Uniform for Church Lads' Brigade Cadets.

Lord Roberts, Lord Methuen, Lord Grenfell, Lord Alverstone, the Lord Mayor, Sir F. Trevelyan, and Mr. Adrian Pollock appeal for £50,000 for uniforms for the Church Lads' Brigade Cadets. It is felt that the time has come when it is advisable to provide a uniform and bring the Brigade Cadets into line with the rest of the Cadet Force. Under the present system, the poorer lads have been shy of joining the Brigade because of their shabby clothes. The Brigade has at least 15,000 past and present members now serving with the colors.

Austria Has Lost Crack Regiment.

Munich, Nov. 21.—Austria has its broken down like Waterloo. The Honved Cavalry, Vienna's bluest blood organization, butchered itself in a hollow in Galicia, on October 4. In charging over unknown ground, they piled into a deep ditch. The bodies of the 900 men were transformed into a bloody mass with the bodies of their horses. All the horrors of the charge at Waterloo were repeated. Under the hoofs of the oncoming horses, the dying men withered and tried in vain to escape being crushed into the great bloody mould. Within ten minutes, what had been Vienna's proudest cavalry regiment was only a gigantic mass of mixed men and horse flesh. The officer who ordered the charge killed himself.

Antiseptics In Australian Blue Gum Proves a Cure For Bronchial Catarrh.

HAD COLD IN THE HEAD, THROAT
WEAKNESS AND CATARRH CURED QUICKLY.

Medicated Air A Marvel
Catarrh is far superior to any internal medicine.
Its relief is almost instantaneous—just takes long enough to breathe its healing vapor into the lungs to give wonderful soothing relief.
Catarrh goes right to the innermost cells in the lungs, carrying healing, soothing balsams to the places that are tainted with Catarrhal inflammation. A sneezing cold is cured in ten minutes—a sore throat is healed and restored in an hour or two—chronic bronchitis is soothed away and quickly disappears—catarrh of long standing is invariably cured because Catarrhoxone kills the germs that cause the trouble.

As a cure for Asthma and a preventative of Grippe every doctor is delighted with Catarrhoxone. One eminent throat specialist says: "Catarrhoxone is used two or three times each day you will never suffer from any disease of the head, throat, nose or lungs. This is good news to many of our readers who must require a safe, sure and permanent cure for their colds and winter ills. Every good druggist sells Catarrhoxone, large outfit $1.00; small size 50c; trial size, 25c.

Servian Wounded are Operated On While Conscious.

New York, Nov. 23.—A distressing lack of medical supplies for the wounded of the battlefields of Europe is shown by appeals received by various relief organizations here and by the tremendous orders received from the warring nations by American manufacturers of such materials.
Reports received at the Red Cross headquarters from nurses attached to some of the hospital units sent to Europe by that organization show that the supplies of absorbent cotton, bandages, gauze, anaesthetics, iodine and alcohol and similar necessities are utterly inadequate.
Servian hospitals ran short of anaesthetics three weeks ago and surgical operations there have been performed, while wounded were still conscious, according to Red Cross reports.
Many deaths from shock of operations are reported. From nurses in French hospitals come such statements as "bandages, medicines and ambulance necessities are like the treasures of kings. Gauze and antiseptic serum are very difficult to get, and cotton is disappearing."

It is also reported that there is a great shortage of surgical instruments in the field hospitals behind the armies.

Cholera Grips 100 Austrian Homes.

London, Nov. 20.—The Klinische Wochenschrift, a Vienna medical journal says:
"Cholera, imported direct from the seat of war, especially Galicia, has spread over more than one hundred localities in Austria-Hungary. In October nearly 200 cases occurred, independent of those cared for near the battlefields."
"From October 21 to October 28, a total of 650 fresh cases of Asiatic cholera, all bacteriologically investigated, were officially announced."

Baseball League

WHI Not Hold Reunion.

The Baseball League held a special meeting last night, President J. O. Hawvermale was in the chair. Treasurer Power submitted his statement for the year, showing that the League has a substantial amount to its credit.

The championship and G. I. Allen Cup, won by the Shamrocks, were presented and it was decided that owing to present conditions, the annual reunion and formal presentation of prizes should not be held this year. On behalf of Mr. R. G. Reid, the donor, Mr. W. J. Higgins presented the silver cup, won at the Mount Cashel Garden Party to the Wanderers; the watchfob, donated by Spaldings, of New York, have not yet arrived, but as soon as they do, will be presented to the Shamrocks. Mr. Hawvermale presented the R. G. Reid cup, which was won by the St. John's team in the inter-town competition, to Mr. Hartnett. At a future date the winners of the Kearney "recluse" and Murphy gold watch for the best batting averages will be announced. After votes of thanks were passed to Umpires, Messrs. Chessman, Smith, Montgomery and Hanlon; to Mr. P. E. O'Leary and particularly to the press, the meeting adjourned.

Laid to Rest.

All that was mortal of the late Robert Campbell Smith was laid to rest yesterday afternoon. The funeral was one of the largest witnessed for some time. The procession included representatives of all classes, creeds and professions, as the deceased was so favourably known and highly esteemed.
The remains were enclosed in a handsome casket, which was profusely covered with floral tributes, including a beautiful wreath sent by the Regatta Committee of which the late Mr. Smith was an active member, having served in the capacity of Judge for many years.
Acting as pall-bearers were the charter members of the new St. Andrew's Masonic Lodge who wore the new regalia for the first time and of which Lodge the deceased was Worshipful Master-elect. Representatives of the other Masonic Lodges and of St. Andrew's Society were amongst the mourners. The cortege wended its way from the late home of the deceased on Logy Bay Road to the General Protestant Cemetery. The burial service, which was a sad and impressive one, was conducted by the Rev. Bro. F. C. Simpson, F.M., and the Rev. Bro. W. H. Thomas, Chaplain of Whiteway Lodge, A. F., after which the remains were interred accompanied by the Masonic ritual.

