LOCAL NEWS

LIKE A SUMMER DAY

Walking at noon today along Germain street between Princess and Queen streets, one had difficulty in believing that this was not a summer day. The sunshine was so warm and the grass on either side of the walk so vividly green, that the autumn seemed still a long way off. The temperature was delightful.

THE NEW WAREHOUSE

The walls of the big warehouse for the McCarly Mfg. Co. just below the customs house, are now up three stories above Prince William street, and five above Water street. Two more stories are yet to be added. The structure is a very substantial one, with heavy timbers for the interior framework.

ANOTHER BOULEVARD

While Queen street, between Germain and Charlotte, is being paved, the sidewalks will be narrowed a little and a strip of grass will lie between each sidewalk and the street. This makes it necessary to move the trees and the telephone posts inward a foot or two before setting the curb. When the street has been finished it will present a very pretty appearance.

SAMUEL D. DUNHAM.

Friends of Samuel D. Dunham, of Carmarthen street, were shocked to hear of his death, which occurred at an early hour this (Friday) morning. Although he had not been well for some time, he had only been confined to his house since Sunday. He is survived by his wife and five children—Samuel, Frank and George of this city; Mrs. H. McDonald; and Miss Julia at home; and one sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Stockford, of this city.

THE PEEL COMPANY MILL

When asked this morning concerning a report that the Stetson & White Co. intended taking over the mill of the Peel Lumber Co. at Stikney, Carleton county, and operating it, F. G. Bestley, manager for the concern here, said that he had no information to give regarding it. The rumor has been circulated freely about Stikney and the vicinity. The Peel Lumber Co. failed some time ago and there has been much speculation since as to what would be done with the plant.

MRS. MATILDA LINCOLN

The death of Mrs. Matilda J. widow of George Lincoln, occurred this morning at the residence of her sister, Mrs. John Anderson, 288 Guilford street, West End. The funeral will be held on Sunday afternoon at 2.30, to Cedar Hill from the residence, where Rev. H. A. Pierce will conduct services. Mrs. Lincoln is survived by a son, Lawrence, of St. John, two brothers, Herman Clifford of St. John and John J. Clifford of Oshawa, Ontario, and a sister, Mrs. John Anderson. She was the widow of John Lincoln, whom she married at Providence, R. I.

BOYS PLAYED BALL WITH SUDDEN DEATH

Toronto, Sept. 18.—Tossing a large stick of dynamite into the air and fighting for possession of it, three boys had a miraculous escape from death at the corner of Eastern avenue and Don Mills road last evening. Promptly after the part of a street railway employe prevented fatalities. Now the dynamite rests in a steel vault at the corner of police station and there are three badly frightened boys in the east end.

It is not known where the boys obtained the dynamite, but they claim to have found it near Frankel Brothers' Junction. The stick was a sound stick and is plainly marked "dynamite." Evidently they feared that this was the name of something good to eat, or at least to play with. They carried the stick along the road and stopped to have some fun. Just at that moment the car man took the dynamite to Wilton, avenue station, where Sergeant Lyndall wrapped it in cloth and put it away carefully.

Scot and Scotch And a Bed On The Ocean Wave

Peter Singleton Went Over Lawton's Wharf Seeking Repose—Gallant Rescue by Sergt. Baxter Had Sequel in Police Court

Peter Singleton, as Scotch as his name, and having in him also an insatiable desire for all things Scotch, including Dundee's greatest product, meandered along Water street last night, apparently exploring the sidewalk. Close behind him glided Sergeant Baxter, who had intentions regarding a few months' free lodging for Singleton.

The Scotchman with the Scotch, discovered Lawton's wharf and decided that the downy-looking green stuff over the side offered an excellent bed. When Sergeant Baxter arrived on the scene he necessary to move the trees and the telephone posts inward a foot or two before setting the curb. When the street has been finished it will present a very pretty appearance.

"You damn fool," yelled the sergeant, "come out of that. Dye want to be drowned?"

"Oh, I wan!" bashfully retorted Mr. Peter Singleton, unsuccessfully trying to rest his head on a debris-strewn wave. "I want to sleep."

Finding this process difficult where he was, however, he started to swim out also deep water. Sergeant Baxter was in a quandary. If he jumped into that water and saved Singleton his uniform would get wet. If he didn't there would be one Singleton and four pins less of Scotch within the next few minutes. A rope lying near solved the problem. Sergeant Baxter made a loop in the end of it and settled it over the head of the errant Glasgower as neatly as though he had done time on a Texas cow ranch. Exerting his strength he hauled the loudly protesting Singleton and his boots to the wharf.

