STRUCK BY FADIAL CAR

Fatal Accident on the Burlington Beach Line. HAMILTON, Dec. 18.—(Special.)—A man who gave a name which sounded like Edward Kellar, died at the city hospital at 5 o'clock this morning, as the result of injuries sustained thru being struck by a radial car on the beach last night. The accident occurred in front of the power house near Burlington. The deceased is thought to have been under the influence of liquor and to have endeavored to hall the car while standing too close to the track. Nothing is known of his relatives. An inquest will be held.

James Hughes Somerville, who died in Toronto last night, some years ago conducted a dry goods store in this eity, and was afterwards a trave-er for the W. E. Sanford Co. He was an active member of Centenary Church in its early days. The body will be intered on Tuesday afternoon.

LIGHTING AERIAL PATHS.

BERLIN, Dec. 18.—Germany is now considering the question of lighting acrial thorofares. Experiments at Johann sthal, near Berlin, have shown that small captive balloons can be used to provide airmen with light. Street lamps afford terrectrial lightships and buoys regulate maritime traffic. For this reason, it is argued, that the airmen should have lights.

The halicons used in the experi-ments varied in size. The largest had a diameter of eight feet and the smallest three and a half feet. They were lighted with electricity which was conducted by a wire communicating with the earth. These lights were visible for gix miles.

OTTAWA, Dec. 18 .- (Special.) - The apital has been practically descried capital has been practically descrited by members of parliament and the five hundred farmers who thronged the houseof commons last week and asked Sir Wilfrid Laurier for redress of their alleged grievances, have also departed. They came to Ottawa at Sir Wilfrid's own suggestion, and they have gone away almost empty handed. No matter how radical were the demands of the agriculturists—and the premier voiced the sentiment in these words on Friday, "In the west your ideas are far more advanced than those of the east"—the government was cognizant of the fact before their arrival. Burglar, Sentenced to Three Years in Kingston, Breaks Out of Welland Jail,

WELLAND, Dec. 18 -- (Special)-Judge Wells last week to three years in Kingston Penitentiary, escaped from Welland Jail at 11.15 this morning. He walked out of the main entrance of the court house. Had the earth swallowed him, his escape could not have been more secure. Dinner was being served at 11 o'clock and Turnkey Mains was carrying out the cups.

Dickout saw his chance and made: rush for the door, knocking the turn-key over as he passed. The door lead-ing from the corridors to the office was ajar. The fugitive pulled it to after him. In the 30 or 40 seconds it took Mr. Mains to unlock the door, Dickout got away scot free. The police were on the case in a few minutes, and the frontier force promptly notified to be on the alert, but thus far all efforts are unrewarded. Dickout was arrested for burglarizing at Ridgeway. In giving contence, Judge Wells made coatning reference to the young man's life, to which the young culprit returned a bland smile.

But Commented Instead on Bank Manager's Investment-Lindsay Trial Drags On.

LINDSAY, Dec. 18 .- (Special-)-The Crown's case against McGill, Coulter and Fleury, former employes of the with conspiracy, was not finished on Saturday when the court rose at 12.15. Judge Harding complained of feeling unwell, hence the early adjournment. The case goes on on Monday at 2 p.m. In some quarters it is remarked as strange that W. R. Travers, general manager of the Farmers' Bank of Canada, has not been called as a witness. Mr. Travers has been subpoenced by the defence, and as the defence has not begun its case, except under cross-examination, he has not yet been called. He was present during the sessions all last week and was armed with books and documents, ready to go fully into the affairs of the bank.

So far, from the spectator's stand-Farmers' Bank of Canada, charged with books and documents, ready to go fully into the affairs of the bank.

So far, from the spectator's standpoint, the case seems to have been guided with the aim to investigate the bank rather than the conduct of the defendants. In this regard the evidence has gone far afield and has developed interesting comments from the bench and the bar. It is not strange then that sympathy is evinced for the bank which, no matter how interesting to the uninitiated its business details might be, still in this action desired only to do a public service in vindicating its right to the business it had created, and to safeguard other financial institutions from similar treatment.

Injustice to Manager.

Those who have knowledge of the money transactions of banks in connection gith moneys heretofore consider Judge Harding's remark relative to the general manager of the bank as uncalled for. Judge Harding said: The question is not what is the value of the Keeley mine, but rather the question of the sanity of a banker who would invest so much in a mine." Is that really the question before the court? Or is it not?

In some quarters it is regarded as a hardship that Frank C. Loring, one of the best mining engineers in Canada, and Kenneth Rose, a mining engineer of standing and experience, were not allowed to give evidence as to the value of the Keeley mine. Mr. Loring is consulting engineer for the Wetlauffer mine, that adjoins the Keeley and is understood to have said that he considered the Keeley mine as worth from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000. A deal now under negotiation could be closed within a week to net the bank a large profit. Perhaps this evidence will come out later, as it would be a complete answer to the hint that the large loan profit. Perhaps this evidence will come out later, as it would be a complete answer to the hint that the large loan to the Keeley mine was bad business. Tho as Judge Harding says, the Keeley mine is not on trial.

It was rumored that N. F. Davidson, K.C., had said he would retire from the case if the bank would let him. This is not true. What he said is that he would not retire from the case even if the bank wished it.

Saturday's Proceedings.

Saturdays trial proceedings were uninteresting. A. W. Augustine of Burnham told of purchasing stock at $100, $60, 55 and $25.25, and then Loring, the mining engineer, was called to give evidence concerning the Keeley mine.

Judge Harding, however, remarked:

"I'm not going to try the value of a hole in the ground or an alleged mine as a banking investment."

"I want to show what.

"I want to show whether it is a hole in the ground or not," retorted Mr. Davidson. "I have evidence to show that this engineer is buying air from the Keeley mine for the Wetlauffer mine."

Mr. Loring was not allowed, despite Mr. Davidson's protest, to give his opinions and the same fate befel Kenneth Rose, another expert.

David Malcolm, a depositor, swore Coulter had seen him, with a large book, like a ledger. He confided to Mr. Cowan that as McGill was a friend, he would expect a friendly hint from he would expect a friendly hint from him if occasion demanded. The crown's case will be completed

J. Stewart lectured last evening at the Socialist Hall, 10 and 12 Alicestreet. He took as his topic "The Tendency of Capitalism." He outlined the Socialist interpretation of history, namely, that society is determined by the way it gets its living. A change in the method by which society produces its wealth would reflect itself in a change of superstructure, the morals and the legal expressions. He emphasized the importance of understanding history in order to study the development of society, to aid us in our investigation as to what is the fundamental law of social development. After tracing the downfall of feudalism and the vice of capitalism, which the speaker maintained had already fulfilled its mission by organizing industry, he said that must pass away to make room for another order of society. Williams was wearing another overcoat, which Detective Taylor has identified as having been stolen from another man on Bond-street.
