Bride's Year Draws StudentsNew Curriculum Offered at University of London—Business Affairs Studied.By LYDIA B. COMMANDER.
(Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service.)

London, Sept. 21.—Any British young woman about to marry—or with no notion of marrying, for that matter—may now go to the University of London, enter King's College for Women, take a brand new course of study known as "Bride's Year," and in due time become the proud possessor of the "Bride's Diploma."

Bride's Year has a curriculum unlike anything ever offered to women in an English university, and young women from many parts of Great Britain are flocking in to take the studies.

The subject of study for the Bride's Year includes a general knowledge of household management, budgets, laundry work and household wifery, physiology, hygiene and infant hygiene; business affairs, biology and general economics.

Another one year's course gives a thorough training in "business affairs." It is particularly interesting and certainly very business-like. It includes book-keeping and accounts generally; banking, cashiers, and all necessities of money; shorthand, typewriting, interviews, committee work, and other foundations of business training about which the average woman knows all too little.

Good Housewife.
The development of this far-reaching conception in the education of women by a great English university, is thoroughly indicative of a new order of things, which has lately come into British life as a by-product of the war.

The British matron of the past was a notable housewife. Famous were her recipes for gooseberry wine, black currant jam and pudding, not to mention "road in the hole," "bubbles and squeaks," and other delicious dishes with extraordinary names. Mistress Primrose, wife of the good old Vicar of Wakefield, was a simple soul who could scarcely add up her meagre household accounts, but her domestic accomplishments enabled her to evolve family comfort and plenty from her husband's all too modest stipend.

Other times other manners. There came a day in England when prudence and shrewdness pushed the homely virtues out of place, and both Madame and Miss sought ease instead of usefulness, and show rather than solidarity. Work, especially housework, was scorned as something plebeian.

Pre-War Foolishness.
Just before the war, the head mistress of a school for the daughters of comfortable middle-class people told me she had been forced to discontinue a domestic science course, which was part of the school's curriculum, because there was no demand for it. "On the contrary," she said, "mothers resent the idea of their girls learning housework. 'I don't want my daughter taught servants' work' is a frequent comment."

The last few years have witnessed a decided return to the other viewpoint. Loss of income, the impossibility of getting servants, and the newly awakened activity of women of all classes have combined to make housework efficiency a desired and sought accomplishment. Colleges and schools are featuring domestic science, and the demand for trained instructors far exceeds the number of those who can do the job. Whether she is going to be married or to follow any particular career, the knowledge will be useful to her.

Being the Confessions of the Seventh-Hundredth Wife

Consider the Gaffer, my Daughter.
For he is the Son of Joy, and the heart of his wife rejoiceth in him.
He requirith not to be awakened, but ariseth at dawn, and arouneth the whole house.

Mighty are his preparations, and there is much rushing about amongst the women, to find his THINGS.
He swalloweth his breakfast without complaint, and fortifieth himself at the font within his footie.

Optimism is his middle-name; and in his bright lexicon, there is no such word as "fash."

The mind of his wife is at peace; for she knoweth where he is all day; and in the evening he is weary, and goeth to sleep, after dinner. Whatsoever his wanderings, and however long his absence, she fetheth no jealousy, but saith, "Think heaven, he is safe!"

His moods, his growches, and his temperamentalism are known only to his God and his caddy; and, in the open, where it can do no harm, he throweth off the carbon of his brain-excesses.

The "touch of liver" knoweth him not, and dyspepsia is a stranger unto him.

The sun lighteth up his countenance, and his figure keepeth its beauty; embonpoint cometh not near him. He lacketh not a tonic for conversation, and concerning his score, the TRUTH is not in him.

He is happy in his folly, and woeveth the snipe that will not come off.

He preferreth a pleasant day into a moonlight night, and a beautiful course unto a beautiful woman.

And a smile of approval from his caddy, he findeth more thrilling than the smiles of blondes and of slaves.

Verily, verily, a little HOBBO is a wonderful thing.
For every man must have his folly, whereon he worketh off the original sin within him.

And some choose wine, and some tobacco, and some flirtation.
But the GOLPER exceedeth them all in wisdom.

Then, blessed be the driver, and the motor, and the masie and the nibble, and the little white rubber ball!

For where Golf is, there is sweetness and light—and a good digestion.

