HUMOROUS.

"I will preach from dat portion of the Scripture dis evening," said a colored dominie, "where de 'Postle Paul pints his 'Pistle at the 'Phasians."

In one of the interior counties the other day, Robert Guile and Mary Williams were married. Now she is "Mary of R. Guile."

An Englishman, who is boarding, says he can stand Ash Wednesday once in a while, but 'ash Monday every week is

"And how does Charlie like going to school?" kindly enquired a good man of a little six-year-old boy. "I like goin' well 'nough," replied the boy ingeniously, "but I don't like stayin' after I get there."

It is the confession of a widower who has been thrice married that the first wife cures a man's romance, the second teaches him humility, and the third makes him a philosopher. A Boston man had sixty-five dollars stolen from him. A week afterward he received a letter containing twenty-five dollars, that read, "I stole your money. Remorse naws at my conshens, and I send you some of it back. When remorse naws again, I'll send you some more."

Mrs. Smith, who has to luga scuttle of

Mrs. Smith, who has to lug a scuttle of coal up-stairs three times a day, reads with prospective joy the announcement that the coal fields of the world will be exhausted in two thousand years. One of our Boston butchers has gone stark mad. He was heard to remark to a customer to-day: "No, sir, this is not Spring lamb; it is mutton." The oldest inhabitant has been in to say that he has never heard anything like it in all his experience.—Boston Transcript.

An American paper quotes a coup-let by Benjamin Franklin, as illustrating the advances made of late years in the art of "getting on." Franklin wrote;

"He that by the plough would thrive. Himself must either hold or drive." The Yankee version adapted to the times

" He that by his trade would rise. Must either bust or advertise."

"I believe in a personal devil," said Mr. Moody, at a revival meeting held in a remote western city. "That's true, that's true—you're right thar stranger," said an old farmer, rising from his seat in his ear that the whole when a sale, faced plead nestness. Whereupon a calm-faced, placid-looking woman rose from the other end of the pew, took him by the ear and led him slowly out, and the assembly knew then, for the first time, that the old man's mind was filled with domestic thoughts instead of the hereafter. A little fellow of five going along the street with a dinner pail is stopped by a kind-hearted gentleman, who says:—

"Where are you going, my little man?"
"To school." "And what do you do at school? You learn to read?" "No."
"To write?" "No" "To count?" "No."
"What do you do?" "I wait for school to be let out."

Dr. Adam Clark and his Wife.

At the conference, once, a subject was about to be introduced which the preachers were not to disclose, even to ers were not to disclose, even to their wives. Dr. Clark, who was seated in one of the front seats on the floor of the chapel, partially sheltered from the eyes of the president, was in the act of slipping out unperceived, when a voice was heard: "Dr. Clark is about to leave the conference, Mr. President."

Mr. President—You must not go out, Dr. Clark.

Dr. Clark.

Dr. Clark.
Dr. C. - I must, sir.
President -- You must not, Dr. Clark.
Dr. C. -- I will, sir. You state, sir, that we are not to tell our wives the subject that is about to be brought forward. I want to hear nothing that I cannot tell my wife; I tell her everything. Those who have talkative wives may refrain from telling them; but mine is not such—what is de-posited with her is kept safely.

President—Very good, doctor, you may stop, as your wife can keep a secret.

Wouldn't Pay for Breathing the Air. Billy Smedley was resting his left foot on the top of a beer-keg in front of a saloon in Butte City, Montana Territory, the last time I saw him. On his bent left knee he rested an elbow, thereby arranging his arm so as to support his chin, which rested on his hand. His clothes were well worn, and here and there a rent. were well worn, and here and there a rent. His hair stuck out through a hole in the crown of his hat, while the great toe of his right foot peeped forth ruddy and cheerful, from his boot. The wiffs of smoke, drawn from a short, black pipe, curled lazily from his lips. His eyes were half closed and dreamy. His thoughts were in dreamland. Bill had experienced the ups and downs of Western life; had been rich and poor by turns, and was now very poor. He had grown philosophic, and looked at things in a way different from what he had in his youth, when life's pathway smiled to him, and seemed roseway smiled to him, and seemed rose-garianded.

"Hello, Bill! been looking for you,"

"Want to collect your tax." "Haint no property."

"I mean your poll-tax."

"There are other county expenses—paupers, and so on. If you were to die vithout means you would want us to bury you."
"No, you needn't."

"Why, you would smell bad to other people!"
"I kin stan' it if they kin."

"I will levy on your property," said the officer, growing impatient; "I will hunt it up."

"I'll help you; I want to see some of my property."

The officer moved on rather abruptly, while Bill continued, as if musing:

"Let them fellers have their way, and they'd make life a burden. Want to assess my existence; want to charge me for enjoyin' the bright sunshine; ask me to pay for beholdin' the beautiful landscape; charge me for looking at the grass grow and the rose unfoldin'; charge me for watchin' the birds fly, an' one cloud chase t'other."

The eyes continued to blink dreamily.

From Henry Armstrong, near Woodstock. My Dear Sir,—Your Thermo Electric Vapor Bath, it appears to me has decided advantages over any bath with which I am acquainted. Having made a full trial of it this week, I am now ready to pronounce it a great success. For rheumatism, I consider it unequalled, and I am sure that no one who gives it a fair trial will ever leave dissatisfied. Your Bath stands ahead of anything else I have tried, both as a luxury and a sanitary agent. I take great pleasure in commending them to all similarily affected.
