THE CANADIAN PARLIAMENT AND THE NATIONAL POLICY.

culminated in the adoption of the National Policy, began in the Canadian house of commons. In 1876 Workman's amendment asking for protection to manufacturers was defeated by a majority of fifty. four. The affirmative vote was sixty-five and the negative vote one hundred and nineteen. Later in the same session Sir John Macdonald moved a resolution expressing regret that the governor general had not been advised to recommend to par. liament a measure for a readjustment of the tariff which would afford protection to manufactures and industries as well as to agri culture. This motion was lost after several days discussion. The majority was firty-six, the vote being seventy to one hundred and sixteen. In 1877 the subject was sgain brought up on Mr. Wood's motion that the deficiency in the revenue should be met in part by a readjustment imposing additional duties on such goods and wares as may be produced in Canada, thereby affording increased protection. The majority sgainet this amendment to the government motion for supply was only thirty-one, seventy-eight members voting for it and one Senator Daver. He is certainly more popuhundred and nine against it.

In 1878 Sir John moved his general resolution for the adoption of a national policy of protection. After a debate which occupied a week the motion was voted down by a majority of thirty-seven; seventy-seven against one hundred and fourteen.

The election of 1878 brought a change of government, and gave Canada a parliament | Costigan's right to come to the province. favoring protection for home industries. The National Policy was introduced in 1879. anti-protection amendment was defeated by a majority of eighty-three. Fifty-three memhers voted for the amendment and one hundred and thirty-six against it. At that time it was declared by opposition leaders that the people of Canada would be tired of protection before many years, and would reverse their policy at the next election. Three years went by before another direct vote was taken on the question.

In 1882, the last session of the first protection parliament, the next fight was made. This time the opposition began the policy of moving resolutions condemning particular features of the National Policy, as the flour and coal duties. Mr. Laurier's coade mnation of the duty on flour, grain, and coal was defeated on the thirtieth of March by a vote of one hundred and twenty to fortygaven. The majority was greater by one than the majority sgainst the same motion when proposed two days ago by Mr. Mitchell. On the fifth of April, Paterson's motion against the augar duties obtained thirty-six votes against eighty-five-majority forty-nine. On the twenty-sixth Mr. Anglin's condemnation of the tariff on cotton and woollen goods was defeated. For the motion the vote was fifty-two and against it one hundred and eighteen, the majority being sixty-six. A subsequent resolution moved by Mr. Isaac Burpee relating to iron and hardware duties was defeated by forty-seven to one hundred and fourteen, majority sixty-seven.

Meanwhile Mr. Blake, Mr. Cartwright and other leaders were discussing the question in public meetings through the Dominion, educating the people, as they said, against the system. The elections of 1882 were run mainly on the tariff issue, and the government's tariff policy was endorsed by

The only division taken in regard to the question in 1883 was on a motion proposed by Mr. Blake, which was regarded as a test vote. Sixty-five members voted with Blake and one hundred and fifteen against him the majority being fifty in a large house. This seemed to be a slight falling off in the protectionist majority.

The next direct vote on the tariff issue was taken on Wednesday of this week, Only forty-seven members voted against the government policy, while one hundred and other circumstances. There has been considerlast ten years is a comfortable subject for occurred; all the others attacked are recover the contemplation of the Premier of Canada, McQueen, is still very ill with inflammation of the Governor of New Brunswick, and the Liberal Conservative party generally. When a combination of the second and third parties in the Canadian house of commons cannot command more than forty-seven votes against the trade policy of the government, it may be taken for granted that the country is with the ministry on this question at least.

During the summer a good deal will be learned as to the possibilities of the Prince Edward Island subsidy scheme. The survey steamer Gvlnare was today to commence soundings between Cape Traverse and Cape Tormentine.