And no man can be a good golf player and a bad husband!
Selah.

A BOY'S DOG.

Frances C. Hamlet.

They say he's just an ordinary cur—My pup;

An' all the 'riscarcodogs in town Are higher up
In pedigree!

(That means dog families, an' 'bout what Good dogs should be.)

But he's a dog—four legs, two ears, A tail—

An' not
A dog in town has more, 'cept pedigree!
If so, now what?

He's got sense, too, inside his homely head.

About
Like rolls; that time I couldn't swim He pulled me out.

The stylish dogs won't chase a stick Or bring A packer just trot in the park Upon a string!

His color doesn't matter, long ago I loved
But now I know That though they call him just a yellow cur,

He's white inside!

to me: "Most women are appallingly ignorant of elementary business affairs, and it is always to their own disadvantage. Such instruction should be included in the education of every girl, no matter what she is going to do in life. Whether she is going to be married or to follow any particular career, the knowledge will be useful to her."

A third choice of a one year's course covers "Home Nursing" and is very full and thorough. The subjects of study include practical and theoretical physiology, hygiene, lectures, with visits to and practical work at infant welfare centres; biology, bacteriology and pharmacology; cookery, particularly invalid and infant cookery; and laundry work of the finest type.

Trained to Teach.

The girl who takes all three courses is not only thoroughly equipped for domestic life, she is fully qualified as a teacher of domestic science; and every encouragement is given to the clever, ambitious girls to take the complete training.

"The Diploma Course is our great aim, and the three years' training is truly necessary for a girl contemplating a professional career in Household or Social Science," said the Dean.

"Many girls are precluded from entering upon a three years' course, however, and for such the special one-year course has been initiated. It must stipulate and widen interest in those subjects with which women are particularly concerned, and is especially useful for those who wish to prepare themselves for the efficient management of their own homes."

"All such training, whether for one year or three is, also, of course, emphatically useful to women who have no idea of getting married. In no case can our training ever be regarded as wasted. It all makes for the progress of women and the betterment of the world; gives women a fuller understanding of life and a clearer understanding of life values."

For New Styles and Pretty Arms

(Beauty Notes)

Women are fast learning the value of the use of delatone for removing hair or fuzz from face, neck or arms.
A paste is made with some powdered delatone and water and spread on the hairy surface. In 2 or 3 minutes it is rubbed off, the skin washed and every bit of hair has disappeared. No failure will result if you are careful to buy genuine delatone and mix fresh as wanted.

Women's Cabinet
Strong For EconomyWill Sweep Away Useless Ministries and Institute Reforms.By LYDIA B. COMMANDER.
(Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service.)

London, Sept. 21.—A group of able spirited and important English women have practically constituted themselves a Women's Cabinet, to deal with the vital questions of the day.

Not all of them tackle every problem, but a group of them are always to be found pushing forward every noteworthy reform. Evidently they have just issued a warning to the nation of impending bankruptcy, and have outlined some drastic economies.

Their general idea is sweep away useless ministries and make those that remain in the highest degree active and useful.

Here are their suggestions:—

1. That the recommendation of the Committee on National Expenditure in their last report, to the effect that the decision of the Cabinet that the Ministry of Munitions should cease to be a spending department, be given effect.

2. That the Food Ministry be abolished.

3. That the recommendation of the Committee on National Expenditure, to the effect that some departments of the Ministry of Labor be closed down, and the expenditure of the others carefully scrutinized, be given effect to at once.

4. That the same apply to the Ministry of Transport.

5. That the policy of the Ministry of Health should be to consolidate positions already won, and, in view of the financial position, to postpone further development.

6. That in consideration of the failure of the housing scheme of the Ministry a term be put to such schemes, that no fresh ones be considered, that building materials be de-controlled, and private enterprise reverted to at the earliest possible moment.

7. That the Ministry of Education report what is now being spent per head on the education of the juvenile population, and that in view of the financial position any further expan-sure be as far as possible postponed.

8. To reconsider all dotes and subsidies, and to cancel them as soon as possible.

The appeal continues:—

"We earnestly advise every woman to buy the reports of the Committee on National Expenditure, and in view of the national bankruptcy which is threatening us, to take all measures by holding meetings in their constituencies, and by writing to their members of Parliament, to do their duty as voters to avert it. We will endeavor to find speakers for any meeting which may require them, and to help in any way possible."

