

APPOINT NEW CHATHAM FIRST AID LECTURER

[Special to London Advertiser.]
CHATHAM, Jan. 12.—Dr. Garnet Schullard has been appointed lecturer for the first aid classes in the Chatham Industrial School, taking the place made vacant by the death of the late Dr. R. V. Bray. The announcement was made by Principal Harry Collins this morning, following the opening of the spring classes of the Industrial School.

RHEUMATIC PAIN Rub it right out—Try this!

Rheumatism is "pain only."
Not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Stop druging! Rub the rubber right away! Rub soothing penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil" directly into the sore, stiff joints and muscles and relief comes instantly. "St. Jacobs Oil" conquers pain. It is a harmless rheumatism remedy which never disappoints and does not blister.

ELGIN LAWYERS ELECT McCRIMMON PRESIDENT

[Special to London Advertiser.]
ST. THOMAS, Jan. 12.—Crown Attorney A. McCrimmon was elected president of the Elgin Law Association at its annual meeting held at the courthouse Wednesday. The other officers were: Vice-president, E. A.
Miller; treasurer, W. L. Wickert; secretary, C. S. St. Clair Leitch, K.C.; trustees, W. K. Cameron, K.C., Judge Colter, J. B. Davidson, E. C.
Sanders and J. D. Shaw.

Excellent reports were read by the treasurer, trustees and librarian. The books in the library, according to the report, now number 2716.
Resolutions of condolence to the families of the late Judge C. O.
Ermatinger, who before his death was an active member of the association, and the late Hon. T. W. Crothers, a former member of the association, were passed.

MEIGHEN FACES KEEN BATTLE IN ELECTION RACE

Progressive Candidate Seems Determined To Force Showdown.

RAILWAYS TO BE ISSUE

Former Premier Likely, However, To Obtain Victory At Grenville.

PRESCOTT, Ont., Jan. 12.—Although all indications point to the victory of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen in his contest for election in Grenville, keen opposition is promised the former premier by the Progressive nominee, Arthur K. Patterson.

By rather a coincidence Mr. Meighen opened his campaign for the Conservative party with a big rally at Spencerville, which is also in Grenville County, where he is now seeking election as a private member.

Arthur K. Patterson, his opponent, has placed himself on record as being a supporter of the Progressive party and of its leader, Hon. T. A. Crerar.

Mr. Meighen in opening his campaign today, deplored the fact that the recent federal contest was not fought on either the tariff or railway issues. As the fight progressed Mr. Crerar had spoken less and less of free trade and had been ready to concede more and more to the doctrine of protection. He then proceeded to review his own attitude towards the tariff. It was in the very nature of nationality, he said, that a country's trade should be protected.

To Force Showdown.

Mr. Meighen revealed his intention of forcing a general showdown upon the question of the National Railways.
"There is a very influential body of opinion in this country," said he, "which is determined that the National Railways will not remain national if they can possibly prevent it. They are resolved that these railways shall be turned back to private ownership just as soon as that transaction can be consummated."

After outlining "premature railway construction" in which the country had indulged and after referring to the financial measures which had been resorted to in order to prevent a crash, he claimed that both T. A. Crerar and Premier Durney had stood on platforms and supported this railway policy.

"What right have they?" he said "to point the finger of scorn at Sir Wilfrid Laurier? Much less, what right have they to reproach me, who opposed the scheme?" asked Mr. Meighen. "They have no right whatever to do so nor to come forward now in robes of white posing as exemplars of the new sanctification of political events," he added.

Would Unite System.

He justified the acquisition of the Canadian Northern, which was now the backbone of the whole government system. It was a great political asset and would yet become the pride of Canada. "The time has now come," said Mr. Meighen, with emphasis, "when the whole National Railway system should be brought together, united and operated as one single unit."

"There is an act on the statute books providing for this. It is the clear duty of the present government to give effect to what is obviously the intent of this law."

Fears Consequence.

"If we yield to this reactionary element which is urging that these railways be returned to private ownership," he predicted that "this country is headed straight for the precipice of bankruptcy."

Digressing, he playfully attacked Mr.
Crerar from another angle. "I don't even know whether the Progressive leader is still in opposition," he said.
"When last I heard of him he was negotiating with Mr. King."

"At any rate," proceeded Mr.
Meighen, "he certainly was adopting an attitude of benevolent neutrality.
Under these circumstances I cannot see how he is able to lead an effective opposition."

"At the same time I have never thought that it was either his spirit or intent to bring about an amalgamation, but he did want to get just as close to the Liberals as he safely could."
