

OMB will rule on apartment proposal

It appears that the controversial application by Ontim Investments for two apartment buildings on Dundas Street is going to be settled by the Ontario Municipal Board.

Peter James, lawyer for Ontim, said in a letter to planning committee chairwoman Hazel McCallion that Ontim's "sincere efforts" to settle the matter with ratepayers "have been delayed beyond the point of endurance."

Ontim has applied to the OMB for a hearing date and will not participate in further negotiations.

James complained that at a planning committee meeting three weeks ago, representatives of the Glen Sharon Ratepayers' Association were allowed to speak, but he was not.

Planning committee at that time deferred Ontim's new compromise proposal for a high-rise on Dundas Street and townhouses to the south because residents hadn't seen detailed plans.

Ontim originally proposed an eight-storey and a six-storey apartment for a site south of Dundas, opposite Cedar Glen Gate. Ratepayers say the lands should be developed for detached and semi-detached homes or townhouses.

Negotiations between the developer and ratepayers have been going on for some time, without success. Ontim is proposing to build two rental apartment buildings. It is expected that it will refer that original plan to the OMB.

Planning committee decided to have McCallion draft a reply to James' letter, in conjunction with City Planner Russ Edmunds and City Solicitor Basil Clark.

If Ontim refuses to speak to its application, the city may make a recommendation without the developer's additional input.

Meanwhile, planning committee has called a public meeting about an application just east of Ontim's lands. Hemus Developments Ltd. wants to put on-street townhouses, detached and semi-detached homes on the property, which is zoned for stacked townhouses. Glen Sharon ratepayers are supporting the Hemus application.

The public meeting is to be called after a site plan has been submitted, satisfying planning staff concerns about vegetation and topography of the property.

Fritterfest

Budget set at $82,110 for September event

By JOHN CHALLINOR
Times Staff Writer

The executive committee of the Mississauga Community Festival Fritterfest '78 has developed a budget of $82,110 for the production of the late September city-wide event.

The budget, originally estimated at $50,700, had to be changed because of the increase in printing costs of the program, the central source of revenue for the Fritterfest '78.

The program was estimated to cost $16,000, but it is actually closer to $38,000.

The parade, the fireworks display, the beerfest and Port Credit activities all figured for the rest of the increase in expenses.

The expenses are all projected costs.

The committee won't have an official expenditure figure until Fritterfest has run its course.

The major source of revenue is expected to come through the sale of the Fritterfest programs. The programs (see below), available at a cost of $1 each, contain Mississauga history, maps and descriptions of the festival activities and a lucky draw number. Revenue is expected to be $82,612 with the sale of 75,000 programs.

There are six draw prizes totalling $8,600. All are trips to several destinations across the world. P. Lawson Travel, Wardair, Island Holiday Resorts, British West Indies Airlines, Canadian Pacific, Air Jamaica, Sunours and Air Canada are sponsoring the prizes.

Grants through Wintario and Loto Canada are not expected to be as helpful as hoped. Because of the type of festival being held, Wintario will only donate approximately $500. Loto Canada will only sponsor sporting events.

Fay Taylor, director of advertising for The Mississauga Times, presented confirmation information that The Times will print a special Fritterfest '78 supplement in its September 27 edition.

The Times will promote the supplement, written by its editorial staff, for a six-week period prior to the Fritterfest.

The Mississauga Board of Trade, a group with about 700 members, has offered to coordinate the distribution of the programs from their offices at Square One Shopping Centre. Details are to be worked out within the next two weeks.

The parade route was finalized (see map) and the skateboarding exhibition and competition will feature only conventional boards.

Peel Regional Police will use six officers to keep the weekend events in check, many less than earlier projected.

Individual permits are being sought for the seven beer-gardens and 50 games permits are being sought for the Monte Carlo night.

The Bank of Montreal is sponsoring a Grade 3 and 4 writing contest featuring the topic, Why I like Mississauga. Judges include "Mrs. Sauga," from the actual Fritterfest, and some of her princesses. The fry-off and selection of Mrs. Sauga will take place Monday, Sept. 25.

The Mississauga Kinsmen Club and the Mississauga Field and Stream Association are sponsoring a salmon fish-fry. There will be an angling contest beginning in early August. All salmon caught and entered for the contest will be frozen and stored until the fry. All fish entered will be thawed and fried for free consumption by the public, courtesy of those two clubs.

Psst... want to make some easy money and help your community at the same time? The Fritterfest '78 executive committee is looking for responsible adults and teenagers to sell their Mississauga Community Festival program.

The program, selling for one buck, will be available to the public by August 1 and includes chances to win $8,600 worth of travel packages.

The success of the festival depends on the sale of the 100,000 programs and the committee considers it to be of great importance to have the majority of these programs distributed by the time the Fritterfest begins in late September.

2 men charged following fight

Two Mississauga men have been charged with assault after they allegedly attacked another man in the Riverside Inn parking lot in Oakville last week.

The fight apparently started after a man hit the brother of one of the attackers with his car.

The brawl continued, even though two police officers tried to intervene. During the fight, one of the police cruiser to continue the attack on the driver. The other alleged assistant tried unsuccessfully to run from the police officer after he was arrested.

Terry Simutis, 25, of Sheppard Avenue has been charged with assault to cause bodily harm, obstructing police and mischief. Sean Egan, 27, of Lenel Court was charged with assault to cause bodily harm, obstructing police, mischief and escaping custody.

Egan's brother, Kevin, suffered cuts and bruises to the right side of his body, but was not sent to hospital, police said.

Ron Douglas Wilson, 23, of London, Ont. was charged with dangerous driving.

Report on doctors delayed

The report concerning planning controls on doctors establishing offices in detached homes will not be ready for a few weeks, says planner Russ Edmunds.

Council ordered the report after receiving complaints about doctors moving into single-family homes and renovating them and their properties in a way that was thought incompatible with the neighborhood.

The report will recommend whether or not the municipality should establish a separate zoning category for doctors in single family homes, and how the municipality can control their sites.
