Why Don't They All Follow? Editor World: I notice in your issue of this morning that H. W. Darling is going to locate nently in New York. Is there no way of inducing Robert Jaffray, Goldwin Smith, E. Farrer, Cartwright, et al., to start for the land of Farrer, Cartwright, et al., to start for the land of promise also? If money is needed I would cheerfully chip in my $10 for the purpose of providing funds to transplant these gentry to the "market of 65,000,00," provided that I had a reasonable assurance given that they would stay removed; and I am perfectly sure that the country and the Liberal party would both be immensely benefited, and I would fain hope that the gentlemen themselves would be also. In politics I am a Liberal but I am not one of these hide-bound politicians who stick to party rather than principle, and last election I cast my vote for the Conservatives, as I consider that in this instance they were the true Cauadian party, and in doing so I consider that I showed myself to be a Real LIBERAL.
