CARTER'S
LIVER PILLS.

CURE
SICK
HEAD
ACHE

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. It is the only cure to do without these. But after all sick headache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end there, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head-

Better make her a little sick.

If we could speak in tones of thunder we would use our voice to advise all people everywhere to get at once a bottle of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment. As a preventive of diphtheria, pneumonia, congestion, and all dangerous throat and lung diseases its value is priceless.

Certain parties have been for years flooding the country with immense packs of horse less. Don't be deceived by them.

Sherridan's powders are the only kind now known in this country which are strictly pure. They are very powerful.

Electricity.—Of all the known Electro-Galvanic appliances at the present day it is now conceded by the Medical Fraternity and Electricians generally, that the American Galvanic Co.'s Howard Electric Battery is the best and most complete. Electrical merits, as one shield or appliance can be fitted to any part of the body, which is not true of any other. See advertisement in another column of this said, with a distracting smile, "I don't mind that."

A New Treatment for Neural Gia.

The latest agent introduced for the relief of neuralgia is a 1 per cent, solution of hyperosmic acid, administered by subcutaneous injection.
It has been employed in Billroth's clinic in a few cases. One of the patients had been a martyr to sciatica for years, and had tried innumerable remedies, including the application of electricity no fewer than 200 times, while for a whole year he had adopted vegetarianism.
Billroth injected the above remedy between the tuber ischii and trochanter, and within a day or two the pain was greatly relieved, and eventually quite disappeared. It would be rash to conclude too much from these results, in the face of the intractability of neuralgia to medication, but if it really prove to be as efficacious as considered, hyperosmic acid will be a therapeutic agent of no mean value.—Lancet.

How to Boil Lined Oil.

First be sure that you have the purest lined oil. There is much sold as such manufactured out of peanuts. The test is simple. Nut oil has a sharp, acid taste, smells just like sour peanuts, is darker and thicker than the other oil, has a clinging tendency when rubbed on the finger, dries with a gloss even when cold, and is very much given off when heated.

Pure lined oil has a bright amber color, runs freely, sparkles when flowing from the can, tastes smooth and mild, and has the smell of a flaxseed poultice. When you are satisfied that you have the genuine oil, and wish to boil it, preferably first take say about one half pound of red lead and the same quantity of sugar of lead, put into five gallons of the oil, and place over a slow fire so as to boil evenly. Do not let your fire get either too hot or too low; keep an even temperature, if possible; or, if not, at least keep it at a medium either hard or soft stone coal. Avoid a wood fire, as, after the oil gets to boiling heat, a sudden flame shooting up might ignite the entire lot. Let it boil seven hours full; the red lead and sugar of lead will then become dark brown. Stir all the time while boiling slowly, and only one wheel do not change the direction of the stroke or you will burn the oil, just as you would starch. After you have taken it from the fire, cover it up and let it stand to cool off, say over night. The sediment will settle; pour out the oil and strain; your oil is boiled, and a better article you could not have, as all the fatty substances are destroyed. This is the English method, used in all the carriage factories in the United Kingdom.—U. S. Carriage Monthly.

Education in the Hen-Coop.

How AN AUBURN WOMAN TRAINS HER BIDDIES.

A North Auburn woman has a dozen of them. They are plump, well-fed Brahmas. The woman has taken unlimited pride in them. Last summer she devoted herself to teaching them a thing or two about convenience in laying. Probably there is no trouble so great as hens as nest hiding. Hunting eggs may be fun for boys, but not a fat woman of 180 pounds aversports. It is work, and back-breaking work too. A nest is not found in a jiffy. Appreciating the importance of this, the lady kept a box, half filled with straw, in the kitchen. When a hen wants to lay, she (the hen) walks in a dignified manner up the steps and clucks outside the window. The North Auburn woman puts out the box; the hen lays and clucks again, and the box is taken in. They are all trained. No hen as a rule, goes back on the contract. The lady finds a growing pride in her hens, and thinks that a spirit of rivalry has been awakened among them as to who shall initiate the performance that is conducive to eggs.—Leiston Journal.
