When Mr. Borden rose to speak he was greeted with applause. After thanking those present for the ception tendered him he said: "When we came into power the friends of the Liberal party made the prophecy that we would not carry on the government of the country for more than six months. However, we have taken the liberty of extending that time.

"We inherited from the previous government a considerable number of difficult and delicate questions." I am not going to enter fully upon those tonight, when I do it will be in more detail than is possible at such a gathering as this. But have
