

FARE-BOX THIEF WAS CONVICTED

Percy Mould Found Guilty of Stealing From Street Railway Company.

Percy Mould, who was sentenced to one year in the Central Prison a few days ago for stealing two suitcases and an overcoat, appeared again this morning on a charge of having stolen a fare box from a Hamilton road car on the night of Feb. 6. He was found guilty and sentence was suspended.

Several witnesses were called, and although Mould testified that he was innocent, the evidence against him was very strong.

The first witness called was David Mason, who said that on the night of the theft he found Mould battering a fare box against an iron sewer vent on the street. Mould, who had broken it open, Mason helped him to pick up the tickets.

Mason asked Mould where he got the box and Mould answered that he got it from a fellow who stole it from a Wellington street car. He then advised him to take it to the police station, but the prisoner did not answer.

Edward Vincent was then called and identified Mould as the man who had tried to sell him a lot of street car tickets at the corner of Richmond and King streets on the evening of Feb. 6.

He offered to sell him some street car tickets for 25 cents, and when he refused to buy he offered him 10 for 10 cents.

Inspector Grice, of the London Street Railway, was called and told of the box, which was produced in court, having been given to him by some boys who said that they found it.

When sentencing the prisoner, the magistrate pointed out to him the meaning of suspended sentence, and warned him that he could be sent to a penitentiary for a long term of years after serving the year to which he had already been sentenced.

Harry Milner, who stole a sum of money from the boarding-house at which he was staying on Dundas street (and who was suspected of having stolen the fare box from the Hamilton road car), was remanded for one week for sentence.

Milner was brought to this country some time ago by the Salvation Army, and the local authorities are of the opinion that he is a suitable subject for deportation, as the law provides that if any person from a foreign country is convicted of any serious crime before he has been in the country two years he may be sent back.

The Salvation Army officials will be requested to bear the expense of sending Milner back to the old country, and if they refuse then the matter will be referred to the Minister of the Interior, in which case the city will have to bear the entire expense of his deportation.

Two first-time drunks were allowed to go and Tom McKenzie was bailed for one week.

FAMOUS WOMAN COMING

Miss Marie Shedlock, the Interpreter of Hans Christian Andersen.

It is predicted that Miss Marie L. Shedlock, of London, England, will duplicate the success of Dr. Moulton in this city. Dr. Moulton is one of her intimates and friends, and their work is of similar lines.

Miss Shedlock comes to America with a great reputation as an educationalist and lecturer, and her audiences this week should fill the Auditorium. She appears under the auspices of the Women Teachers' Guild.

The opening lecture on Thursday night is on "The Fun and Philosophy of Hans Christian Andersen," with story illustrations. This will be a treat for grown-ups and children in their teens alike.

Lady Henry Somerset says of Miss Shedlock: "I know of no one who can captivate children's imaginations as can Marie Shedlock, nor do I know any man that has grasped so intensely the value and the beauty of the old fairy tale, and is so delicate, so subtle, or so simple a story-teller as she. It is her belief, and I share it with her, that the fun and the philosophy of such a writer as Hans Andersen is absolutely invaluable for educational purposes."

Occasionally you meet a man who is so long on language of a superior sort that the dictionary pursues every time he comes near it.

Handing out trouble to other people is putting it on interest for ourselves. The best job some men ever did is the one they gave the undertaker.

MONEY IN PEANUTS

Vendors Ready to Pay $400 a Year for Unrestricted Licenses

Is there money in peanuts? There certainly must be—not in eating them, but in selling them.

City Clerk Baker stated today that a gentleman called on him, and told him that if the city is willing to strike a bargain, the peanut men of the city will give $400 a year for the privilege of selling peanuts from carts anywhere on the streets.

It is not improbable that a formal offer will be made to the city along these lines.

The bylaw passed by the city, and which aims to keep the peanut men off the main streets, is bearing heavily on some of them. Only those whose licenses were issued before the bylaw was passed are allowed to sell in the business district.