Would Wring Necks

Of Canned Meat Men.
London, Nov. 20.—An officer whose letter appears in the Morning Post writes:
"We live on various forms of dog biscuits and bully beef of different brands. They vary enormously in quality, and on my return I should like to get hold of some of those Chicago meat kings, wring their necks, and put them through their own mincing machines."

Most Successful Patriotic Meeting

AT ST. BRIDE'S, P.B.

On Sunday last after Mass a most enthusiastic patriotic meeting was held in the school here. The speakers were the Hon. W. C. Job, P. J. Morris, Esq., W. Sinnott, Esq., and by special request our dearly beloved parish priest the Very Rev. Father O'Callaghan.

The Very Rev. Father O'Callaghan occupied the chair, and in introducing the above named gentlemen, referred to the long and difficult journey they had had through the snow and rainstorms of the preceding days, and said that in itself spoke volumes for their patriotism, and stamped it with the hall mark of genuine sincerity. A telling speech was delivered by Mr. Morris which aroused in all present a great enthusiasm.

The Hon. Mr. Job delivered a very beautiful address punctuated by some good stories, and met with a flattering reception. In opening his remarks he said he had a great grudge for St. Bride's because we took Fr. O'Callaghan from them in St. John's, but hoped St. John's would soon have him back again. Incidentally we hope to have our devoted Father O'Callaghan left with us for many years to come. Mr. Job also left some maps with us.

Mr. Sinnott in his remarks told us with pride and pleasure that he had two sons at present fighting under the Old Flag, and didn't we give him a cheer when we heard that. Whilst in his address to us Father O'Callaghan spoke in that very earnest and eloquent manner that characterises all his speaking, and asked us to rally round the Old Flag, and that irrespective of class or creed give our best in the righteous cause now being waged.

We were delighted at the close and we let our distinguished visitors know it. We cheered them again and again, nor did we even wait for the close of the meeting to do that, we let our lungs have full free play throughout each address, and then a great big outburst for the last. We were told at the close that it was one of the most enthusiastic and successful meetings that has to date taken place, and from a mere handful of young men in St. Bride's five came forward and volunteered. This number will be augmented considerably when the other settlements of the parish are visited. They leave here for the city on Friday. Bravo, St. Bride's!

Whilst here the Hon. Mr. Job, Mr. Morris and Mr. Sinnott were guests of the Very Rev. Fr. O'Callaghan, and were delighted with all the many and beautiful and up to date improvements he has effected since he came here only a year ago.

A Great Gift.

By MUTH CAMERON.

I have a certain friend who, though lacking most of the things which in the eyes of the world make up happiness is, yet one of the happiest folks I know.

Let me tell you about her.

In the first place, she is what the world calls an old maid—as a matter of fact she is far less an old maid than many married women I know.

In the second place she is very much alone in the world; a married sister is the only one who is left of her immediate family, and she lives three thousand miles away; two or three cousins represent the only accessible relatives.

Then she is poor, not just cheerfully, reasonably poor, but acutely poor; and she has the more reason to suffer from this poverty because she has known very much better days.

And lastly, she has to work a great deal harder than she is really able to. And now I suppose you would like to know why she is so happy.

Well, then, she has a great gift—the power of projecting herself into the lives of others, of imaging their pleasures and savoring their emotions. And by others I do not mean merely her friends or relatives, but the people she passes on the street, the people she reads about, the folks who live in the houses she passes by on her way to work.

Life is a book to her, and a far more fascinating book than the printed kind. When she is reading it, which is most of the time, she completely forgets her own loneliness, her deprivations and her weariness.

Perhaps you do not get exactly what I mean by such phrases as "projecting herself into other people's emotions" and "reading life like a book." So let me illustrate.

We walked down the street together.

er, this woman who has the gift of happiness, and I. A nice looking young man hurries past us with a square box under his arm. My friend looks at him with evident interest, and after he is out of ear-shot she says, "Did you notice the box? It was a box of violets I'm sure. Somebody is going to be pleased." And, actually if she were going to receive those violets herself her eyes and voice couldn't sparkle any more.

In the distance we see the young man run up the steps of a big, old-fashioned house. "Look," she cries, excitedly, "he is going into my favorite house. Haven't you ever noticed that house? I think it's perfectly fascinating. It's such a queer shape, and so old-fashioned. I know it must be full of odd turns and steps up and steps down, and big fire places and unexpected corners. I love that house. I never go by without looking at it and trying to study out how it must look inside, and now I shall take more interest in it than ever."

In a shop we pass two young girls evidently "most intimate friends" laughing and chatting together. Both girls have big willow plumes on their hats, exactly alike. "I can just imagine one of them finding a bargain in willow plumes," pictures my friend, "and telling the other, and then both girls saving up for those plumes."

So everywhere she goes this woman finds something to awaken her imagination in the big book of other people's lives. So the great gift of interest and imagination makes happiness possible where there would otherwise be little of it. Fortunate woman? And yet perhaps I do her an injustice in calling her fortunate. Who knows with what effort she may have cultivated her ability to find happiness this way.
