Jersey City, N. J., Dec. 10.—Behny Leonard, world's lightweight boxing champion, knocked out Mel Coogan of Brooklyn in the second round of an eight-round match here tonight. Leonard weighed 137 pounds and his opponent 134.

HOCKEY.
Getting Players.
Quebec, Dec. 10.—Harry Mummary has signed up with Quebec, along with Joe Malone, George Carey and Frank Brophy. Toronto wants to trade Corbett Dennison or Reggie Noble for Joe Malone, but Quebec will not do it.

BASEBALL.

Tris Speaker is having the head of the fine buck he shot on his hunting trip in Ontario mounted as a wedding present to Ray Chapman, Cleveland shortstop.

JOHNSON WINS IN AMERICAN LEAGUE BASEBALL MEETING.
New York, Dec. 10.—American League baseball club owners battled for some hours today in their annual meeting, and when the session ended, President B. B. Johnson was surrounded by a new board of directors favorable to his policies. The insurgent clubs were outvoted on every proposition, but went down fighting and serving summonses which promise to carry the disputed points into court.

HOW STETCHER PUT THE GIANT POLE TO MAT

When Wladek Zbysko and Joe Stetcher climbed into the ring at the 71st Armory, New York, for their catch-as-catch-can wrestling bout to a finish, advertised as being for the heavyweight championship, more than 10,000 persons taxed the capacity of the big place. The two grapplers were inclined to be cautious at the outset, and spent many precious moments feeling each other out.

The first sign of excitement came when the western marvel jumped suddenly at Zbysko and brought him to his knees with a head and arm hold. The Pole's strength, however, resisted further attack and he twisted into a similar grip by way of retaliation, but could hold it only for a fraction of a second before Stetcher was free and on his feet again.

Two more encounters on the canvas, in each of which Stetcher was the aggressor, resulted in his applying a real headlock for the first time, and there was an uproar as he gradually forced the bull-like neck toward the ground. But when a fall seemed likely Zbysko slid his head inside his shoulders like a turtle, and the lock was broken.

Another flurry of energy came soon afterward, however, with Stetcher just missing an attempt to get the dreaded body scissors hold with his legs.

Stetcher kept up his opponent's head on the canvas and edging round with his legs until he almost had them wrapped about the huge trunk. But the Pole was still too strong to submit to such obvious methods, and eventually slipped out again without damage.

Another onset, which produced a half nelson, had little more effect, the Pole keeping his bulk planted solidly in a sitting position, until Stetcher tired of the hold and freed him, barely keeping his toes clear as he did so.

Zbysko pulled a clever trick by slipping through the ropes the next time he was hard pressed, staying behind he was on the giant's head like a cat, pinning him down with a head scissors and arm lock. It was all done so quickly that few spectators had realized what happened. The Pole, himself dizzy from his revolutions, could offer only feeble resistance as the deadly combination of holds closed on him. His shoulders neared the canvas, and then stuck there until Referee Bothner slapped Stetcher on the back and declared him the winner. The official time of the bout was two hours, 24 minutes, six seconds.

Little Gertrude had been very naughty and had been severely slapped, first by nurse and then by mother, with a promise of another dose from father when he came home. She sat on the floor, her eyes full with angry tears. Suddenly she looked up with a determined look upon her face, and asked her father: "Where are you going?" asked her mother. "Out to tell all the family secrets to the neighbors," said the child firmly. Dallas News.
