However, the opposition proposes to go ahead with the idea that the appea There will be a big fight over the Aylesworth election bill. Upon this will depend whether the commoners get away before midsummer. So far there is no sign of the appearance of the Manitoba Boundaries Bill. If it is held over this would be another indication of a fifth session. The western members are discussing the prospect of a revival of the Oliver Lands Bill, by which it is proposed to throw open for homestead settlement millions of acres of railroad lands in the west. This would undoubtedly cause another rush over the United States border, but the fly in the ointment is the pre-emption clause which would permit present settlers to take up sections adjoining the free lands. What the west wants apparently is not more land for the pres ent population, but more settlers, and these can only be secured by throwing PRIVATE DISEASES pied lands to new settlers.
