Dr. Talmage's Weekly Sermon on

The Men Rowed Hard to Bring It to the Land; But They Could Not"-Wholesome Lessons From the Text

BROOKLYN, Oct., 14. - Rev. Dr. Talmage, who is still absent on his round-the-world tour, has selected as the subject of today's sermon, through the press, "The Oarsmen Defeated," the text chosen being Jonah i., 13 and 14, "The men rowed hard to bring it to the land, but they could not; wherefore they cried unto the Lord."

Navigation in the Mediterranean Sea always was perilons, especially so in early times. Vessels were propelled partly by sail and partly by oar. When, by reason of great stress of weather, it was necessary to reef the canvas or hanl it in, then the vessel was entirely dependent upon the oars, sometimes 20 or 30 of them on either side the vessel. You would not venture outside your harbor with such a craft as my text finds Jonah sailing in; but he had not much choice of vessels. He was running away from the Lord, and when a man is running away from the Lord he has to run very fast.

God had told Jonah to go to Nineveh to preach about the destruction of that city. lough disobeyed. That always makes rough water, whether in the Mediterranean, or the Atlantic, or the Pacific, or the Caspian Sea. He knew that the tempest was on his account, and he asked the sailors to throw him overboard. Sailors are a generous-hearted race, and they resolved to make their escape, if possible, without restoring to such extreme measures. The sails are of no use, and so they lay hold on their oars. Oh! how they did pull, the bronzed seaman, as they laid back onto the oars. It is of no use, no use. There comes a wave that crashes the last mast, and sweeps the oarsmen from their places, and tumbles everything in the confusion of impending shipwreck, or, as my text has it, 'The men rowed hard to bring it to the land; but they could not; wherefore they cried unto the Lord."

As those Mediteranean oarsmen trying to bring Jonah ashore were discomfited, I have to tell you that they were not the only men who have broken down on their paddles, and have been obliged to call on the Lord for help. I want to say that the unavailing efforts of these Mediterranean oarsmen have a counterpart in the efforts we are making to bring souls to the shore of safety and set their feet on the Rock of Ages. You have a father, or mother, or husband, or wife, or child, or near friend, who is not a Christian. There have been times when you have been in agony about their salvation. And there may have been days of sickness in your household, when you feared it would be a fatal sickness; and how closely you examined the face of the doctor as he came in and scrutinized the patient, and felt the pulse, and you followed him into the next room, and said: "There isn't any danger, is there, doctor?" And the hesitation and the uncertainty of Observe the following symptoms resulting from diseases of the digestive organs: Constipation, it was a will be the reply made two eternities flash before patien, it will go to school, he solbed. In the reply made two eternities flash before fact, he was quite anxious to go to school patien, it will go to school, he was quite anxious to go to school fact, he was quite anxious to go to school fact, he was quite anxious to go to school there and then the reply made two eternities flash before fact, he was quite anxious to go to school fac and the other part of the household on the other side of the line! Two vessels part on the ocean of eternity, one going to the right and the other to the left-farther apart, and farther apart until the signals cease to be recognized, and there are only two specks on the horizon, and then they are lost to sight forever !

I have to tell you that the unavailing efforts of these Mediterranean parsmen have a counterpart in the efforts some of us are making to bring our children to the shore of safety. There never were so many temptations for young people as there are now. The literary and the social influences seem to be against their spiritual interests. Christ seems to be driven almost entirely from the school and the pleasurable concourse, yet God knows how anxious we are for our children. There are parents who are almost discouraged about their children. Where is your son tonight? He has wandered off, perhaps, to the ends of the earth. It seems as if he cannot get far enough away from your Christian counsel. What does he care about the furrows that come to your brow, about the quick whitening of the hair; about the fact that your back begins to stoop with the burdens? Why, he would not care much if he heard you were dead? What are you going to do? Both paddles broken at the middle of the blade, how can you pull him ashore? I throw you one oar now with which I believe you can bring him into the harbor. It is a glorious promise, "I will be a God to thee, and to thy seed after thee." Oh, broken-hearted father and mother, you have tried everything else. now make an appeal for the help and omnipotence of the covenant-keeping God! and perhaps at your next family gathering -perhaps on Thanksgiving Day, perhaps next Christmas day-the prodigal may be home; and if you crowd on his plate more luxuries than on any other at the table, 1 am sure the brothers will not be jealous, but they will wake up all the music of the house, "because the dead is alive again, and because the lost is found."

Again, I remark that the unavailing effort of the Mediterranean oarsmen has a counterpart in the effort which we are making to bring this world back to God, his pardon and safety. If this world could have been saved by human effort, it would have been done long ago. John Howard took hold of one oar, and Carey took hold of another oar, and Adoniram Judson took hold of another oar, and Luther took hold of another oar, and John Knex took hold of another oar, and they pulled together until they fell back dead from the exhaustion. Some dropped in the ashes of martyrdom, some on the scalping knives of savages, and some into the plague-struck room of the lazaretto; and still the chains are not broken, and still the despotisms are not demolished, and still the world is unsaved. What then? Put down the oars and make no effort? I do not advise that. But I want you, Christian brethren, to understand that the church, and the school, and the college, and the missionary society are only the instrumentalities; and if this world is ever done at all, God must do it, and he will do it, in answer to our prayer. Again, the unavailing effort of those Mediterranean oarsmen has a counterpart in every man that is trying to row his own soul into safety. When the Eternal Spirit flashes upon us our condition, we try to save curselves. We say, Give me a stout oar for my right hand, give me a stout oar for my left hand, and I will pull myself into safety." No. A wave of sin comes and dashes you one way, and a wave of temptation comes and dashes you in another way, and there are plenty of rocks on which to founder, but seemingly no harbor into which to sail. Sin must be thrown overboard, or we must perish.

