STUDY OF CANADIAN RESPONSE TO NATIONAL ENERGY ISSUES

Question No. 4,459—Mr. Mazankowski:

Did the Department of Energy, Mines and Resources authorize a "study of Canadian response to national energy issues" and, if so (a) who will be conducting the study and at what cost (b) what are the terms of reference for the study (c) on what date will it be completed?

Hon. Jean Chrétien (Minister of Energy, Mines and Resources): The Department of Energy, Mines and Resources reports as follows:

EM&R, in consultation with Statistics Canada, initiated a research program in late 1980 to assess public knowledge, attitudes and behaviour patterns, over time, towards the energy situation in Canada. The "study of Canadian response to national energy issues" was part of this ongoing research.