WOULD LIKE TO GIVE THEM TWO YEARS ON FARM

Prisoner's Protest Against Lecture From Magistrate Elicited This Opinion

Judge Ritchie, in the police court this morning, gave the five drunks up before him one of his famous lectures. He searched the dictionary for words strong enough to express his disapproval of liquor and men who would poison themselves with it, and when the words weren't in the dictionary he manufactured them himself.

"You poor wretches!" he said, among other things. "You aren't as sensible as so many horses! You wreck your life with poison. I don't suppose any of you had parents sensible enough to bring you up in hatred of the liquor."

Then it was that John McKie, an Englishman, who had been muttering on the way for some time, got up. "See here, Your Honor," he exclaimed, "ain't it enough you should soak us without givin' us a call-down this way? Ain't it?"

"Come forward here," commanded the judge. The man came forward.

"Now, what is it?"

"You ain't got no right to call us down this way," said Mr. McKie, loudly. "I protest, You—"

"Why, you poor fellow!" interrupted Judge Ritchie, in a fatherly, commiserating tone, "you poor, poor fellow! Why, you haven't the right to be here at all! I wish I had some farm where I could send you wrecks of men for two years! Go back to your seat."

McKie retired in confusion.

FURTHER APPRECIATION OF W. J. McCAFFREY IN NEW YORK

Some days ago there was mention of an important step ahead taken by Wm. J. McCaffrey, formerly of St. John, but now high in the insurance business in New York. The Insurance Advocate devotes a page to an excellent picture and appreciative sketch of Mr. McCaffrey, saying in part:—

"Mr. McCaffrey has rendered faithful service to the new Amsterdam, is popular among the brokers and is highly esteemed in insurance circles. He has had a very valuable experience in the business, starting years ago with the F. & C. later joining the United States Casualty, then following Mr. Moore when he left that company to become eventually the president of the new Amsterdam. That was twelve years ago, since which time he has devoted his energies assiduously to the service of the new Amsterdam, latterly as general manager, and has gained for himself an enviable reputation for ability and high-mindedness in the business. The Globe indemnity has chosen exceedingly well, and Manager Reed is to be congratulated on securing so able and popular a lieutenant."

PROBATE COURT

The probate court this morning dealt with the estate of John Power of St. John, a deceased farmer. The deceased died intestate; his parents predeceased him and he left surviving one brother, Clarence H. Ferguson, of St. John, and three sisters, Catherine, widow of John Redmond of Black River, wife of Martin McGuire of St. John, wife merchant; Francis McGuire of Vancouver, British Columbia; Robert Power McGuire of Brighton, Mass., and George T. Power of New York, the latter a son of Richard Power, who was a brother of deceased. On the petition of the brother and the two sisters resident in the province, Robert Power, the brother, is sworn in as administrator. Real estate in the parish of Simonds valued at $600; an undivided interest in land at Loch Lomond $50. Personally $1,000. Clarence H. Ferguson is proctor.

In the estate of Michael T. Cavanaugh, shoe maker, deceased died intestate leaving him surviving his wife, Jane Cavanaugh and one child only, a daughter, Mary Agnes Ward of Hillsboro, Albert county, married woman. On the petition of the widow she is appointed administratrix. No real estate; personally $1,669. Robert G. Murray, proctor.

In the estate of Shubert S. Carvell, boat builder, deceased by his last will appointed George F. Carvell of St. John, Carvell and Harry Woodworth of St. John, N. B., druggists, to be his executors. A caveat having been filed by Daniel Mullin, K. C., proctor for one of the sons, the executors present the will and ask to have the same proved in solemn form. Citation issued returnable on Monday, 29th December next at 11 a. m. L. P. D. Tilley, proctor for the executors.

BILLIARD TOURNAMENT

Eight couples here were drawn to play in the "Sudden Death" billiard tournament at the Graham and Martell, Charlotte street parlors tonight. Among them are many of the best players in St. John, and interesting games are certain to result. The defeated player in each game will drop out and drawing will again be made for opponents, and so on, by a process of elimination, until the winner is declared and the prize offered by the management awarded. The tournament will probably continue tomorrow night and possibly next week. It will commence tonight at eight sharp. The referee has not been chosen yet, but it will probably be Mr. Martell, part owner of the parlors. The games will be 150 points.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Campbell are in the city on their way to Boston from their home in Port Hood, N. S., where Mr. Campbell is manager of the branch of the Bank of Montreal.