THE RELIGIOUS POPULATION OF

A correspondent of THE SUN thinks that Archbishop O'Brien was wrong if he made the statement that more than half the people of Ulster are Roman Catholic. The census of 1881 sustains the view of our correspondent. According to the returns for that year the religious classification was as follows :-

Roman Catholies..... Episcopalians..... Presbyterians Methodists.
Other denominations.

e Roman Catholics numbered 47.8 per cent. of the population, or a little less than half. In 1861 the Catholic population was 50.5 per cent. of the whole. The Epiccopalians have considerably increased in relative strength and other Protestant denominations have made small relative gains, but the Roman Catholics have not quite held their own. Whether this is due to Catholic emigration or other causes we do not know, but between 1861 and 1881 some 500,000 persons emigrated from Ulster province. Unless some striking change has taken place since 1881, the archbishop was not quite correct if he made the statement credited to Ten years ago the movement which him. More than 85 per cent of the Leinster folk, nearly 94 per cent. of the people of Munster, and over 95 per cent, of the population of Connaught are Catholics. But except in Connaught, a slight falling off in the Roman Catholic proportion has taken place in the past twenty years. Taking Ireland sent down to my province," remarked properties in the counties of St. John, Char-Senator Dever in a recent debate. We do not quite know how New Brunswick came to belong any more to Senator Dever than to hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars, with Mr. Costigan. It is true that the Minister of Inland Revenue was not born in the province, but then neither was Senator Dever. It is true that the senator has sat for New Brunswick in the senate since 1868, but Mr. Costigan was elected as a representative of a New Brunswick county seven years before that time. Mr. Costigan has been at least eight times elected as the representative of Victoria. Mr. Dever has been once appointed. Mr. Costigan is as wise a man as lar, and is equally good looking. He is not less public spirited than Senator Dever. The senator has not performed more or better public services and is not likely to distinguish himself or make his nation famous in the future. There seems to be no good reason why Senator Dever should lay claim to New Brunswick or dispute Mr.

A DESPATCH to THE SUN from Baddeck, one test vote of the session was taken on N.S., several days ago, said the Cape Brewere denied the privilege of selling bait to United States fishing vessels. This may be true of the inhabitants of some particular cove, of which the residents are not interested in deep sea fishing. But so far as can be learned, the fishermen of eastern Nova Scotla generally demand that the treaty of 1818 shall be strictly enforced. It was represented that the Grand Manan folk were specially annoyed at the Dominion interference with the balt trade. To ascertain the truth of this report, a member of THE SUN'S staff has visited both Islands. Our correspondence from that neighborhood proves that the fishermen of Grand Manan and Campobello are much pleased with the course adopted by the government.

> It is stated that the Dominion government has declined to enter at present into engagements with the government of Nova Scotia with the view of co-operation in railway construction. The provincial government has declared its intention to secure a repeal of the union, provided the government is sustained in the coming elections. Mr. Fielding and his associates cannot ask that their official declarations shall be regarded as dishonest. They cannot, therefore, find any fault if the Canadian administration refuse to make arrangements such as would be inconsistent with repeal. If Nova Scotia is to go off by herself, she must not take any Canadian railway engagements with her.

The Toronto Mail newspap erhas met with another scorching, the third in two years. The Mail has become the leading newspaper in the Dominion. As a political journal the Mail more than holds its own. It has perhaps gained in dignity and has lost nothing in raciness by its change of editorial management. This is no disparagement to the parliamentary librarian, for Mr. Farrar is one of the cleverest journalists in America. Such a paper as the Toronto Mail is proof against the elements.

The beef sales continue dull. No word yet of any spring shipment to England, and St. John is taking very few head. There is not, however, the number of cattle in the county there was in some former years, as the price of hay last fall was at a figure that led farmers to believe there was more money in selling hay than in fattening cattle.

There is not more than the usual complement of hard times, and trade may be said to be in healthy state.

day says:-"Daniel Legere, aged 28, of thanksgiving meeting at the St. John roller at 7 and 11 s. m., 3 and 7 p. m., all of which were well attended, especially the afternoon and evening meetings, when fully two thousand people were present. Capt. Morton, D.O., led all the meetings, assisted by Mrs. Morton, Capts, Southall, Banks, Wadd, McDonald, Todd of Paris, Ont., Lieut. Thompson and Uadet Gaskin.

