

CHICAGO MARKET.

BUSINESS SLACK, EVEN IN PROVISIONS—GRAIN VISIBLES 11,000,000 TOO LOW.

Chicago, July 14.

Appearance of market to-day not materially different from yesterday's. Millers and bakers are loaded up, consequently there is no demand for the cereals, besides the arrivals are heavy. Visible supply of wheat in Argentine ports, 828,000 bushels, and of corn 5,520,000 bushels, compared with 1,280,000 and 2,392,000 bushels. Transactions in Chicago market this morning were very few in number comparatively, and the price for wheat therefore was steadily declining in the morning. The visible supply of grain given in all the reports as yet published, is in Chicago, eleven million bushels below what it should be, the private elevators in this city containing all that, over and above the publicly announced visible supply. Hence the continued low prices of grain.

Provisions are declining a little, but business is lifeless this morning. Grain dealers in other places than Chicago would do well not to forget that 11,000,000 bushels in private elevators are ready to come out on any bulge in prices.

Hogs to-day, 22,000, for to-morrow 18,000. At Liverpool, wheat cabled $\frac{1}{8}$ higher.
