UNEARTHLY OLD INSCRIPTION

Italian Savant Finds Roman Records in Cyrene in Africa.

London, Aug. 27.—A discovery which, it is said, will form one of the fundamental sources for a history of the Roman Empire under Augustus has been made recently by Dr. Oliviero, an Italian savant in Cyrene, the ancient Greek colony in Africa, found in the seventh century.

Morning Post correspondent, writing from Cyrene, says that excavations at Gergasi—the ancient Berberic, which lies in the midst of the gardens of the Hesperides, near the mouth of the River Lethe—have resulted in the unearthing of a block of marble eight feet long, one face of which bears a flawless Greek inscription of over one hundred lines. The translation of a letter from Augustus on the government and administration of justice in Cyrenaeica, giving a wonderful insight into the financial and judicial conditions of the country at that time.

Other interesting finds are a sanctuary dedicated to Eastern divinities, probably of the time of Julian the Apostate, with a remarkably well-preserved black marble statue of an Egyptian goddess. An extensive Ptolemaic cemetery, a Christian basilica of the fifth century is being excavated, and at Merti, an ancient Berber, some Coptic inscriptions have been found which are held to be of great importance when the history of the Arab conquest comes to be written.