Cadet Gaskin.

At the evening meeting Capt, Todd gave a raphic description of her experience with the risoners in Parls jail, where she was imprisor ed for twelve days for beating the big drum in the streets of that city.

Yesterday afternoon a grand meeting of all the corps in the province was held at the rink at 2 30, when the following detachments we present: Fredericton, led by Capt, and Mrs. McDonald; Moncton, Capt. Archibald; Sussex Capt. Doherty; St. Stephen, Capt. Shaffer; St. George, Capt. Palmer; Shediac, Capt. Beal; Carleton, Capt. Jones, and St. John, Capt.

As each corp marched into the rink they were greeted with velleys of hallelajahs by those in the building especially the St. John con-tingent which being the last to enter was received with immense enthusiaem. All the detachments had the'r flags and big drums, but the Carleton corps had in addition a fife and drum band of twelve pieces, which played several salvation tunes through the streets, and at the meetings in the rink, adding considerably to At four o'clock a barquet was held at the Sydney street barracks, which was attended by all the detachments and a large number of citall the detachments and a large number of citizans and visitors in the city.

At seven o'clock a grand parade of all the corps, headed by Capt. Southell as grand marshall, mounted on a coal black steed, left the rink. Immediately after Capt. S. followed fourteen lady captains, who wore their jerseys and red silk handkerchiefs on their heads.

After them came the different corps headed by their respective officers drym and timber. by their respective officers, drum and timbrel bands. There were fully 800 soldiers in the ranks, and as they marched through the streets with their baseers flying and drums beating. they created considerable excitement and a frequent points of the march were warmly greeted by their friends and admirers. At the half-past seven o'clock meeting, the rink was very near full, and it was devoted to members' experiences, etc. The meeting closed at 10.30, after which an all night prayer meeting, lasting till an early hour this morning, was held in the Sydney street barracks.

A sympathizers meeting will be held at the barracks tonight, when all who are interested present. The army have bought out the mortgage in the Lansdowne rink, the first paynent on which, five hundred dollars, has got to be made this week. Tenight this matter will be brought before the matting and ways and means devised whereby to raise the pay-ments required for the parchase of the new ments required for the purchase of the new building. All the collections taken on Satur-day, Sunday and yesterday go towards the payments on the Lansdowne rink.

The Country Market.

The week just closing has been another dull one in the country market. The supply of good quality. The yeal now coming in is very inferior in quality. A small quantity is on to be very appropriate and pretty. hand of fair quality. Roll butter has dropped a couple of cents, due to the fact that buyers are very guarded in their purchases. Eggs are plenty for the demand and no changes in last week's prices are amounced. There is a stock of potatoes in the market, but the stock is priced by in the hands of scents.

The quotations are: Butchers' beef, $\frac{1}{2}$ to 8; mutton, $\text{to 10 per lb; veal 3 to 8; lamb, $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ to 13 per lb; eggs, 10 to 11; chickens, 70 hams, 9 to 10 per lb.; smoked shoulders, 7 to 3 per lb; lettuce, 50 to 70 per doz, heade; radishes, 50 to 70 per dozen bunches; rhubarb, American, per pound 2½ to 3; native do, 9; carrots, $1 to $25 per barrel; beets, 90 to $1 per barrel; turnips, per barrel, 60 to 70; parsnips, $1 25 to $1.50 per barrel; potaçoes, early rose, per barrel, $1.00 to $1.25; kidueys, $1.70 to $1.80; other varieties, $1.40 to $1.60; buckwheat, rough, $1.70 per cwt; grey do., $1.90 per cwt; calf skins, 10 to 11.

