CAMPUS CONNECTION

What is it?

Campus Connection is a group of volunteer peer counsellors available to the entire York population.

Why would I talk to a peer counsellor instead of a friend?

Sometimes situations arise that require an objective listener who can listen, help clarify the situation as well as the emotions associated with it, perhaps offer alternatives, all without the personal biases that a friend, who knows you well, may bring into an emotionally charged situation. In other words, the counsellors have sufficient distance from a situation to remain objective.

What kind of training do the counsellors have?

Each counsellor has attended numerous seminars on a wide variety of topics, ranging from human sexuality to family dynamics, and as a result are well informed. If a situation is beyond the capability of a counsellor, each has a wealth of information to read up on the problem, or to aid in making referrals.

Where is Campus Connection located?

It is in the lobby of N 205 Ross and the hours are M-F, 9-5. The telephone number is 667-3509, or to leave a message, 667-3623.
