

AS FROM THE DEAD.

BUFFALO, July 18.—Four months ago Christian Schamber, a tall-to-do butcher, disappeared from the city in a mysterious manner, and on June 30 a body which was declared to be Schamber's, was taken out of the canal at Black Rock.

Mrs. Schamber took the body home and made all preparations for the funeral, but a few hours before the time set for the ceremony sent the body back to the morgue.

Others came and viewed it. Friends and acquaintances of Schamber, and they declared that it was Schamber's body. The widow steadily persisted, while new witnesses arose daily to contradict her.

After hearing 27 witnesses and continuing in session two weeks, Coroner Parsons' jury at last declared "from the evidence adduced this jury finds that the said body is that of Christian Schamber."

The body was buried by the county. Then came the last and crowning feature of a very strange and mysterious case.

Mrs. Schamber after all was over; made up her mind that the dead man was Schamber, and wanted to take the body from the potter's field and bury it anew with a private funeral, but this was refused.

While court East Buffalo, 1184, of the Independent Order of Foresters was deep in the solemn mysteries of initiation at its hall last night there came a strange interruption. The outside guard was almost asleep when there came a faint tap on the door of the hall.

He started to his feet and called to the watchman. He opened the door and saw a man in a white coat, who came in and closed the door behind him. "Brother Christian Schamber," said the man in a low, hoarse voice, "come now, no fooling," answered the guard through the wicket, for he believed Schamber to be dead.

"Brother Christian Schamber," came the answer in a clearer voice. The door was opened by the impatient sentinel, and there stood the man who was supposed to be occupying a grave in potter's field. He was admitted to the hall, and the room and there followed a wild scene. The members could scarcely believe their eyes, but there stood brother Schamber, the man from whom the charter was draped in mourning, looking as if he had come from the land of spirits.

According to his story Schamber left home on account of family trouble. He went west and for nine weeks had been confined in a hospital suffering from malaria fever.

Coroner Ransom refuses to believe the man is Schamber, whom the jury declared dead. He says a man in a head of Schamber's old friends recognized him to-day. The strange occurrence is the cause of a sensation here.

A GOLD BRICK TRICK.

What a joy he looked! The hayseed was dropping out of his pockets, and his unkempt whiskers were sporting with the wind as he marched into the United States assay office on Wall Street and deposited upon a desk a big carpet bag, which he set down with a resounding bang. All the clerks stood around and grinned. It was the old story.

"Mr. Assay Man," he said, "I have here a gold brick that I want you to assay. It is a young man in a corner nearly rolled on the floor with merriment. A banker's clerk who had come in to inquire about a gold shipment giggled till he was crimson.

"Sucker born every minute," he said. "Same old yarn. You jayhawkers would get taken in in so far as you read the papers. Oh, Lord, what a fool you must be!"

The old man looked puzzled. "If you will kindly talk English," he remarked, "you and I will be able to understand each other better. What do you mean by calling me a fool?"

"Precisely what I say," spoke up the banker's clerk. "You've been taken in by the gold brick swindle."

"Swindle, eh?"

"Yes, swindle. You met a man from California, didn't you, who had a gold brick tied up in a red handkerchief and an Indian with him. Mac said the brick was worth $9,000, and he'd sell it for $5,000. He did."

"Oh, what a lark!" laughed the banker's clerk and every one in the office was laughing at the mystification of the jayhawker. "The Californian said the Indian knew where there were a lot more gold bricks and they've gone to get them. And then they sold you a lump of lead covered with gold paint that is worth about $4.65, and you've come down here to the United States assay office to have the lead analyzed and get told what a monkey you've made of yourself." And everyone laughed with mirth.

"Not so fast, young man," objected the jayhawker. "You were right about the Californian and the redskin selling me the gold brick, but there your information ceased. 'Taint no bit of lead that I chipped off on me. I had a chip of it analyzed. No, sir, I was born yesterday, if I am from the country."

"You had it assayed?" burst out the banker's clerk, almost exploding with the intensity of his grin. "You knocked a corner off the brick, and then they changed it on you, substituting a bit of real gold out from a $5 gold piece. That of course was found to be all right, and they landed you like an old guy, high and dry." (Laughter.)

"No, they didn't," protested the jayhawker. "I've got the genuine thing. I'll bet you $50 it's a real gold brick." And he pulled out three tons of money named and threw it on the table.

