha: Help! Help! Geni! I thought I was sitting on a volcano!

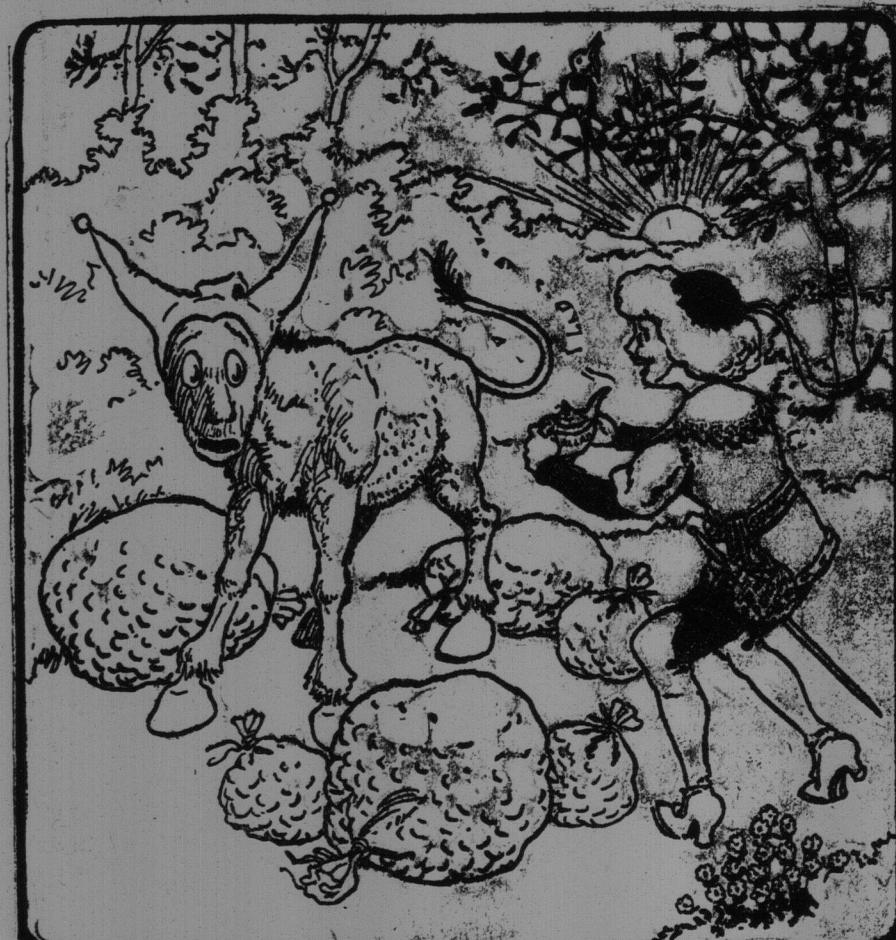

Geni: Seven thousand steps, north by northeast will bring us to the treasure chamber.
Haha: I'll keep my eye on that bunch of money; I am always suspicious of fellows that want to give away money.

Geni: All is yours; I'll get you sacks, so that you may carry away as much as you desire.
Haha: This must be a dream; I'll pinch myself to see if I am awake.

Haha: Well, this is beyond my fondest dreams; I only wish now that I was a jackass so I could carry the load.
Prince: That was a happy thought; I'll rub the lamp and wish you one, in a jiffy.

Prince: There you are, Haha! Now you can carry both our loads and me. My! but how natural you look!

Brigand: Hands up, my fine friends! Thou art too young to be in charge of so much treasure.

Brigand: Ta, ta, Prince; I'll leave you that old lamp, as I am not in the junk business.
Prince: If I could only reach the lamp!—the lamp!!
Haha: I don't mind being a fool, but when it comes to being a jackass, it's too much.
