NEW YORKERS SEE JEFFRIES PUGILIST A WARM FAVORITE

Crowd Yelled Themselves Hoarse When They Saw Him at Work in a Theatre---Many Sports There---Just as Good as Ever.

New York, March 3.—For the first time theatre was filled some little time before in vaudeville, James J. Jeffries, heavy-weight pugilist, appeared this afternoon at the matinee performance at Blaney's Lincoin Square Theatre, and the house was crowded to its doors and even beyond by enthusiastic sports to see him. The public got its first chance to judge how Jeffries looked when stripped, as he came on the stage ready for a turn in his stunts on the stage was his pose as came on the stage ready for a turn in the "gymnasium" and for a bout with his sparring partner, Sam Berger.

Duncan B. Harrison, the actor and -theatrical manager, thought he saw big it a roaring burlesque. It was very funny to see the big fellow trying to do the heavy with his two paws hanging stiffly A curious and unexpected danger is made known by a case reported by a German doctor. A farmer was using artificial fertilizer, when a little was blown into his eve. but caused only artificial fertilizer, when a little was blown into his eye, but caused only a slight burning. In two days, however, the inflammation was very severe, the final result being a total loss of the eye.

Burd Soft or Bleeding.

Went at it so fiercely it looked as if he was going to knock out Nora in one road, and his show became stranded in the backwoods, the whole company being compelled to scratch hard to get back to New York. Besides Harrison and his star actor had a fearful row, which came near being a tragedy. ner, All Saints' Club; J. Burke, 21