There were cries of "Don't take the old chump's money." "He's been done once, and 'taint fair to bet on a sure thing." The jayhawker however protested. "I'm rich," he said. "I've got a lot more money than you spend on gold bricks, and if any one can fool me I want to know it. I'll like to take a liar on it anyway."

The banker's clerk hardly liked to cheat the jayhawker, but all the rest said that the lesson would be worth $500 to the old fellow.

"I'll make the bet without looking at the brick," said the banker's clerk. "The terms of it are that you've been fooled and that you bought a lump of lead or something like that." Money talks. Here's mine, and he threw $500 on the table. There were some moral scruples in the minds of the crowd about doing the old man up in that way, but the majority view was that he deserved it for being so fresh.

The money being deposited, the jayhawker slowly unpacked his carpet bag in the presence of a broad grin. There were derisive cheers as he took the gold brick from the money coverings he had wound around it and handed it to the assayer.

The official accepted it, and a look of amazement came over his face.

"Gentlemen," he said "this brick will not need any assaying. It was made in this building, and has the government stamp upon it. It is worth $10,000."

The jayhawker reached for the stake money and transferred it to his pocket. The grin on the face of the know-it-all clerk changed to an expression of pain as he turned to the man nearest to him and politely requested that he kick him to the foot of Wall Street and off into the East River.

The only person in the crowd who was smiling now was the jayhawker. Turning to the assayer, who had taken no part in the proceedings, he said:

"I had business here, but I have transacted it. My business is exclusively with smart young alecks who know it all and want to enlighten the old suckers. Good-day, gentlemen." He bowed upon them for a moment and was gone.

Outside the assay office he was joined by a young man who likely enough "copped" his game when occasion required.

"Did it work, uncle?" inquired the latter anxiously.

"Work! Did it ever fail? Let's go up to one of the Broadway banks, and you can start a crowd guessing and betting as to whether it's real gold." Work.

The old man looked so guileless and innocent that every second citizen they met had a mind to sell him some gold to pick his pocket.—New York Herald.

A St. Mary's Lumberman's Shocking.

(Reuter Correspondent, July 18.)

DANFORTH, Me., July 17. Saturday afternoon about 5 o'clock the town was started by the report that a man had been killed in a row at the Foss House stable. John Edgar, a man about 40 years of age, had been having some trouble with Bella Noyes, who acts as hostess and runs a bar in some part of the stable, which finally culminated in a row in which Edgar received a death blow. When found he was all covered with blood. His face and neck were badly bruised, and he was unconscious. He could not have lived but a few minutes after he was struck. In the stable where he was found there were three horses which Noyes was feeding. A small amount of corn had been scattered on the floor and a necktie and a cuff lay near the body.

Immediately upon the discovery the remains were carried into the office of the hotel and the selection ORDERED THE ARREST OF NOYES, which was finally accomplished after quite a hard run through the pastures and woods.

Edgar had worked in the woods in this neighborhood for the past year, generally as cook. As soon as he had finished work he had been drinking and things did not go to suit him. When they did not, his temper was not slow in rising. He had been around town the past four days drinking quite hard, and Saturday he was determined to have it out with Noyes, and followed him around all day threatening to pound him.

Edgar's demons say that he was with Edgar nearly all day, and that Noyes sold Edgar liquor in the morning, but after the latter got him he refused to sell him more. This saddened Edgar who threatened to kick him. About 5 o'clock Demmons saw Edgar go to the barn. Following him a short time later he FOUND EDGAR UNCONSCIOUS. He assisted in carrying the injured man to the hotel, where he died in a very short time.

Joel Foss, the proprietor of the Foss House, which is largely patronized by men who follow the woods and river driving, says that no doubt Noyes killed Edgar, but he declares most firmly that it was not intentional, and that Noyes did was done in self-defence, as Edgar had been there several times threatening the day threatening him.

Wm. R. Foss says that Noyes had trouble with Edgar some six months ago about some disturbance in the house. Foss says he was in the carriage house adjoining the stable when Mrs. Noyes went past going in to the stable. He followed her. When he first saw the man they were coming out from the horse stall where they had both fallen. He says that Noyes struck Edgar once or twice after that. He did not hear either man say anything, and he took Noyes away from the stable man. Foss declares that Edgar was threatening to "do Noyes up."

