HOW'S THIS FOR A BASEBALL SCORE

The scoring members of the Newton, Mass., Lower Falls Playground girls' baseball team ran something like five miles on the basepaths Tuesday afternoon, doing the 120-yard circuit 73 times. Meanwhile their opponents, the Newton Highlands Playground girls' team, scored twice.
All this in four innings. The teams were to play five, but the leg-weary Lower Falls players proposed that the final session be not played and inasmuch as the other team's prospects of winning out in the fifth looked dubious, the proposition was accepted.
The game was one scheduled in the Newton Playground League and was played at the Lower Falls Playground.

GRAND CIRCUIT RACING

Detroit, July 30—Lee Axworthy, owned by the Pastime Stables of Cleveland, and driven by William Andrews, this afternoon won the 26th renewal of the M. & M. $10,000 stake from the greatest field of trotters which ever faced the starter in this class.

The M. & M. was the feature of the week's Grand Circuit programme. Lee Axworthy led all the way in the first heat of the M. & M.
Ben Locanda took three of the four heats in the 2:13 pace, with Bingen Pointer always close up.
Pat Carmody led the way in the first heat of the 2:18 pace.
The Wayne Hotel sweepstakes for three-year-old trotters went to Colorado Range after three heats.

Catherine McLaughlin, the Newton Lower Falls moist ball pitcher, gave a good account of herself, and she was caught cleverly by Florence Healey, whose throw to her was a feature.

Dorothy Stewart pitched for Newton Highlands Playground and her sister, Esther, was on the receiving end. The former pitched well at times, but her team-mates failed to give her any kind of support.
Louise Edsall, Sargent School, 15, who is supervisor of the Lower Falls Playground, has developed what she considers a very formidable nine, and her proteges scored so frequently this afternoon that she had all she could do to keep tally. As it is, she is not quite certain that she recorded all of her team's runs. The score:
Innings . . . 1 2 3 4 R
Newton Lower Falls . . . 4 25 10 34—73
Newton Highlands . . . 1 0 0 1—2

HIGHEST SALARIED BALL CLUB

The highest salaried club in the major leagues is the Detroit Tigers, Tyrus Cobb, greatest of them all, is also the best paid of any player. His salary is estimated anywhere from $12,000 up to $16,000. Although President Frank J. Navin of the Detroit club, following a well known rule and time honored custom, never has made public the amount of money he pays his star, it is known that Cobb receives more than $12,000.

Although various press reports have at times given out statements that Tyrus Cobb draws $16,000, it can be said on authority that Speaker's salary is a few thousand less than Cobb's. And on what Speaker has shown this season he is worth less than half as much as Cobb.

Hughie Jennings is the highest salaried manager in the major leagues. Jennings went to Detroit on a contract calling for $5,500 a year, but President Navin tore up this contract before Jennings' first season was half over and handed him a blank contract, instructing Hughie to put in his own figures. Besides getting a heavy salary, Jennings also draws down a percentage of the receipts, which is something few major league managers have ever done.

Sam Crawford and Donie Bush each get $8,000 or more, and Veach is right behind them. George Burns, who in his first year as a major leaguer, which was in 1914, batted .390, also got a big increase this year. Marty Kavanagh is likewise drawing nearly $5,000 for this year's work. Moriarity and Viti are close to the $5,000 mark. Three pitchers, George Burns, Jess Dabuc and Harry Coveleski each get $5,000 or more. Daus probably more. Stange is a $5,000 catcher and two other backstops are well above the minor league pay.

It takes quite a lot of cash to meet the salary figures of such a collection of stars.
Rev. J. B. Cox, B. A., and L. L. Sharpe were passengers down river yesterday on the steamer, Victoria.