It is signed by the Countess of Ar-rath, Lady South, Lady Frances Balfour, Viscountess Cowdray, Lady Nott, Lady St. Helier, Dr. Mary A.
Scholar (the famous scientist), the Countess of Selborne, Mrs. Fox, Lady Mayores of Manchester, Miss Baden-Powell (sister of Sir R. Baden-Powell), and Lady Spencer-Churchill, all devoted public service.

HONOR MARY MILES MINTER.

Recently Mary Miles Minter, the Realtor star, and her grandmother, Mrs. Miles were special luncheon guests at the Army Ballroom School, Arcadia, California, Mary, who has made unnumbered airplane trips, was intensely interested in the big government gas bags. She clambered in one of them and was hoisted to a height of twenty or thirty feet—but no more owing to a military prohibition. She is now, however, a firm devotee of lighter-than-air flying and intends going up in a local "blimp pony" at the earliest possible moment.

NO HUNGER STRIKE FOR MISS WHITESt. John Woman Eats Anything Set Before Her Since Taking Tanlac.

"I have never found any medicine to equal Tanlac, and I would like everybody to know what a blessing it has been to me," said Miss Lillie White, of 114 Charlotte street, St.
John, N. B.

"I simply can't tell all I've suffered on account of indigestion during the last four years. Why, I couldn't even eat the lightest foods without having terrible pains afterwards, and for hours after every meal I was bothered so much with gas that I was in perfect misery."

"I never ate anything for breakfast and sleep at other times because of what I know I would suffer afterwards. My sleep at night never seemed to do me any good, and I always woke up with a bad taste in my mouth. I had headaches that made me feel like I wanted to scream and at times became so dizzy I had to lie down to keep from falling."

"I shall always be grateful to the friend who advised me to try Tanlac, for today I am like a different woman entirely. My digestion has so improved that I can eat anything I want and don't know what it is to suffer from pains in my stomach or gas. The very first bottle did me a world of good and I have improved right along with every bottle I have taken since."

"I never have a touch of headache or dizziness now, sleep well at night, and get up in the morning rested and refreshed. I have gained fully ten pounds in weight and just feel as strong and well as can be. My mother has also been taking Tanlac with splendid results and we both think there's nothing like it."

Tanlac is sold in St. John by Ross Drug Co. and F. W. Munro under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative.—Adv.

FROST TONIGHT.

Apple-green west and an orange bar,
And the crystal eye of a lone one star—
And "Child, take the shears and cut what you will.

Frost tonight—so clear and dead—Still!

Then I rally forth, half sad, half proud,
And I come to the velvet imperial crowd.

The white, the gold, the crimson, The pied—
The dahlia that reign by the garden-side.

The dahlia I might not touch till tonight.
A gleam of the shears in the fading light.

And I gathered them all—the splendid thrush
And in one great sheaf I bore them along.

In my garden of life with its all-time flowers
I breed a vase in the shrinking hours: Frost tonight—so clear and dead—still—Half sad, half proud my arms I fill.

Several communications in con-day at the regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. These were from Mrs.

Peery, Summerside, Provincial Presivincial Recording Secretary, and Mrs.

O'Neill, President of the Union at Dorchester. Matters regarding dele-

Mrs. Hoar, treasurer, brought information regarding tickets.

Michael Kelly was then introduced and he gave an excellent talk on "Temperance," which was much appreciated.

The Union welcomed back yesterday many members who have been sum-Hippwell presided, and her talk on prayer was an inspiring one. The devotions were led by Mrs. Hoar.

A collection was taken for flowers.

FIGHTING FAMINE IN CHINA.
Pekin, Sept. 21.—The latest reports of a famine coming from China, where the crops are two-thirds below normal, Chinese philanthropists have formed a five-province relief society headed by Liang Shu Yo, China's leading businessman, who has informed the American legation of a desire to have American drive the work among the foreigners and take charge of the distribution of the funds.

The boards of Interior Finance and Agriculture have organized a joint relief commission. The president and promoter have subscribed $100,000 each.

A circular appealing for funds has been sent to officials everywhere. The central southern provincial authorities have been instructed to establish rice reserves for future shipment to the famine areas.