THE PRISONER TALKS. The prisoner talked very freely with the Commercial correspondent. He is 31 years of age, stoutly built, a pleasant man, and tells a straight story. He says some six months ago Edgar was making a disturbance in the house and he told him to keep quiet. They had some words then and whenever Edgar had gotten to drinking since he had invariably wanted to fight him (Noyes). Several times Saturday he was in the stable, took his coat and vest off and was bound to fight. Noyes says that he went away and left him, and about 4 o'clock went to get shaved. He told parties there that he had been followed all day by this fellow, who was bound to fight, and did not know how he would get rid of him. About 5 o'clock he went to the stable and met Will Foss, whom he told where he had been. Noyes went to feed the horses and Foss went into the carriage house. Edgar came in after Noyes had fed one or two horses and without any delay ASSAULTED HIM VIGOROUSLY. They clinched and both fell in a stall by the side of a horse. They scrambled out of the stall and struck Edgar once or twice with his fist. He says no one was in the stable besides them except his wife. What he did he asserts was in self-defence, and that after being followed all day by this fellow who intended to pound him.

Mrs. N. B. Backman, who keeps a restaurant near the scene of the killing, says she heard the noise and went to the door. They were just bringing Edgar out of the stable. Mrs. Noyes was attempting to close the stable door and finally did so. In a few minutes Noyes came into her shop and asked for lemons. She said "My God! Bella, is the man dead?" and the man replied, "I hope to—he is."

Mrs. Keirstead says Edgar was in her house about five o'clock and wanted to find a man to punch Bella's nose. He was then so drunk he could hardly stand. She told him to keep away from Noyes and let him alone. Oliver Keirstead met Noyes near his house when he was attempting to escape by seeking a hiding place in the woods and asked him if the man was dead. Noyes's answer was "No; I only hit him with my bare fist. He is not hurt bad enough to die."

THE NEWS IN DANFORTH. A gentleman who came from Danforth yesterday morning, said that the remains were a horrible sight. The murdered man's head was terribly crushed in on one side while his face had been pounded until it was almost beyond recognition. The lips of the man had been swollen three or four times their ordinary size, and all the marks seemed to indicate that the murderer had used some iron weapon with fearful force and brutality.

Noyes must have used some weapon which he could wield with a right hand effect, a piece of iron or a heavy bludgeon of wood, which a gentleman thought it impossible for any man to have inflicted such ghastly wounds with his fist alone. It is said that even Edgar's neck was broken, which is an indication of the awful violence of the assault upon him.

The remains of the murdered man arrived at Danforth on Tuesday last week in charge of his brother, Hugh Edgar, and were taken to St. Mary's for interment.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE TONIC AND Stomach & Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar. It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nerve Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the proprietors and manufacturers of the Great South American Nerve Tonic, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by a few of the most learned physicians, who have not brought its merits and value to the knowledge of the general public.

This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia, and diseases of the general nervous system. It is also of the greatest value in the cure of all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the great nerve tonic qualities which it possesses, and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nerve Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body, and as a great renewer of a broken-down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the lungs than any consumption remedy ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. ### NERVOUS DISEASES:

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nerve Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow, and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied; and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nervous system recovers. As the nervous system is supplied with this power which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear and tear of the nervous system. Labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This South American Nerve Tonic has been found by analysis to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its universal adaptability to the cure of all forms of nervous degeneration.

CHATHAM, N. B., July 22, 1893. To the Great South American Nerve Tonic, I have been in a distressed condition for many years from Nervousness, Weakness of the Stomach, Dyspepsia, and indigestion, and my health was gone. I had been doctoring myself, but with no relief. I bought one bottle of your Great South American Nerve Tonic, and it cured me. I would advise every one who is suffering from any of the above mentioned ailments to try this Nerve Tonic. It is a great medicine, and I have cured me completely. I consider it the greatest medicine in the world. A. J. BROWN, Esq. Toronto, Ontario, Canada.

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITUS' DANCE OR CHOREA.

My daughter, eleven years old, was severely affected with St. Vitus' Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nerve Tonic, and she is completely recovered. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus' Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, and for all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health, from whatever cause. JOHN T. MEELE, State of Indiana, Montgomery County, Ind.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this June 22, 1893. CHAS. MURPHY, Notary Public, Chatham, N. B.
