

There are excellent wagon roads up the valley from Golden southward to Fort Steele and Cranbrook, with a branch road leading to Wilmer. Already the Provincial Government HAS EXPENDED $400,000 on a motor road, now under construction, from Banff to Windermere, part of the GREAT NATIONAL HIGHWAY, which will thus pass in front of ALL the lands of the Company.

Golden, with its magnificent lumber mills, lighted and run by electricity, has long been a commercial strategic point for supplying the prairie market with lumber. Now its railway and transportation facilities have been greatly increased. Why should it not become, in the immediate future, likewise a DISTRIBUTING CENTRE FOR THE ROOTS, FRUITS AND HAY that this valley will produce from its virgin soil? or at least for such of these products as do not find their outlet southward by way of this new and important branch of the C.P.R. line?

But, for the next ten or fifteen years, the valley itself, with its manifold GROWING ACTIVITIES IN FARMING, LUMBERING, MINING AND RANCHING, and with its constant influx of additional population, will afford A HOME MARKET for everything that can be produced.

Medicinal Springs. A Rival of the Banff Springs

A unique feature for which the valley is already well known is the Sinclair Hot Springs, three miles from the river and 61 from Golden. From the foot of a high, ochre-stained cliff there is A CONTINUOUS FLOW OF HOT MINERALIZED WATER. As far back as there is any record, the Springs have had a reputation for the benefits derived from its use for bathing and drinking. In 1913, a London analyst reported that the water contained a larger amount of radium than any on record, materially exceeding even the famous waters of Bath, England.

An English Company has taken over the property, and, it is understood, will construct a modern sanitarium and bathing works.

Twenty-six miles south of Sinclair and eighteen south of Athabasca are the Fairmount Hot Springs, not so great in extent, but FEEL AS WELL KNOWN AND AS EFFECTIVE as the Sinclair Hot Springs.

Scenery and Sport

The scenery of the Windermere district is almost unrivalled, and has often been compared to the MOST STRIKING FEATURES OF THE ALPS AND THE HIMALAYAS. On the one side, the foothills and benches rising for more than two miles into the snow-capped summits of the Selkirks; on the other, THE PRECIPITOUS PEAKS OF THE ROCKIES, with many a mountain stream dashing its foaming way from rock to rock, into the slow and tranquil meanderings of the Columbia.

The Sportsmen will find game of all kinds: grizzly and
