Married.

Mr. Chas. Wright of this city, was united in marriage Wednesday evening to Miss Lillie Fought. The guests extended congratulations.

A Mistake.

Notice of dividend declared by the Central Fire Ins. Co., is 34 per cent. out of the half-year ending March 25th and not 25 as published in the "Advertiser."

Chap Sale.

J. G. McNally's cheap sale of house furniture, including goods, as advertised in another column will be continued next week. More goods have been reduced and more bargains may be expected. Now is the time to buy.

Board of Trade Meeting.

A meeting of the Board of Trade will be held next week in the council chamber of the city hall. The silver certificates will probably raise an interesting discussion and action be taken to allow them to circulate only at a discount.

Seriously Ill.

The many friends of Miss Lottie Cliff in this city, will hear with regret that the hotel which has been poor for some time is even worse since going to Boston, where she was to be treated for eye trouble by a specialist. Her condition necessitated her mother leaving for Boston Thursday morning.

Revenge is Sweet.

Mr. Andrews of the Collecting Agency, against whom the grand jury refused to find a bill at the St. John county court, has instructed his attorney to bring an action for malicious prosecution against James Stratton, at whose instance criminal proceedings were taken.

Agents to the Front.

We are again to the front with a beautiful line of spring and summer clothes suitable for suitings, pastings and overcoatings. We carry the largest and best assortment of goods to be found in the city, and can furnish you with anything in custom made clothing at the lowest prices. All work guaranteed at Joseph Walker's, the West End tailor.

Mr. J. S. Murphy.

The excellent Irish comedian, J. S. Murphy supported by a strong company, opened at the City Hall last night to a full house. Murphy appeared in his famous play "Kerry Gow," and the continued applause during the performance was proof positive that both Mr. Murphy and his company are as popular as ever. Tonight, Shaun Rhee will be presented.

A Very Interesting Case.

It is rumored that Mr. Fred Quartermain, whose wife it appears, did not receive very gentle treatment Monday night from the policeman who was after a prisoner who had escaped them, and who had sought shelter in her home, proposes taking action against the city for damages. The case leading into the front room had been locked by Mrs. Quartermain who refused to open it, and who claims that she was used in a brutal manner by the officers. It is understood, should action be taken, that Messrs. Geo. F. and A. J. Gregory will be retained by Mr. Quartermain. Nothing definite is yet known.

MILITARY FUNERAL.

Dr. T. Clowes Brown Buried With Military Honors—A Large Procession.

Dr. T. Clowes Brown, the well known and popular physician, and Surgeon of the Canadian Regiment of Infantry stationed in this city, was at church Sunday by apparent good health. His sudden death, which occurred shortly after 5 p. m., Tuesday, gave the community a terrible shock. He was at the morning service in St. Ann's church, and it was while there, that he complained of the illness which terminated fatally. He was able to walk home from church, but was not of his house afterwards. On Monday morning he was stricken with paralysis of the right side, and on Tuesday afternoon he died. His death was a great loss to the community, and his funeral was a grand affair. The funeral took place Thursday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, was one of the largest seen in this city for some years. The Canadian Regiment of Infantry, commanded by Lieut. Hemming led the procession; the band coming next with the hearse following. The array of floral tributes was very beautiful, the top of the hearse being literally covered. The pallbearers were: Major Lodge, Lieut. Col. Boone, Cropley, and Lieut. Hawthorne and Fisher. After the mourners came Lieut. Col. Mansell, Lieut. Col. Marsh, Major Armstrong of St. John, and other officers of the Infantry school. These were followed by the physicians of the city, they in turn being followed by hundreds of our citizens. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Canon Roberts assisted by Rev. Mr. Montgomery, St. Ann's church. From there the remains were taken to Forest Hill cemetery, where they were interred with all the military honors. The bereaved have the GLOBE's sincere sympathy in their affliction.

SEIZURE OF A YOUNG MINSTER.

TOOK POISON. Several men intruded broke into the house of Mr. J. D. McRay.

COLLAPSE, O. A. April 25.—A most sensational suicide developed last evening. Claude Wilson, an eloquent young divine of the Methodist Episcopal church, died from a dose of rough on rats.

Wilson had a charge at Shawville, where he showed a high gift of eloquence, but his eyes failed him and he had to return to the house of his father, John Wilson, a prominent citizen. The young man was in love with Miss Carrie Kingston and the two were engaged. The young woman thought the wedding should be postponed until Wilson had recovered and the two quarreling over the matter she broke the engagement. Sunday Wilson called on her and said if she did not marry him at 10 o'clock yesterday morning he would kill himself. He put in appearance and was ordered away by the young woman's brother Frank. The preacher drew a revolver, but was promptly knocked down. Wilson crawled to the porch, and as he dramatically swallowed the poison. He died last night.

One hundred and sixty guards at the Columbian Exposition have struck for an advance of wages.

The Marquis of Salisbury gave a reception at Hatfield House Monday to the delegates from Ulster, who went to London to take part in the public protest against the establishment of Home Rule in Ireland. The Duke of Devonshire and a host of Irish people opposed to Home Rule were present.

