SPEAKER TELLS OF EXPULSION OF ACADIANS

Judge Arsenault, of P. E. I., Heard in Address at St. Peter's Hall.

St. Peter's Auditorium was filled last night to hear a scholarly lecture by Justice A. E. Arsenault, of the Supreme Court of Prince Edward Island, on the "Expulsion of the Acadians." The chairman of the evening was L. M. Owens, who in a few short words expressed the pleasure of the gathering at the opportunity of hearing so learned a speaker and one so gifted in the subject about to be discussed. The lecture was held under the auspices of the North End sub-division of the C. W. I.

Justice Arsenault traced the history of the Acadian settlers from the founding of Port Royal until the treaty of Utrecht in 1713 and from the treaty of Utrecht until the expulsion in 1755. He described them as being of a loyal nature, peaceable in character and agriculturally inclined.

The total number at the time of the expulsion, about 2,500, was divided into three settlements at Chignecto, Grand Pre and Port Royal. The parties he described as very pathetic.

Justice Arsenault quoted authorities to prove that it was the belief that they were expelled but rather that of the Governor of Nova Scotia, whom he described as a cruel man seeking his own personal advancement. The settlements of Prince Edward Island also came in for some of his remarks, the settlements of Miscouche, Esmont Bay, Rustico, and in New Brunswick, Bouchette, Richibucto and other settlements in Kent and Gloucester counties. The greater part of his material was derived from the archives of Nova Scotia, where such great writers as Halliburton and Watson are preserved.

COMMUNITY SPIRIT

The community spirit of the Acadian settlers was enlarged upon. He told how the whole community lived together in peace and harmony, helping one another, not seeking any honors for themselves and everything being of equal rank. In the case of disputes they were settled by a board of arbitration and if not found satisfactory referred to "padre" for solution. The men filled the soil, the women weaved the flax and wool into garments.

At the time of a marriage the whole community turned out, cleared the plot of land, built a house and generally a few cows, some hens, etc., were given to ensure a good start in life for the young couple.

MANY MADE GOOD

Those who remained or returned to the Maritime Provinces had made good as could be testified by the fact that many were holding responsible positions in the legal, business and professional field at the present time. They are of a patriotic nature as the record of the late war in the Maritime Provinces has been molded into as fine citizens as are to be found anywhere.

At the conclusion of the lecture a vote of thanks was moved by Judge H. O. McInerney, seconded by Mrs. William Harrington, president of the North End sub-division of the Catholic Women's League. Rev. James Cloran, C. S. R., of St. Peter's, also made a few remarks in which he advocated a more patriotic spirit in the life of Canadians today.

ICE-COATED LOBSTER BOAT

What a few hours' bucking a snow-laden gale at sea did to the lobster smack Grace M. Cribby was evident upon her return to Boston harbor. It took axes, elbow grease and the sun many hours to free the vessel of her unwanted refrigeration.

Ontario Needs Maritime Coal, Says O. E. Fleming of Windsor

A STRONG appeal to the people of the Maritime Provinces to get behind the projected despatching of the St. Lawrence river and lending it their support was voiced here Saturday by O. E. Fleming, K. C., of Windsor, Ont., who arrived in Saint John on the Canadian Pacific steamer Montcalm. Mr. Fleming, who was accompanied by his son, E. O. Fleming, Jr., and also a barrister, had been in England for the purpose of appearing before the Privy Council in a Canadian case.

"Ontario needs your coal," said Mr. Fleming, who is chairman of the Canadian Deep Waterways and Power Association, "and we would be eager to buy it rather than spend thousands of dollars in the United States for fuel."

The carrying out of the plan to deepen the St. Lawrence, said Mr. Fleming, would do much to hold trade between the Maritimes and central Canada and it also would help the Maritimes, he declared, by bringing a much greater quantity of wheat here for export. He strongly urged the people of these provinces to aid in the consummation of the project and said that it should benefit this part of the country greatly.

Speaking of conditions in Great Britain, he said that the feeling there was very hopeful and at present there was a boom on in the shipbuilding industry.

Lieut.-Gov. Todd Looks For New Prosperity Era In East

MEGANTIC, Dec. 12.—In a special interview on the train Lieut.-Governor and Mrs. Todd, returning to St. Stephen after being guests of Their Excellencies at Government House at the opening of Parliament.

"His opinion was that the recommendations would to a large extent be carried out by the government with matters that would be taken up in other directions in trying to give the Maritime Provinces better business conditions, such as the West India Company, and the improved conditions all over the Dominion, rise felt that the people of the Maritime Provinces had every right to expect a number of years of good business and added prosperity not only for ourselves but the whole Dominion."

DISCUSSION EXPECTED

His Honor said that he expected quite a lot of discussion on the question of subsidies, but the sympathy and good feeling of the west and middle west toward the Maritimes' grievances had been expressed on all occasions in the past year and a half and he felt any just grievances that have been shown by the report would be considered and helped. His Honor said that his sympathy and understanding of Maritime problems has been brought about mostly by The Telegraph-Journal, A. M. Beidling and other members in the Maritime campaign. His Honor said that the new year would see a beginning and a speedy fulfillment of the desires and aspirations of the Maritimes.

FINAL SERMON IN COURSE AT ST. ANDREW'S GIVEN

Rev. J. S. Bonnell Speaks on Subject of "My Religion."

In the fourth and final sermon in the special series of evening addresses, Rev. J. S. Bonnell spoke last night in St. Andrew's church before a congregation that taxed the capacity of the edifice. His subject was "My Religion," and his texts were, first, 4th Mark, "Why are ye so fearful. How is it that ye have not yet faith?" and second, 10th John, "No man can pluck them out of my Father's hand."

Mr. Bonnell based his sermon on the incident of the stilling of the storm on the Sea of Galilee by Jesus and the expression of His disappointment in the lack of faith on the part of the disciples. Mr. Bonnell pointed out that this story was commonly interpreted that the disciples should not have been afraid when Jesus was on board the boat, or that if they had faith in God they would have known that He would not allow the ship to sink.

Mr. Bonnell said that these explanations fell short of the truth. What Jesus wished to teach them was that they should have a faith that would hold good no matter what happened, even supposing the ship should sink, no evil could touch them. Mr. Bonnell took two principles from these texts. The first was that the soul of man was greater than the whole material universe, and second, that no harm could come in time or eternity to the soul, that was under God's protection.

"We are not to become fatalists," Mr. Bonnell said, "but must play our part in co-operation with God as the disciples did in rowing and bailing their boat." He told of the touching incident where Louis Pasteur, the discoverer of the germ theory fought for weeks for the life of a little Alaskan lad, nine years of age, who had been terribly bitten by a mad dog. The serum which was used by Pasteur saved the life of the boy, and in like manner all medical appliances given by God for the preservation of human life must be used. If this was done and it was remembered that God was protecting them, there should be relief from all fear which according to a great British doctor, killed more people than did disease.

Next Sunday night, Mr. Bonnell will speak on "Christ and the World's Pain."