But while I have shown your helpless. ness, I want to put by the side of it the power and willingness of Christ to save you. Oh, the grace of God! I am overwhelmed when I come to think of it. Give | who has been associated with many scenes line run out with the anchor until all the cables of earth are exhausted, that we may touch the depth. Let the archangel fly in circuit of eternal ages in trying to sweep around this theme. Oh, the grace of God ! It is so high. It is so broad. It is so deep. Glory be to my God, that where man's oar gives out, God's arm begins! Why will ye carry your sins and your sorrows any longer when Christ offers to take them? Jesus has the ring of his love all ready to put upon your hand. Come now and sit down, ye hungry ones, at the banquet. Ye who are in rags of sin, take the robe of Christ. Ye who are swamped by the breakers around you, cry to Christ to pilot you into smooth still waters. I remember that a vessel went to pieces on the Bermudas a great many years ago. It had a vast treasure on board. But the vessel being sunk, no effort was made to rise it. After many years had passed, a company of adventurers went out from England, and after a long voyage they reached the place where the vessel was said to have sunk. They got into a small boat and hovered over the place. Then the divers went down and they broke through what looked like a limestone covering and the treasures rolled out-what was found afterward to be, in American money, worth $1,500,000, and the foundation of a great business house. At that time the whole world rejoiced over what was called the luck of these adventurers. Oh, ye who have been rowing toward the shore and have not been able to reach it, I want to tell you tonight that your boat hovers over infinite treasure! All the riches of God are at your feet. Treasures that never fail and crowns that never grow dim. Who will go down now and seek them? Who will dive for the pearl of great price. Who will be prepared for life, for death, for judgment, for the long eternity? See two hands of blood stretched out toward thy soul, as Jesus says, "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest."

WITH THE MAGISTRATE.

A Little Colored Boy Who Would Not Go to School-Wanted to Sign the Pledge. Albert Marshall is a little colored lad whose curly head could scarcely reach up to the railing of the police cage this morning. He was arrested on Saturday night while sleeping in a barn. His mother, with tears in her eyes, told the court that she could do nothing with the boy. He would not go to school, but ran away and beat his way from place to place on the trains. She had tried him for the last fitteen months and she now wanted him to be sent to the reformatory. The little fellow in the cage was pleading to be let go while his mother was talking. "I will go to school," he sobbed. In

"I think you might try him this time," pleaded Mr. Parke with the mother. "You see. I cannot send him to the reformatory until he is 13 years old." Albert hardly waited to hear his mother say that she would try him again. He was feeling for the knob on the door of the and promised never to be naughty again.

cage. "Now is the time to give him a lecture," suggested Mr. McKillop aside to the magistrate. "What's the good ?" asked that gentleman. "I find it no use. He was down in jail vesterday and got lots of good advice."

By this time Albert was out of the cage and on his way home at his mother's heels, and the court stood adjourned. Charles Armstrong, a 9-year-old Oxford street lad, appeared for riding a boy's bicycle on the sidewalk. The boy's father appeared for him, and the magistrate dismissed the case with a warning.

Eugene Moriarity was told to stand up. He was a young man about 20 years of age, and had been drunk.

"This is Moriarity's son, your Worship," said Sergt. Jenkins, as he introduced him to the court. "You have been in jail two nights, have you not?"

"Yes, sir."

Wm. Coyne was charged with drunkenness and vagrancy. P. C. Egelton met him and a companion walking down the C. P. R. tracks at 1:30 Sunday morning. He could give no account of himself further than that he was out for a walk.

"That will do for you. You can go."

"If you let me go this time I will take the pledge and quit drink," said the prisoner. The magistrate wanted to know how often Coyne had been in before. Sergt. Jenkins said a good many times. The prisoner beat about the bush and thought it was twice in three years, but the magistrate, growing impatient, stretched it to four times "to the best of his knowledge."

"But if you let me go this time I will take the -"No, I won't. Three dollars or ten days. Why could you not tell me how many times at first ?"

Disastrous Railway Collision. NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 14 .- Fifteen people were more or less injured and $40,000 worth of railroad property destroyed in a collision at the junction of the Louisville and Nashville and New Orleans and Northwestern tracks about two miles from the city, which occurred just before 9:30 this morning. The colliding trains were the Louisville and Nashville excursion and the East Louisiana, Covington excursion train. T. P. Simpson, engineer of the East Louisiana train, is under arrest, charged with criminal negligence.

The Recent Train Robbery. NEW YORK, Oct. 14.-The Richmond. Fredericksburg and Potomac Railway train which was held up and robbed by a gang of train robbers near Quantico, Va., arrived in Jersey City yesterday morning. The officers of the Adams Express Company refuse to give any information at present as to the amount of money taken by the robbers, except to say that it would not amount to $180,000 as reported. One of the clerks said there was no means at present of finding out the loss, as the robbers had taken away all the way bills. Rewards amounting to $11,000 are offered for the arrest of the outlaws. An examination of the manifests of the company show that there was at least $182,000 in the express car at the time of the hold up. There is every reason to suppose that the leader of the gang which perpetrated the bold train robbery at Aquia Creek, Va., on Friday night, has been identified. He is George Carter, 31 years old, a former resident of the neighborhood and ex-convict of Sing Sing, a railroad engineer, and a man me a thousand ladders, lashed fast to each of robbery and bloodshed,
