LITTLE DANGER OF FLOOD

Engineer Moore was seen this morning in regard to the height of the spring freshet and the possible connection therewith of the Springbank waterworks dam. Owing to a law suit, which for four years has been pending against the city for damages caused to the property of a citizen by the existence of the dam, Mr. Moore declined to express any opinion. He did not consider there was any danger of a flood this year. Former floods have been mainly due to the ice which formed in the branches, and this year there was very little ice to come down. The snow up the country is almost all gone. At Springbank now the water is only four feet above

Y. W. C. A. CAKE SALE. The exhibition and sale of homemade cakes held last year was such a success that a second one will be held i in the Y. W. C. A. next Friday afternoon. The object is a good one, for, although the boarding department of Summerholm is entirely self-sustaining, it is necessary from time to time to appeal to the public for funds to improve and repair the building. The $37 cleared last year by the sale enabled the board to pay off all indebtedness in connection with the new verandah, and an even more successful sale is looked for this year, so that the building may be repainted and put into first-class order for the coming season. Contributions of cake should be sent as early as possible on Friday, and purchasers are advised to be early. as the demand last year far exceeded

And One Is the Other's Aunt-A London Family Strangely Stricken.

Inspector Sanders recently heard a story that was unusually pathetic, and as the result of his investigations, he is now looking for foster-homes for two little babes. One was born about four weeks ago, and shortly afterwards the mother died. Two weeks later another child was born to this woman's daughter, who was living at home, and a few days ago she, too, died. So the two little ones were left motherless. There are now thirteen children in the house. which is not a fit place for the babes, and Mr. Sanders is anxious that, as soon as possible, they may be adopted into better homes.

Lisbon, April 4.- The question of the transport of British troops across Portuguese territory from Beira, Portuguese East Africa, into Rhodesia, having been brought up in the Chamber of Deputies, the foreign minister, Senor Beirao, made the following statement:

"The transport of British soldiers by railroad from Beira to Umtali was requested by Great Britain and consented doctrines of her faith. "There could occupy no more solemn occasion than the present to declare that the British Cabinet has maintained with Portugal relations of cordiality and loyalty for which there is reason knowing. Please God that these good relations shall always be main-tained."

Building Prospects.

Architect Henry, when asked as to the prospects for building this year, replied that they were quite encouraging. His own firm is quite as busy as usual at this time of the year, and next month is expected to be an especialy busy one. Plans are being pre-pared for a number of stores, dwelling houses, country churches, etc. No large buildings are projected as yet. If the possible strike of bricklayers should take place, it will give the building trade a decided setback, as people will not undertake building if delay or increased cost is likely to ensue. Most people would rather wait a year or two for their buildings. Mr. A. A. Campbell, the well-known real estate agent, says he anticipates that trade in real estate will be unusually brisk this year—the best, in fact, for some years. During the month of March he disposed of seventeen parcels of property. There are very few vacant houses in any part of the city, there being perhaps a few more vacant in the north end than in other districts. Owing to the increase in the price of building material, people evidently prefer to buy houses al-ready erected rather than build for themselves. Houses are accordingly bringing better values than they did last year, and there is more demand for houses than for building lots. There will, however, be considerable building to meet the demand for houses, which is greatly in excess of the supply.

THE SHAKERS.

Few people know that the birthplace of the Shaker religion in New England is Harvard, a picturesque little Massachusetts town about forty miles west of Boston. It was here that Mother Ann Lee, an English woman, came in the summer of 1781, with a little band of devoted followers, to expound the

Shirley. During the last fifty years interest in the Shakers has gradually died out, and the membership all over New England has grown smaller and smaller. As there are never any births in a Shaker family, the only hope of growth lies in taking in new members from the outside. Of course, the logical result of such a theory is that death will deplete the ranks, and so today the communities at Harvard and Shirley are not as large and prosperous as they were A large proportion of the two families are old men and women, and there are few young members to take their places in the years to come.—Boston Herald.
