LONDON SOCIETY

Rumors of Engagement of Marquis de Soveral

A POPULAR FOREIGNER

Waltz on The Staircase Now The Rage - Popular Novelist Becomes a Society Lion - News of Canadians in Europe

(Times' Special Correspondence)

London, Oct. 11.—The Marquis de Soveral, formerly Portuguese ambassador here, has always been looked upon as a confirmed bachelor, but the fact that he has been seen about a great deal on the continent with a beautiful girl, not Queen Amelia to whom he has been erroneously reported married—has given rise to a great deal of gossip in various quarters.

The Portuguese grandee is about the most popular foreigner in England, with a "wailing" about him that gives foolish virgins and even mature experienced matrons the impression that he is struggling to get out of the country.

But he is charming and chivalrous, and women and like all such men, is misunderstood by English women.

The marquis is not only a certain must be, judging by his figure, on the shady side of fifty. Nor is he immoderately wealthy.

His residence is in Grosvenor Place, a boarding house region behind Selfridge's, but his automobiles, always painted dark blue, are splendid.

The late Consuelo, Duchess of Manchester, used to say he was King Edward's other jester, and sometimes they were jealous of each other.

The Duchess of Manchester, is, when she comes back to town, to have a double staircase—a temporary arrangement—put up in the ballroom of her house in Grosvenor Square.

That's the duchess all over. She is as full of initiative as she is of fun, and though she will not try walking on it herself she will delight in seeing it done by her friends at the performance.

All the "fappers" here and their "knuts" are struggling to do a "tango" waiting gracefully. I hear at the Duke of Beaufort's there were one or two nasty accidents the other night at a dance.

But even this did not deter the victims from starting afresh when they recovered.

Dancing remained the passion of the moment and the more ridiculous and grotesque the figures the more popular.

Princess "Pat" had a private tutor some time ago to teach her the tango, as she said, she would feel "out of it" if she did not know all about it when she went back to Canada.

Women here like tango-tang, for they give such opportunities of showing off smart military and delightful frocks, all frivolous and furbyulous, that are "lost" at an afternoon gathering. And just because the men have not the trouble of changing their morning clothes they like them, too, and turn up in quite decent numbers.

A Society Lion

One of the special lions of the moment in society is W. B. Maxwell who has more invitations than he knows what to do with, from the Duchess of Devonshire to the Countess of Warwick.

He is especially so since he has had his last book, "The Devil's Garden," published.

He is a member of the royal family and gives to people who hunt "lions" with whom they have no acquaintance, the snubs they deserve.

A certain number of his society hosts who was pining for his society and that of the Bishop of London possibly to hear them argue—went to a hard-up old Irish peer who is admitted everywhere, and told her if she could get the two great men to come to stay a few days at a house party she might as well give up the favor.

The gold tempted and the peeress set about the task. If Maxwell is a stand-offish fellow, the publisher is a delightful to his friends.

The peeress made a clean breast of the case and they were both convulsed with laughter.

"I'll give you," he said, "provided I can take my wife with me. For I should need her support to stand the company. But how about the bishop?"

"Went it be difficult?"

Not only did it prove difficult but it was a money-making concern. But the little old lady did not do badly, for she made $1,000 out of her friend, not to speak of all the fun she and Maxwell had out of the affair.

Lady (Arthur) Paget is in poor health and has been told to be very quiet for some time. Her friends say she is suffering from the effects of the poor sanitary condition of the Royal Hospital, one of the worst of the many insanitary houses in the Emerald Isle.

When the Pagets went there they found that one bathroom and that a primitive arrangement in which there was no permanent supply of hot water. She has never been quite herself since the lift accident of years ago, in which she broke both legs. From that day Lady Paget has never entered a lift; the very sight of one gives her a cold shiver down her back, she says.

To the top of the highest building she will trudge rather than venture to enter one. She is so slight that General Paget or one of her sons will pick her up in his arms and take her upstairs. I saw her as she passed through town on her way abroad not long ago, looking anything but well.

On Saturday last Miss Dorothy Brownfield, daughter of Mrs. Brownfield of Kingston, was married in St.

Get a 10-cent box now.

That awful course, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, dizziness and sick headache, means a disordered stomach, which cannot be regulated until you remove the cause. It isn't your stomach's fault. Your stomach is as good as any.

Try Cascarets; they immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended. A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet, lively and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

Daily Hints For the Cook

Chicken Jelly

Cut the meat and crack the bones of a young spring chicken, put in a stewpan with two quarts of cold water and boil until the meat is in shreds. Strain the liquor through a cloth, salt to taste and set away to cool. When cold remove the hard grease from the top and there will be left a firm, clear jelly, which can be served in slices between crackers or as a garnish.

Grape Jelly

Pick grapes from stems and wash. Put grapes into boiling water. Let boil until soft and seeds are free; then strain and measure juice. Put juice on to boil. Have the same amount of sugar in a deep dish. Try a spoonful of juice and the same of sugar and see if it will jelly by stirring together. If so pour juice and the sugar in dish and keep stirring. When the sugar is all dissolved it will thicken; then pour into glasses. All jellies can be made this way. If when you try the little sugar and juice together it does not jelly boil the juice a little longer and try again.