Soon all will be barred, and then business will be very bad in the peanut line for the car men.

Consequently, they are said to be endeavoring to make it worth the city's while to allow them to sell, where they claim they are a real accommodation to the public.

THE WOODMEN WIN

Important Decision Rendered in Their Favor at Owen Sound.

Owen Sound, March 3.—A case of unusual interest to fraternal societies was settled in assize court here Saturday.

The defendants maintained that the policy had been obtained by fraud, and went about the business of a medical man, were called, it being held that when the policy was taken out Lamont was suffering from an incurable malady. The jury brought in a verdict for the defense.

Bruce & Fay, of Collingwood, appeared for the plaintiffs, and W. C. Fitzgerald, of London, and Hon. A. G. McKay, of Owen Sound, for the defense.

Port-au-Prince, Hayti, March 4.—The German ministers here have notified the Haytian Government that the reply of Germany to the representations of Hayti on the subject of the banking house of Herman & Co., of this city, will be brought here by the cruiser Panther.

GATHERING FOR THE NEW DOUMA

The Deputies of Russia's Second Parliament Crowding Into St. Petersburg.

St. Petersburg, March 4.—The deputies to Russia's second Parliament are streaming into St. Petersburg from all directions for the opening session at noon tomorrow. Over 300 members have already arrived, and others are expected by the morning trains tomorrow. The deputies here are nearly all strangers in St. Petersburg and many having the stamp of the glories of the big city, are easily distinguished in wandering groups, starting at the stately palaces and cathedrals. All went to the Tauride Palace yesterday, where, after inspecting the remodeled building, they selected their places in the session hall by the stamp of the glories of the big city, are easily distinguished in wandering groups, starting at the stately palaces and cathedrals.

The present composition of the Lower House is as follows: Monarchists 90, Moderate Octoberists 29, Nationalists 43, Progressives 29, Constitutional Democrats and their adherents 52, Left Party 192, Indefinites 13. Excluding the latter party, the House may be arrayed in three main groups, 126 on the right, composed of Monarchists, Constitutional Democrats and Moderates, 164 in the center composed of Constitutional Democrats, Progressives and Poles, 192 on the left composed of Social Democrats, Group of Toil and Social Revolutionists; but this arrangement is liable to change on account of the shifting attitude of the Octoberists, Poles and other groups on various questions.

Yesterday was a busy day for the leaders. Conferences of all parties were held to determine what the opening tactics should be. As had been anticipated, there was a general disposition on the part of the opposition to avoid as far as possible the tendency to invoke immediate dissolution. At the same time opportunity will be given the hot heads to vent their hostility on the ministers and the Government, although the danger of a few rash actions precipitating a calamity is recognized.

LONDON SWEPT BY REFORMERS

cial employers. This is one of the most serious features of the situation, for, if the present course of continued and unchecked reform is followed, the programme of electrical transportation and other schemes, it would not be long before the public employees would be sufficiently numerous to hold the complete balance of power in London, and the city would be at the mercy of the Socialist party.

It would naturally be supposed that the bright spring weather which prevailed yesterday would conduce to an enormous vote, which would mean a decisive victory for the Reformers, but the exact contrary was the fact. It is the habit of workers to go to the polls to the country and seaside for the week-end when the weather is favorable, and hence the selection of Saturday as the polling day was a great advantage to the Socialists.

"Saved London from bankruptcy," are the concluding words of the Daily Mail's editorial on the result of the county council election of yesterday. If that has been done then the women of London may claim full share in the work. Reports from many polling places show that the women on the register voted in much larger numbers than in the previous election, and that a great majority of them voted the municipal reform ticket. It would be unfair, perhaps, to assume that English women are anti-Socialist in their principles, but at all events, the alarming increase in the tax rate under a Socialist administration furnished them ample motive to vote against the party responsible for it.

The Progressives have taken their defeat in anything but a philosophical and submissive spirit, their angry exclamations of "money and mendacity" arouse only public resentment.
