Carson's Incendiarism

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, Sept. 20.

The condition of Ulster to-day suggests in the words of the London Times that a fire has been lighted in a magazine, filled with gunpowder, and the anxious question of the moment is how far will the fire spread. Ministerial journals which a month ago were asking whether Mr. Bonar Law, Sir Edward Carson, Lord Londerry could not be clapped in goal for inciting crimes as was Parnell, warn Carson that outrage is the national consequence of his speech of yesterday. Armed rebellion, they say, is as clearly the end for which the political organization in Ulster is preparing as war is the end of army organization. Special attention is directed to Carson's assertion, "I am sometimes told by the yellow press of the Radical Party that I am a lawbreaker. If I am a criminal, it is the present Government which has made me criminal. I say to the Government, it is you who are prepared to break the law. It is I who am prepared to resist you, when you break it. I declare before you in the most solemn way that if this unprovoked and wicked attack is allowed to go on and this bill becomes law, it is not only your right but your duty to prepare to resist it." This is admitted to be only a hypothetical threat of force, but Carson is warned that it approaches the border line which Parnell crossed. Meanwhile the London Daily News declares it has evidence of a wholesale attempt by the Ulster Party to provoke riot in the National quarter of Belfast. The Nationalists are warned to refuse to retaliate whatever the provocation offered. The London Chronicle publishes a letter received by the Vice-President of the Portsmouth Liberal Association, who is an ardent Protestant and Free Churchman, from to-day Mary Hamilton, Honorary Secretary of the South Belfast Women's Unionist Association, offering free railway tickets and hospitality to English sympathisers who will join the Ulster Day march in Belfast under Sir Edward Carson.

Labrador Arrivals.

The schooner Speed, Capt. Joseph Sevier, arrived at Harbor Main with 800 quintals of fish. Sloop Harbor was the scene of his operations, where he found fish plentiful; but the weather so stormy and rough as to render work tedious and difficult, and even dangerous. He was obliged to leave his schooner for a day and a night during the recent gale on that coast. Nevertheless, Capt. Joe, who is one of our industrious and energetic skippers, managed to get a full share, and to his care and good management, the greater part of his success is attributed. Long live Capt. Joe for more loads.

In Memoriam

A very sad death occurred amongst us recently in the decease of the late Margaret Funcheon, who after a long illness died on the 11th inst. What makes it particularly sad and pathetic was the early age at which the Almighty called her, for she was only 27 years old, leaving two babies motherless; and the absence of her beloved husband, who after hearing of her serious condition, rushed across from far-off Alaska with all possible speed, but not in time to meet the dear one alive. He had, however, the consolation of attending the funeral and of seeing her mortal remains receive the final blessing of holy church and the interment at Belvidere.

Of a loving and kind disposition, adorned with rare qualities of virtue and goodness, she was beloved by all her friends. For some time after her marriage, five years ago, she lived with her husband in far-off Alaska, a devoted and tender wife and an invaluable help to him in his arduous labors and weary toils amidst the mines of the frozen north. She it was who, in conjunction with the late Sister Clare, figured so prominently in the "Romance of the Golden Rosary," of which we have heard so much, last year in connection with Cardinal Gibbons' Jubilee. Fortified with all the rites of holy church, in fact with the constant attendance of God's minister at her bedside, she died a most exemplary and holy death, worthy of one whose short life was so beautiful and good. To her grief-stricken husband and sister we offer deepest sympathy. To her departed soul we wish peace, rest and joy in the arms of her Maker for evermore.

Lord's Day Alliance.

Editor Evening Telegram,

Dear Sir,—Kindly allow me space in your valuable columns to ask a question of Pastor R. A. Humbley, Whose letter appears in your issue of the 17th, inst. In criticising the meeting of the Lord's Day Alliance and the right of enforcing Sunday laws he made the assertion that the history of the Dark Ages was written with the blood of the martyrs. I would ask our learned friend if he thinks the men who fought the Reformation of the 16th Century were worried very much concerning the right day for the Sabbath. Did they think that it was a thing of vital importance, did they know that they were fostering a day for the Sabbath which was never intended by God? God forbid that I would cast any such reflection on such men as Archbishop Cranmer, Bishop Ridley and Latimer and many other such holy and learned men of God who laid down their lives for their faith in the Gospel of Jesus. I admire and appreciate such men who sealed their testimonies with their blood.

Yours truly,
"PREACHER."

Vagrant Found in a Barn.

Last evening the police people were acquainted by telephone from the Central Fire Hall that an unknown man was asleep in the barn of Mr. Clarke on Long Pond Road. Constables Kelly and Humber were despatched countrywards and found the visitor asleep in the hay loft. On being awakened he told the officers his name was Maloney, that he belonged to Sweet Bay, and that he was without home, friends or money. The officers, fearing the vagrant would set fire to the hay if he started smoking, took him into custody and brought him to the police station. Today he was sent down for ten days.

A Signal for Civil War

Richard Mercer, aged 23, employed with the Dominion Co., was removing a drill when his head became caught between the machine and the slope, and was badly lacerated. A deep gash was inflicted in the skull and the right ear completely torn off. He was attended by Dr. Guthro.

EUPHRATES AGROUND. — While the s.s. Euphrates was returning from a trip around Conception Bay on Sunday afternoon, she went aground off Kelligrews. She had a number of passengers on board at the time, principally laborers on Bell Island, who were returning from a week-end holiday at their homes. She was aground for about an hour, when the rising tide floated her off. She was not damaged.
