"FITZ" SAYS LONDON FILCHED, YET CITY HOLDS LEAGUE TOGETHER

President of Canadian League Gives His Reasons for Soaking London With a Fifty-Dollar Fine-Hamilton a Punk Town for Baseball.

tion of the local baseball situation, as given in the Globe, simply created a smile in London, Somebody told him that Ban Johnson acted in such a man ner, and Jimmy is trying to follow in nis footsteps. It is quite apparent that James is side-stepping somewhat, and simply has the attitude, not the equipment, of greatness. No, James has been listening to the vaporings of the "Swat the Fly" editor, who writes sport on the Hamilton Spectator, and draws a salary for acting as secretary of the Canadian

President Fitzgerald has got out of rouch with the situation in London, or Londo rather never has been in touch, and gether. has not the remotest idea of conditions n this city. It is all very well to act as an autocrat or dictator, regardless of the right or wrong of the matter, but the fact is that dictators and autocrats have frequently been victims of their own folly. James may get some satisfaction out of his attitude, but at the same time giving baseball an awful jar in on. Probably he figures that the Canadian League can get along without this city, but it is equally certain that London can get along well without the Canadian League. It is not essential to our happiness in London, as some of the dictators will discover some of these

The president intimates that this is the second time that London has threatened to withdraw from the feague this year. The first instance was on the appointment of a certain umpire for London. There never was a greater injustice done to any club in any league than to foist Johnston on the London club for a long series of games. He' was so absolutely ncompetent, in London at least, that the attendance was affected, and only the attractive powers of the Ottawa club nade the directors anticipate a game with any degree of satisfaction. Still, Mr. Fitzgerald refused to listen to the protests, not only of London, but of Ottawa, and kept him here day after day, until the fans were disgusted not only with the umpire but with the actions of the president, who boasts loudly of fair play and then gets his inspiration from the sanctum of the sporting editor of the Hamilton Spectator. Of course, the directors were not pleased with the action of the president, and they informed thim of such in rather a nice manner. It is hould have been more forcibly done.

Other leagues have gone to the wall in Ontario, James, Don't be too certain that this pet little outfit of yours does not hit the graveyard before very long. You are doing much to help it to the cemetery, Jimmy. Keep it up and then you will be happy.

Fitzgerald had no reason to assess that fine, under any consideration. Hamilton gets by with more crude work than any Fitzgerald joke, a tribute to Jimmy's President Fitzgerald's judicial expesi- perverted sense of humor, a la the Hamilton Spectator. The facts of the case have not been properly stated to the president, the offer of the London club being very generous. To go into the matter a trifle further, what right had he general factorum of the league, the secretary, to hold back for six months or more $300 which was the lawful property of the London club? It was not the league's money. The directors of he London club are responsible men and are solvent. The league, if it had any rightful claim on the men, could obtain redress. Yet it holds the money belonging to the London club without making any effort to play squarely by the local directors.

> London last year held the league together. This was a great city so long as the shekels were pouring into the coffers of the other clubs, and they were coffers of the other clubs, and they were paying their way with London money. Hamilton, with its great sporting editor and all the rest, did not live up to its boasted reputation as a money town, and London had to bear the brunt of the burden. This year Ottawa is sharing the burden with London, and it seems that the officials of the league are the parties who are doing all in their power to put the financial end of the league out of business.

Mr Fitzgerald talks glibly about the ranchise and what the league can do. Let them take it away, and there will be no baseball in London. If the league can get along without the money furnished by London, we certainly can exist without the kind of baseball Jim Fitzgerald's umpires allow them to play.

No, Jimmy is not a second cousin to Solomon, and there will be no outery for him to take Sir William R. Meredith's position on the bench. He is a nice boy, position on the bench. He is a nice boy, too, but he is giving the league management absent treatment. As a result he is giving his ideas from the bluff, and he cannot see where right or wrong comes in. There was a great outcry about Mr. Donald Ferguson, former president of the Canadian League, raised in Hamilton last year, but Dan Ferguson gave every club a fair deal. The new president, if he treats his position seriously, should get around down this way and see things. His vision is jaundiced, so far as London is concerned, and he is going along the right way to kill off baseball in London.

Mr. Fitzgerald talks about the London club filehing money from other clubs. For the love of Mike, Jimmy, be reasonthe, under any consideration. Hamilton able. Had it not been for London last year the ball players would have been ity on the circuit, and there is never walking the ties back home, or borrowdity on the circuit, and there is never a word said. It is alleged that not a single club, with the possible exception of St. Thomas, can take an affidavit that they were strictly within the rules on the pass game last year. London offended probably, but not to the extent that Hamilton did, nor several others. The assessment of $25 for extras is a for the guarantee of the pass game as the feet of the condon club $91 for two games there this week. They had to pay $40 for the second game—the guarantee—or the feet of the counsels would have had to here. for the second game—the guarantee—or the Tecumsehs would have had to bor-row money to get back to London. It looks as if the president and the secre-tary are anxious to get all the money out of London it is possible to collect. If it cannot be got easily, President Fitz-gerald and Secretary Robinson try the corkscrew method. The London club does not need to file from any of the oes not need to filch from any of the > President Fitzgerald's great deliverance the ticket case is given as follows: on the ticket case is given as follows:

> "All last season London, against the rules of the league, issued passes on which they paid no percentage to the other clubs, with the exception of St. Thomas, who demanded and received its share. The very fact that St. Thomas collected its share convicted the management of double dealing.
> "A committee was appointed by the league to investigate the matter, and they assessed Lowdon $242—the full league to investigate the matter, and they assessed London $243—the full amount of every ticket issued. At the last meeting of the league, at the request of London, the decision was turned over to the president for reconsideration. London at the time expressed them selves as willing to pay $125, which they said was owing on the tickets used as stated by the gentlemen who held them. ne club owner stated that in one day went in on these tickets, those holdng them bringing in several others with them. On this basis the amount figured was $25, a decidedly conservative esti-

"Whether knowing of their manager's "Whether knowing of their manager's action or not, the London club were certainly guilty of double-dealing, and on that count a fine of $50 was imposed upon them. The other $200 is ordered divided among the clubs London fliched—Brantford, Berlin, Hamilton and Guelph. The London owners are rather misstating their powers. It is the second time in the past few weeks that they have preatened such dire proceedings. threatened such dire proceedings. The gentlemen in possession there forget that they can't disrupt the league by withdrawing from a territory which is not theirs at all, but the league's. In the next place their possession of the franchise is entirely a matter of the league's sufferance. It is high time the London gentlemen should learn that they are but eighth partners with the other seven clubs in the London territory and they clubs in the London territory, and they
