

What Society is Doing

"Gone West."
(Inscribed to the memory of Capt. Hugh Pedley, son of the Rev. Hugh Pedley, D.D., of Montreal. Died of his wounds, February, 1918.)
As in the west when every sun goes down,
A Vesper star appears with troubled face,
So, when our golden lad, in khaki brown,
Made glad the days—then vacant
fell his place:
"Gone West" his comrades said,
But would not call him dead,

For he with them had faced the embattled dawn,
And fought the Dragon as they onward crept.
Then came an hour he could not follow on,
And westward home they brought him while he slept:
They laid him in his bed—
Heavy hearts as lead,
Now fading fires of crimson fill the eve,
As of a glory gone, a battle done,
Golden and brown, our lad has ta'en his leave:
Entered the shadows who so loved the sun:
O the western sky is red!
But a star shines overhead.

Several Toronto women have spoken indignantly lately about the lack of respect shown at the time of passing of a soldier's funeral. "I noticed one day last week," said one of these observers, "that hardly a man removed his hat as the procession passed. Yet they knew it was a soldier's funeral. In France or England, such callous conduct is unknown. Do these comfortable citizens realize that the soldiers are giving up their lives that comfort and freedom may remain secure. Surely the tribute of the bare head is little enough to expect from the people of a British city."

Out of the many offers of personal sacrifice which reach the United States government, one made known recently attracted more than the attention. It was an offer to the War Department at Washington by Mrs. Bridget Quinn of Conifer, Pa., to give her hair and her little daughter's for use in the munition factories if the Government needed them.

Secretary of War Baker wrote Mrs. Quinn a personal letter acknowledging her patriotism, but saying such a sacrifice was not at all necessary. Evidently the woman had heard of the use of women's hair in the manufacture of munition machines in Germany.

Brantford women, like everyone else, are very much interested in the daylight saving scheme, which perhaps they have more at stake than the men, as their household duties will be greatly affected by any such change. Generally speaking, women are in favor of daylight saving, although some object on the ground that it will be hard work to get the kiddies early to bed. It was generally stated a week ago that the whole project had fallen through, and that Ottawa was not going to pass the necessary legislation. However, word that the Ontario Legislature will in any event introduce the measure, in Europe, daylight saving is universal. In this country, it does not seem as if this scheme will be put into effect with advantage, both regards to the saving of artificial lighting and the increased time for either work or play.

Osborne-Easton
The marriage took place on Wednesday, February 13th, at Hinton, the residence of Mrs. James Osborne in Bournemouth, England, formerly a well known resident of Brantford, of Edward B. Osborne, son of Mrs. J. M. Osborne of The Cottage, Beamsville, Ont., and Helen Hodgson, daughter of Galt, Ontario. The bride only reached England a few days before the wedding took place, having come over on the "Baltic," in the same convoy out of this country as the ship was sunk by a submarine. Mr. Osborne was for some months with the 21st Battalion Canadians on the Belgian front at Arras and Courcellette in France and was invalided to England with diphtheria. He is now assistant adjutant of the Eastern Ontario Depot at Seaforth, Sussex.

One of the most interesting books lately issued deals with the work of women in many branches in which they are excelling. It is called "Women of the War," and is written by the Hon. Mrs. Francis MacLaren. The sketches cover the war work of women as doctors, nurses, agriculturists, munition makers, and heads of munition factories, drivers, P.A.D. women police, women in charge of Remount Depots, entertainers, camp cooks, canteen workers, women supply depots, as well as in other branches. These form a series of pictures which are deeply instructive as well as interesting—a book for women's war library.

Written in quite a different vein is the humorous "Our Girls in Wartime," with its delightful pictures. The girls are ever reminding that a girl can do, and has done since war began. I love the activities of Winnie the Window Cleaner, who "puts her back into her work, or even through it." Nestle, the Nurse is thus immortalized: "Nestle's nursing down our way, I met Nestle yesterday, and hence forward I shall play That D.V. In her hospital I'll stay If some bits of bullet stray Nestle, if you see this lay, R.S.V.P."

And now who is going to write books about women's work in France, as books about women's work are in demand?

Women's Hospital Tea
The Recital Hall at the Brantford Conservatory presented an unusual attractive appearance on Wednesday afternoon, on the occasion of the annual Women's Hospital Aid Re-union. Mrs. Andrews, who so kindly placed the hall at the disposal of the ladies for the afternoon, had spared no pains in transforming the hall into an attractive drawing room, posted hyacinths and ferns being in profusion everywhere, while the stage was gracefully draped with flags of the allied nations.

The tea tables looked very pretty with huge bunches of wild orchids, pink and white flowers, and mignonette, presented by the President and gleam with handsome silver services loaned by members of the Society. During the tea hour, Mrs. Cummings Nelles and Mrs. R. S. Schell poured tea later on being relieved by Mrs. W. C. Livingston and Mrs. J. E. Waterous, assisted by members of the Junior Hospital Aid. During the afternoon the retiring president Mrs. R. S. Schell was made the recipient of a lovely bunch of yellow daffodils tied with streamers of yellow gauds, and a life membership in the Women's Hospital Aid Society. Miss Louise Jones was in charge of the Register and also distributed the interesting booklet giving the full account of the work done by the society throughout the year. It is estimated that about two hundred guests were present, many members from the county being unable to attend on account of the bad roads. Every one expressed in no uncertain terms their satisfaction on the way in which the organization had conducted its affairs throughout the year, the re-union being undoubtedly a very pleasant beginning to the new year.

The president, Mrs. F. D. Reville, vice-presidents, Mrs. C. L. Laing and Mrs. G. L. Smith, and Mrs. Gordon Smith received the many visitors who came and went all afternoon, while a most enjoyable musical programme was given by Mr. F. C. Thomas, F.R.C.O., at the organ and piano solos by the Misses Davidson, Ogilvie, Somerville, Lyle and Miss Dorothy Broadbent.

Elimination Match
New York, March 1.—Another elimination match in an effort to select a successor for Frank Gotch's heavyweight wrestling honors will be staged here to-night when Joe Stecher and Wladek Zbyszko meet in a limited time bout. The conditions call for a contest limited to not more than two hours and the winner of the first fall will be declared the victor. Heretofore local wrestling matches have usually contained a two-out-of-three fall clause, with a time limit averaging three hours. The winner of to-night's bout is expected to be matched with Earl Caddick.

Lemons Beautify!

Strain lemon juice well before mixing and massage face, neck, arms, hands.

Here is told how to prepare an inexpensive lemon lotion which can be used to bring back to any skin the sweet freshness of which it has been robbed by trying atmospheric conditions. Wind-chafe, roughness, tan and redness are warded off and those tell-tale lines of care or age are softened away.

The juice of two fresh lemons strained into a bottle contains three ounces of orchard white makes a whole quart pint of the most remarkable lemon skin beautifier at about the cost one must pay for a small jar of the ordinary "cold cream." Care should be taken to strain the lemon juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan, and is the ideal skin softener, smoother and beautifier.

Just try it. Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and make up a quart pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands and see for yourself.
