FIVE SAVED BY PASSERS-BY AS HOME IS AFIRE

Edward Pyne and Four Children, Prince Edward St. Rescued

FOUND ASLEEP AND NEAR SUFFOCATION

Motorists Break in Doors on Seeing Smoke Issuing

It was lucky for Edward Pyne and his wife and four children that passing motorists, Wilfred Petrie and a companion named Anderson noticed smoke that was issuing from Margaret Lynch's little beer shop underneath their flat at the corner of Prince Edward and Clarence streets, a little after 8 o'clock this morning. When one of the men shouldered in the street door, also the apartment entrance at the head of the hallway stairs, the Pyne family were being slowly suffocated in their sleep. When awakened they were saved.

UNAWARE OF FIRE

Mrs. Pyne told a Times-Star reporter none of her household knew of the smoke or fire until they were awakened by the strangers. They were very thankful for their escape and could not speak too highly of the men so prompt in rendering aid. The Pyne home is a neat and cozy flat of four rooms. It has not been much affected by the fire which destroyed the beer shop equipment and a portion of Mrs. Lynch's household furniture contained in rooms on the opposite side of the hallway. The Pyne's are without insurance. Mrs. Lynch has $300 with the Guardian Company. An adjustment was made this morning.

ORIGIN A MYSTERY

Neither Mrs. Lynch nor the Pyne family offered any conjecture as to the origin of the blaze. Mrs. Lynch said that she had been sleeping at the apartment of an acquaintance for some time, and last night had dropped into her shop as late as 11 o'clock just to see that everything was all right. On two previous occasions, once last fall and again in the Christmas season, her beer shop premises had been forced open and the till rifled. However, last night there was no evidence of breaking and entering though in the burnt state of things it would be difficult to determine such.

DETECTIVE INVESTIGATES.

Detective Saunders, who worked on the case from early morning is said to be considering a theory of incineration. He may ask the Fire Marshal to look into it. The fire broke out at an unusual hour for a place where business closed since Saturday night. The Pyne family, upstairs, say they heard no noise in the shop below during the nighttime and can throw no light upon the cause of the fire. The Pyne's were housed for the night with 15 B. Whitcomb household across the street.

OWNER ABSENT.

The building affected by this morning's fire is owned by William Webber of Princess street, who, with his wife, is at present visiting in New York. The shop is badly charred inside, and the little parlor in the opposite section of the building, occupied by Mrs. Lynch, is badly smoked and somewhat damaged. Pictures, furniture, etc., are in a generally damaged state. The prompt response of the fire department when call No. 15 went in this morning is said to have saved the wooden structure from complete destruction. That the Pyne household in the upper floor is practically unaffected by the fierce blaze immediately beneath them is a tribute to Chief Vaughan's department, it was said this morning.

SEE THE FALLS

At high tide the water of the Bay of Fundy reaches a higher level than the water of the Saint John River and forces its way through the gorge of the Falls, creating a "Falls" running up to 100 feet high.

At low tide the water in the Bay becomes so much lower than that of the river, that the fall of water is the reverse of a waterfall. To fully appreciate this wonder of the world it should be seen at all tides.

The best time to view this phenomenon is:

As Hiram Sees It

THE SETTLEMENT—I went up to the hall Saturday night and peeked in at the country folks an' the town folks hevin' a dance. Well, sir—they was over a dozen sets up in an old-fashioned dance an' it would have tickled Henry Ford to see 'em an' hear the music. They was two or three jumpin' jacks on the floor—but the rest was doin' fine. My old ankles was achin' fer a quadrille but Hiram was right there an' if I had a twinge o' rheumatism fer the next week she'd say I orto her bed room sense than go out dancin' like an old fool. Well, sir—they was some otto mobels from town parked alongside the road, an' the hall was so full the folks was crowded—but Hiram was hevin' a great time. One feller told me to take my whiskers out o' the way—an' I hed half a ritual tell him to come out doors an' say it—but he was nothin' but a ramrod anyway. It's the health o' the season here now—an' you're liable to see most anything.

MAIL CARRIER IN KENT COUNTY IS ARRESTED

Three Saint John Officials Work on Case of Missing Money

DAVID M. OLSEN IS SENT UP FOR TRIAL

Test Letter With $2 Bill is Sent Out From Here

From Richibucto comes word that David M. Olsen, contractor for the carrying of mail between Harcourt and Richibucto, was arrested on July 22, on information laid by Postal Inspector John Emmerson of Saint John, and was taken before Magistrate Hugh M. Ferguson at Richibucto, charged with extracting money from postal letters. The accused was not asked to plead his case and was taken and he was sent up for trial before the County Court on August 8.

Complaints had been made to the department that funds had been missing from the mails and steps were taken to investigate the matter with the result stated.

TEST LETTER USED

It is understood the missing sums amounted in all to somewhere in the vicinity of $300 but the specific case under which the charge was brought was with respect to a United States two dollar bill, mailed in Saint John as a test letter.

SAINT JOHN MEN ON CASE

Postal Inspectors John Emmerson, William F. Griffith and H. B. Peck of Saint John had been working on the case for some days, one man at Harcourt, one at Richibucto and the other at Molus River. When the time was ripe the inspectors, armed with a search warrant, searched Olsen's house and it is said, found the American bill sent in the test letter.

AUTO IS RELEASED

Bathurst Men Explain Matter of Arrival Here Without Proper Plates

On recommendation of George L. Ingram, provincial tax inspector, a large automobile taken to police headquarters yesterday by Detectives Saunders and Kilpatrick, was released today to C. and A. Burdick of Bathurst, who arrived in the car Sunday afternoon. It was found not to have proper number plates.

It was said at police headquarters this morning that the two men, according to their own story, had been badly advised by the chief of police of their home town when he told them it would be all right to drive the car under the old license, provided that they had sent along their money to the tax inspector for their 1926 plates.

According to the police here this is what the men did but they neglected to wait until the present year number license had arrived in Bathurst before starting out.

The new number plates were secured today from Mr. Ingram, placed on the car and the pair started off on their journey—back home.
