SCHR. THOMAS TURNS UP.

The schr. Thomas which made history in mercantile marine circles last winter, put into this port last evening. She came latterly from Fayal, Azores, and made the run in 27 days, but correctly speaking she was five months on rectly speaking she was five months on the voyage to this port from Santa the voyage to this port from Santa Pola where she originally left with a cargo of salt last fall. She had a terrible experience. Storm after storm and hurricane after hurricane was enand hurricane after hurricane was en-countered coming on this coast. The little fore-and-after was tossed about like a cork and was fearfully buffetted having everything carried away on deck and practically all her canvas torn to pieces. However, the wonder is that she survived at all and many times the crew thought their doom was sealed. A desperate effort was made to try and make the land but without success, as heavy gales were continuous with huge seas burying the little ninety tonner repeatedly. doom was sealed. A desperate effort Eventually she was driven off and after being over 90 days out from Sanafter being over 90 days out from Santo Pola reached Fayal in a battered condition. Repairs occupied a month there and the Thomas left again in the early part of March for St. John's. The cargo of salt is consigned to Harvey & Co., Ltd., who, we understand, has purchased the vessel to use her in the foreign fish carrying trade in the foreign fish carrying trade.

Overland Cars.

The popularity of the Overland car and the ever-increasing demand for it is remarkable, even in these days when motor cars are beginning to be considered more of a necessity than a luxury.
