GOT $300,000-HANGED HIMSELF.

Strange Suicide of Alfred Tripp, Who Had Inherited a Fortune. Poughkeepsie, Dec. 31.-Alfred N. Tripp hanged himself yesterday in his barn. He had but just come into $300,000, left him by his father, Vincent Tripp. For the past two months Tripp had been much depressed and had said repeatedly that there was no longer any charm in life for him. At 11 a.m. he went to his barn. At 1 o'clock his coachman found him hanging by a piece of clothesline from a rafter in His body was nearly cold.

Mrs. Tripp can give no motive for his act. Mr. Tripp was 40 years old, and leaves groaned, suffered and fumed about its corns, for there was no positive relief-no certain and painless cure until Dr Scott Putnam gave to the world his great Corn Extractor. If there is suffering now it is a result of carelessness, for the remedy is at hand. Try Putnam's Corn Extractor. It is sure, painless and prompt. Beware of substitutes. N. C. In the fifties or before a family named Robertson lived in London. A daughter Marion, or Mary Ann, married one J. G. Maledon at Detroit, and went to live in company with Car Forman Treleaven, of Fort Smith, Ark., where she died in 1875, this city, and Mr. Anderson, chief car in- leaving infant children, and having purchased property there with money received from her own family with whom no communication has been kept by the children, and the papers of their mother have been lost or destroyed. Maledon married again and now claims the property, which is now valuable, as against the children who are desirous of ascertaining information as to their mother's property. They have written to W. H. Bartram, solicitor, of this city, for that purpose. Anyone of the Robertson family, or old residents who knew them, will confer a favor by communicating with Mr. Bartram in order that some clue may be afforded to make the investigation. RHEA TOMORROW NIGHT.

One of the events of the dramatic season will be the appearance of Rhea and her company of players at the Grand tomorrow night, in her magnificent production of 'Josephine, Empress of the French." The role of the unhappy queen and her selfsacrificing devotion to Napoleon is intelligently told by the author, though much painstaking effort. Rhea always invests the character with charming dignity, and with her delightful broken English, declaimed in a most effective way, and with her sweet simplicity carries away the hearts of those who see her. Her supporting company this year is more than satisfactory, numbering as it does 22 ladies and gentlemen, who are thoroughly suited to the characters which they portray. The play is a historic picture of six tableaux, with effect far more picturesque than dramatic. The divorce of Josephine is about the only place where great dramatic effect can be shown. Rhea looks every inch a queen, her cosonce on Feb. 28, when there will be a tumes, six in number, being very beautiful partial hiding of the disk but not visible and picturesque, while stage pictures are notably attractive.

NEW YEAR'S REFLECTIONS.

It's an exceedingly good 'last year" that cannot be bettered the next. It is better to make a few good resolutions and break them latter in the year than not to feel their elevating influence at all.

An excellent New Year's resolution is to resolve to be a year younger in looks and spirit at the close of the next twelve-month. There is something in the old superstition which declares that the first day of the year foretells the character of the other 364. Well begun is half done, even in years. Few people find themselves any richer on Jan. 1 for the things they have denied themselves. Therefore resolve not to economize

Nervous women will find relief in Hood's Sar-saparilla, because it enriches the blood and thus strengthens the nerves.

FAMILIAR face has vanished. The chimes have done ringing the old year out and the new year in. We are on the threshold of new hopes and new resolutions—the magic touch of higher expectations and broader ambitions. We begin by taking a good look at the young year. The vast panorama of trade stretches out in an unbroken column, and the tactics of the future must embody the experience of the past. What has been, may be! The store that served you faithfully last year is most apt to do it this. The momentum which carried us through '95, is going to double our lead in '96. By professing to serve you well. and by doing it better than others, we shall continue to command success by deserving it. Trade shows a remarkable tendency to pass the smaller stores and come to the big ones. That means larger variety, accommodation increased lower prices. It means better taste and judgment for getting goods together, better organization for showing them, and better facilities for service. It means a harvest of business beyond the imagination of anyone, easily within our reach. It means that this store accepts the responsibility of higher value and better service, with your goodwill as part of our profit. It means that keeping faith with you perfectly will continue to be our policy.

TODAY THE STORE WILL BE CLOSED.

We Wish One And All A Happy And Prosperous New Year!
