JUDGE'S REPORT SEVERE ON BOOKKEEPING SYSTEM AND AUDITORS' METHODS

Result of the Enquiry Into the Conduct of the Exhibition Association - Irregularities Due to Carelessness.

NO REFUNDS AS YET ON PRINTING CONTRACTS

Long-awaited, the report of Judge Winchester on the results of his inquiry into the business methods of the Canadian National Exhibition Asociation was placed in the hands of Mayor Geary yesterday afternoon.

It is a document vigorous in tone. Where the county judge considers censure is deserved he does not spare it. Particular emphasis is laid upon certain transactions as detailed in yesterday's World, and evidences of laxity, where discovered, are dealt with in trenchant manner. One outcome is the heaping of a considerable measure of criticism on the work on the auditors of the exhibition accounts, including the special auditors, Barber and Vigeon, whose probings two years ago unearthed a shortage of about $10,000.

It appears that after these reapers had finished, there were still a few gleanings of the harvest left, it being gleanings of the harvest left, it being found that the former treasurer, J. K. Leslie, had further deficits exceeding $2000, but that he had also overcharged himself to the extent of nearly half the amount. The inquiry also resulted in the rounding up of a number of other amounts due and since paid in, altho his honor's invitations in this respect have not been taken advantage of in every instance.

Financial Results. The financial result of the inquiry may be recapitulated as follows:
Amount found due by Leslie. $2,422.80
Amount paid into the Asso.. 957.50

Total$3,380.30 Deduct allowances to Leslie... 1,137.20

Balance due These are two checks of $25 each paid to Manager Orr and not entered in the cash book, and $45.50 and $55.91, received by the Methodist Book Room and Mail Job, respectively, over the amount of their tenders for printing

Careless Bookkeeping.

In concluding the report, the judge says: "I have as directed made a thoro and careful investigation into the financial management of the association, and have been unable to find anyone in ection with the association has obtained or reained any moneys improperly in connection with the association, other than those set forth.

"The books of the association, including the secretary's minute book, have been kept in a careless and unousinesslike manner, to such an extent that they would not be received as evidence in any court of law. Frequently accounts have been approved by means of a rubber stamp. Cheques ssued in payments of accounts, etc. even up to the present date are merely signed by the manager and treasurer, notwithstanding the strong recommend-ations by the special auditors on that

"I discovered an apparent overlapping in the insurance of the buildings and contents at the exhibition grounds, and possibly of the furniture in the exhibition offices by the association and the city treasurer. I would recom-mend that the city treasurer and the treasurer of the association should arrange all matters of insurance at prerange all matters of insurance at present existing, and that hereafter no insurance on the exhibition buildings should be effected without first consulting the city treasurer as to same. Slipshod Auditing. The judge says that an inspection of the exhibition accounts from the beginning of January, 1904, to July 31, 1908, the period covered by the special auditors appointed by the city council in April, 1908, revealed "that a number of irregularities had been passed over, not only by the auditors of the exhibition from year to year, but also by the special auditors."

It was discovered that entries of mon-1907 inclusive. These amounts had been vice for exhibits, and for space occupied by exhibitors, concessions or sale rights, advertising, etc. It was also discovered that during these years moneys had been improperly charged and en-tered in the cash book as having been disbursed on account of the association. These facts appeared not only from the documents produced, but also from information obtained from some of the exhibitors and others having dealings with the exhibition.

Tangled Cash Accounts. The result of these enquiries was included in a statement of 43 pages of items requiring explanation, and Man-ager J. O. Orr and J. K. Leslie, the former treasurer were asked to offer explanations. Mr. Leslie then admitted that he was properly chargeable with a total of $2422.80 over and above he sum charged to him by the special uditors in 1908. The amount was made up of amounts not carried forward m the entry sheets to the cash book

COMMISSIONER'S SUGGESTIONS

In my opinion it is absolutely necessary that cheques should be countersigned by the president or (in his absence only) by the vice-president of the association. Greater care should be taken by the executive committee as to the expenditure of moneys. No account, unless it be for salary, should be paid before it is properly audited by the city auditors.

In no case should moneys, including entry fees, be received by the association without a receipt being given for same and a stub of such receipt retained in the office for audit purposes.

All cheques, money and express orders payable to the association, or to any of the officers thereof, should require to be endorsed by the treasurer before the same are deposited.

There should be a secretary appointed for the executive committee and for the board of directors, whose duty it would be to present all accounts for approval and enter the minutes of the association correctly and immediately.

Quartz is remarkably widespread over the district, and visible gold is abundant in some showings, and has been found at numerous and widely separated points.