Chicago, April 24.—The losses to lake shipping in the gale of Wednesday night and Thursday of last week exceeded those of any previous storm in April that mariners have ever experienced on the lakes. The last of the wrecks has probably now been reported, as a number of boats, about which there was some anxiety, have all been heard from. The money loss aggregated about $250,000, with an insurance of $325,000.

Home Rule Bill.

The scene in the House of Commons on Saturday morning, at the carrying of the second reading of the Home Rule Bill, was dramatic. Overlaid in the lobby behind which members disappeared, sat the Prince of Wales, watching with eager interest. At his side sat Lord Carrington, himself thoroughly in touch with the bill, earnestly talking to the Prince about it. The Peers gallery was filled with men of noble names seldom seen up so late in the House. In the ladies' gallery Mrs. Gladstone bent forward to hear her husband's speech. Miss Cleveland, sister of the President of the United States, sat near her, almost as interested and in sympathy with the movement. Princess Victoria of Teck looked on with an amused expression. Lady Ragbaldy, Churchill, Miss Balgool and others filled the rest of the seats allotted to ladies and sat for hours.

There was a moment's silence, and then the Opposition members handed in nearly two hundred amendments, and this was a beginning. There will be 10,000 more, Mr. Balfour says. Of course there will be a great deal of discussion, and the bill will be carried on rather than submitted to further obstruction.

LONDON, April 23.—More incendiary fires were started in Hull yesterday at the timber dock, but were extinguished before doing much damage. Riotous crowds filled the streets near the docks and several fights between unionist and non-unionist laborers took place yesterday afternoon. The Anarchists in London have decided to make a demonstration in Hyde Park on May day.

The Stone Coping Fall.

LONDON, April 25.—The stone coping of several four-story houses in Peel road, Kilburn, fell yesterday afternoon, while the street was full of pedestrians. Four persons were killed and fifteen injured.

New York, April 25.—Whatever rumors to the contrary, it is my personal opinion that Mr. Booth will recover," is what Dr. Smith said after the Players' Club at midnight.

Navigation at the "Soo" canal began yesterday.

Jennings & Co. dry goods merchants of Simcoe have failed; $25,000 liabilities.

The license commissioners of London, Ont., are making bare close at ten o'clock and will grant no further licenses in excess of forty.

A fatal panic occurred at Naples, Sunday evening in the church of Torre Annunziata. During the services, which were attended by a very large number of persons, part of the draperies about the altar was blown against a lighted candle.

The flames spread with great rapidity, and the congregation made a rush for the doors. The wildest excitement prevailed, and women and children were thrown to the floor and trampled upon. The fire was quickly extinguished, and when some semblance of order was restored it was found that eight women and children had been crushed to death while hundreds of others had been more or less seriously injured.

N. E. S. Regulation 41, page 115 of the school law of New Brunswick, which says, "no pupil shall be enrolled (except by transfer) for admission to standard 1 later than two weeks after the opening of the school in any term," is now law, but will not be strictly enforced until after the beginning of the next term.

Observation.

It is highly important that every student should cultivate his powers of observation to the highest possible degree of excellence. A person with a perfect memory, if such a thing can be conceived, would still be lacking in much that goes to make up a thorough student if his power of observation was inferior or poorly disciplined. The most logical mind finds its conclusions absurd and irrelevant unless they are based upon correct premises arrived at by careful observation. To the person with literary aspirations it is also especially important to observe accurately, and many distinguished authors owe their eminence to reaching the soul of matters by observation. There is nothing that will show the results of training more readily than the power of observation, and nothing in which habits of carelessness are quicker to bear fruit. This can readily be proved by any person who takes the pains to follow the matter up for a short time and possess a course of self-discipline in this direction. All that is needed is care, and things can be seen which never existed before, at least not for that particular person. Let the eye every object as far as possible in detail. Practice this rigidly until it becomes habit, and the thing is accomplished. The student need not vary with the previous history of the individual, and from some other minor circumstance, but the results will soon be noticeable. The whole secret is in personal diligence. The matter is worthy of strict attention, however when we remember that at walked into the House from the division which has not been disciplined his powers of observation, and that he walks blind to the beauties and advantages which surround him. Careless reading is especially dangerous to the student who would excel as an observer, as it tends toward a result directly opposite to that which he seeks. The careless reader must not be confounded with the rapid reader of some students. The most accurate observers are the very persons who are able to read and acquire most rapidly, as they can discriminate at a glance between the useful and the useless, and thus select or reject as they may desire. This matter of reading observation is one that demands care and patience, but nothing more, to carry it to the greatest perfection.—Bena.

Scrapes from Authors.

What is really wanted is to light up the spirit that is within a boy. In some sense and in some essential degree, there is in every boy the material of good work in the world; in every boy, not only in those who are quick, but in those who are dull, and even in those who are dull.—Cleveland.

When you set out to do anything never let anything disturb you from doing that one thing. The power of putting the thought on one particular thing, and keeping it there for a long time, is the power of doing it well, and long time to get into the habit.—Thomas A. Edison.

The key to success in any department of life is self-denial. Idleness, laziness, wastefulness, come from lack of it; while industry, promptness, economy, thrift and a successful career are the result of it.—Neal Dow.

Do your work well whether it be for life or death. Help other people at times when you can, and seek to avenge no injury. Be sure you can do good before you begin to do evil.—Runkin.
