A Case of Expediency.
The World has more than once had occur mendation of the logica ore no surprise to find the Baptist ministers of the city at their recent meeting chaileng applicants for state aid in connection were found just where one would expect to find them, opposing the acceptance of Government grants and, for that matter, the giving of Government grants to sectarian bodies for that purpose. Although it is impossible to refrain from admiring their Lindi within German East African proiple, in this particular case there are peier circumstances that perhaps justify a departure from the rules that should govern the state in its attitude towards the urches. These circumstances may be efly stated. The task imposed on the Povernment as the guardians of the Indiana is no light one, as the public accounts plainly show. Practically the whole Indian population of the Northwest has to be maintained out of the public purse. But besides feeding them the Government has provided men to instruct them in the But besides feeding them the Government has provided men to instruct them in the work of tilling the soil, and the wives of sian Jews into Germany has been with generation in the three R.'s would be a generation in the three it's would be greater than the three it's would be greater than the three it's further and a heavy addition to the expenses of Indian management. Under these circumstances the Government has availed it self of the missionaries of the various churches in the work of education. They have by this means secured a corps of teachers whose zeal could not be matched by any body of paid teachers. Indeed the work is of chief that could easier. Country Roads,

The bicycle journey from Chicago to New York which was devised by Gen. Miles to test the possible use of the bicycle in war has demonstrated something that was not part of the problem the General desired to solve. It has demonstrated that the gountry roads between those two cities, text, "Render unto Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's," and in his turn quoted, as closely as his memory and acquaintance would allow him the text, "Ye make clean the outside of the cup and the platter; but your inward part is full of ravening and wickedness." He then said that glorification of Canada was the washing and gilding of the platter, and was in favor of making clean the inward life of the people. "Then go and wash yourself!" cried a hearer. "There's a duty on soap," said he mournfully. "Time! Time!" was now shouted everywhere, and Mr. Armstrong sprang to his feet and moved that the speaker be closed off. Dr. Nesbitt seconded him. The speaker seemed inclined to dispute this, but bowed to the chairman's will and sat down after moving an ameudment that the Governer-General be asked to proclaim a fast day throughout the Dominion. A storm of hisses and groans followed him down, and subsided only when the resolution was placed before the meeting, and was passed with enthusiastic shouts, Mr. Macdonald's one solitary "No!" being recorded against it. The enthusiasm continued till Dr. King advanced to the front.

Dr. King advanced to the front. A Committee of Conference, When that veteran speaker began to ad gress the meeting the indomitable E. A. rose to a point of order. There was, he said, n assured him that he was about to introduce a motion, and Mr. Macdonald again subsida motion, and Mr. Macdonald again subsided. Dr. King then moved that a committee consisting of Rev. John Burton, G. T. Blackstock, Principal MacMurchy, Dr. Nesbitt, R. S. Baird, Col. Denison, Alexander Muir, J. C. Hopkins, Frank Yeigh, R. L. Patterson, J. S. Fullerton, E. E. Sheppard, E. W. McIntyre, J. J. Withrow, J. Herbert Mason, W. D. Macpherson, A. d. Hallam, Ald. Saunders, and mover and seconder should confer with the City Council and cooperate with that body to carry the views of the meeting to a successful issue. Dr. Nesbitt seconded the resolution, but not till after Mr. Macdonsid had attempted to do so in order that as seconder he might be a after Mr. Macdonsid had attempted to do so in order that as seconder he might be a member of the committee. As it was, however, he had no more than left his seat before he was greeted with a mighty "Sit down!" Dr. Nesbitt began to quote, "Breathes there a man with soul so dead," when a voice from the back of the house said, "Yes; Macdonald."

Once again Mr. Macdonald tried to speal and once again did the audience convey i disapprobation of him to his ears.

Mr. C. T. Long was called upon and the audience quieted down and listened to one audience quieted down and listened to one of the best and most sarcastic drubbings Mr. Macdonald has been called upon to endure. The most that that long-suffering apostle of annexation could do was smile with his best expression of derision; but it did not work very well. He was glad, Mr. Long, said that Mac had come; he had stirred up the loyalty of the audience to the proper pitch of enthusiasm. "I ask you especially to hear him," he said, "if he speaks again. Every speech he makes cuts his throat. If we had twenty like him we should have out; not hundreds, not thousands, but millions of Canadians, celebrating the national holiday and marching in procession. I will take down his words, continued Mr. Long, "and they will have the same effect upon the people at large that they have had upon this audience!" Continuing Mr. Long congratulated the meeting upon the union of all creeds, parties and races on the platform, and phophesied that soon the politicians would be only too glad to profess their loyalty. Then Mr. Long concluded a rattling and effective speech with another reference to Mr. Meadonald and took his seat.

The audience was now prepared to disperse, when Mr. Alexander Muir, who had been vigorously called for, responded to the shouts and delivered a pointed and effectual 8 of the best and most sarcastic drubbings Mr.
