A Long Multiple-Unit Train The Metropoliten Tistrict Railway Company, of London, is now running a nine-coach trun, which is said to be a nine-coach trun, which is said to be the longest multiple unit train in use anywhere. It will acommodate 1,000 pasengers and is about 450 feet long. The financial fortunes of this railway would appear to be on the up-grade, as, owing to the introduction of expresses at certain periods of the morning and evening, the receipts are said to have increased $5,000 a week.

DEADLOCK IN NEGOTIATIONS.

No Progress Made at Street Railway Meeting.

Company Opposes Right of City

Engineer to "Direct" And Takes a Firm Stand on Style of Cars.

It was after 11 o'clock last night when the conference committee ceased tussling with the proposed new street railway agreement and finished practically when it began. Two points on which neither party showed signs of yielding blocked further progress. One of these was the clause demanding that the work be done under the direction of the City Engineer; the other the company's determined stand on the style of cars. Some of the aldermen have threatened to bolt unless the by-law is ready for the Council to handle on Monday night. A strentous effort will be made to have things in shape by then, but it will be a dif-ficult task. This afternoon the sub-committee will tackle the objectionable clauses again, and to-night the general committee will endeavor to put on the finishing touches. To-morrow both sides finishing touches. To morrow both sides will meet, and it is hoped then to send t on to the Cour

City Solicitor Waddell insisted that

City Solicitor Waddell insisted that the phrase "under the direction of the City Engineer" was absolutely necessary if the city was to maintain control of the streets. If this was not done it would probably be necessary later on to fight it out as Toronto had done and get special legislation.

Colonel Gibson declared that when the company was spending $400,000 on reconstruction it wanted to do the work. He was content to have the clause read that the work should be done under the supervision and to the satisfaction of the City Engineer. The specifications distinctly stipulated that if the work was not satisfactory the engineer need distinctly stipulated that if the work was not satisfactory the engineer need not certify to it, and the company would receive no money for it. The company would not be so foolish as to do work that it would have to rip up and do over, and it did, not want to be placed in the position of doing two or three blocks on James street and then be ordered by the expires the street. be ordered by the engineer to go to Barton street. The engineer would have this power if the work was to be done under his direction. He suggested that a rider be added to the clause to the effect that the word direction should not be taken to include any interference with the work while being carried on by the company according to the specifications and in the order approved of by the engineer. It was not fair to make the engineer boss of the work of extention and reconstruction, to say just where material should be placed, and so on.

"I don't know but what we should have that power," said the City Solicitor. "If you should," replied Mr. Gibson, 'Carr, a little crippled gil, about fifteen under his direction. He suggested that a rider be added to the clause to the effect that the word direction should on.

"I don't know but what we should have that power," said the City Solicitor.

"If you should," replied Mr. Gibson,
"I do not know but what it would be better for you to do the work and not let us have the name of doing it."

Some of the "aldermen thought that the fact that the company could not open up any pavement without the authority of the city, and that the Engineer would have to be satisfied with the work before the company could draw any of the money, fully protected the rights of the city. It was impossible to reach an agreement, however, on this point, and it was decided to allow it to stand in the meantime. The lawyers will see if they cannot couch the clause in terms to be mutually satisfactory.

The other stumbing block was the question of the new cars. The cofipany suggested a clause to the effect that it would spend $100,000 before the end of this year, and the other $400,000 within three years. It proposed putting on ten new cars each year for turee years and five cars each year for turee years and five cars each year for the rest four years, or, with the Councir's consent, if new cars each year for three years and five cars each year for the next four years, or, with the Counch's consent, if traffic did not justify so many, in any other year that might be agreed upon. The company wants to supply only six other year that might be agreed upon. The company wants to supply only sixteen double truck cars. The others would all be single trucks.

Mayor Stewart said the aldermen all along had been under the impression that there were to be fifty new double truck, modern cars. The addermen backed him up in this, and the report of the sub-committee, made on Feb. 24, to that effect, was produced.

Colonel Gibson, however, said that the Colonel Gibson, however, said that the company never had any such intention.

An expert who was here to go into the matter had advised that if the company out on fitty double truck cars it that the double truck cars cost just twice as much to operate. The wear and tear on the rails was twice as heavy as with single truck cars, and the larger cars occupied double the space in the car sheds.

Colonel Gibeon

Colonel Gibson added that the company could not agree to run double truck cars on the system when the traffic did

In reply to Ald, Farrar as to whether In reply to Ald, Farrar as to whether the new single truck cars would be any improvement on those in use at present, Colonel Gibson said that they certainly would, for they would be larger and more up-to-date. In New York and many other of the large United States cities single truck cars are operated on the divisions where the traffic does not justify the larger cars.

Mayor Stewart argued that in addition to the guarantee of the $500,000 bond issue the company would receive practically $200,000 by the two per cent, reduction in the percentage, and he thought the company was sailing rather close to the wind in the matter of equipment.

Colonel Gibson replied that the com-pany had undertaken to equip the new system in an up-to-date manner, and that was exactly what it would do.

that was exactly what it would do.

The company also asked that the agreement provide that it should not be expected to order these double truck cars in advance of the possibility of using them. Colonel Gibson said that the reason for this was that the company did not want to have a lot of cars on its hands before they could be used. It was proposed to proceed with the reconstruction work on James, Barton and King street east first, and this could probably be done in a year. Herkimer street would be done next.

The Mayor wanted to know if the wide cars could not be used on the fourfoot devil strip for a year or so.

Mr. Hawkins said the company might do this if the city would indemnify it against damage on account of accidents.

against damage on account of accidents.

The Mayor also disputed the cost of the Buffalo cars. He said they could be brought here for about $8,000.

Hawkins declared that, with the duty, they would cost over $11,000. The Mayor said he had been informed that the cars could be bought for $1,000 less by leaving off some unnecessary fixtures.

The aldermen were arguing over this and the routing of the cars when the Mayor had to leave to catch the last car. The corrapany wants to have the right to route the cars left entirely in its hands. The city wants the right to appeal to the Railway Board.

THE JUNE BUG'S FLIGHT. Successful Test of the Curtis Flying Machine.

Hantmondsport, N. Y. June 25.—The aerodrome June Bug this morning made a most successful flight, going 2.175 feet in 41 seconds, This is twice the distance heretofore made by the machine. It was kept about 45 feet above the ground. A heavy wind blew during the trial, the airskip going with the wind. The descent was made without accident and the trial was pronounced a marked success.

The June Bug is the third of the flying machines constructed by the Aerial! Experiment Asociation, of which Dr. Alexander Graham Bell is Chairman. It is an aerodrome, built according to the plans of G. H. Curtis of Hammondsport, and equipped with a forty-five horsepower motor. Its weight is 145 pounds. It differs from the two previous machines.

Lieut. Selfridge's Red Wing and Casey Baldwin's White Wings, in that its wings operate like the wings of a beetle, and not like those of a bird. Hence its name. Like the other machines, it gets its start by being run along on bievele wheels.