Monday being the Queen's birthday the market will sopen at 6 a. m. and close at 10 a. m. Some little time ago a move was made by hams 9 to 10 per lb.; smoked shoulders. 7 to 8 per market will lopen at 6-a. m. and close at 16-a. m. Some little time ago a move was made by the common council to have the market building whitewashed and cleaned. (FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.) Sussex, May 20. - On Tuesday evening last large number of friends gathered at the rectory of Trinity church, at the invitation of the Rev. Canon and Mrs. Medley for purpose of witnessing a performance of portions three acts | be the goodly number of newly painted houses, from Shakespeare's play of Macbeth by the members of the choir. Notwith tinding that very little time was at their disposal in which to prepare the music and the numerous other drawbacks usually attending amateur performances, the various performers are to be congratulated for the successful render-ing of the difficult parts assigned to them. A pleasing feature of the performance was the costumes, especially of the little fair-ies, who added a pleasing effect to the views by their bright smiles and light fantastic dance and capers around the three-legged pot, at the same capers around the three-lagged pot, at the same time stirning with their hands the mystic concoction of the witches. Grand Manan Notes.

Castalia, May 22. -Times here are quiet at present, owing to the scarcity of bait to eatch fish, which are also scarce. In conse. quence a large number of our fahermen bave found it necessary to leave the island for a time and seek employment in American fish. ing ports.

The Fredericton Gleaner referring to this fact a week or two ago, spoke of a number of houses here being vacated and boarded up. That paper, which, by the way, is in the habit of exaggerating, is in error so far as the vacating, etc., of the houses is concerned. Your correspondent is not aware of one tenantable house being unocccupied. Were the editor of the Gleaner to visit this tight little island of the sea, one of the many things to attract his attention would which is generally regarded as an indication of prosperity and good taste on the part of the owners. As to the men leaving the island to find employment it is nothing more than many farmers on the main land find it necessary to do during the winter months when there is nothing much to do around home.

Of late years the regular fishing season does not begin here till the last of August or the first of September. Consequently it is highly commendable on the part of the island men to seek employment elsewhere, and not spend the beautiful spring and early summer months in idleness. Those and early summer months in idleness. Those who own farming lands here are becoming alive to the necessity of doing more farming than formerly. As there is considerable arable land on the island, farming might be carried on to a much greater extent than it is.

All kinds of farm produce command a good price here. Hay rates from $14 to $16 a ton, and potatoes from $125 to $1.50 per barrel. Beefsteak finds a ready sale at 18c, per lh.

The Rev, J. A. Clark of St. Andrews, who spent a few days on the island, preached last Sunday at Castalia and Woodward's Cove to attentive and appreciative congregations.

attentive and appreciative congregations. During his short sojourn among us Mr. C., by his genial and affable manner made many warm friends, who will be delighted to see him here again when he can make it convenient to The Rev. Mr. Payson, Methodist, is on the island and will preach at Castalia and Woodward's Cove the coming Sunday. He never was on the island before, but like all other visitors says he is delighted with it.

THE HOLIDAY.

A more delightful day for a boliday could not have been desired than Monday and the various excursion boats and trains out of the city carried hundreds to spend a day in the country. The number of fishing parties going out on the late trains Saturday and the early trains yesterday morning surpassed any previous holiday for years. Business generally was suspended and the city presented a good holiday appearance. Flags were displayed from all public buildings and many private ones, while the small boy in all quarters of the city set off fire crackers to his heart's content. At noon a royal salute was fired from Fort Dufferin by a detachment from Fairville Batterp.

About 9.30 a. m. the Fredericton brass band's excursion party, to the number of about two bundred, arrived. Later trains on the New Brunswick and I. C. roads brought large

At four o'clock it was estimated that there were about 1500 people on the island, and that on the expenses of the day, a dividend of at least 100 per cent. In enjoyment was divided. The Artillery band, under the leadership of James Sullivan, furnished good music due in the day.

The races at Mosepath and the base ball match on the Barrack Square were liberally patronized. Accounts of both of these will be patronized. Accounts of both of these will be found in the sporting column.

East evening the City Cornetthand gave the first of a series of open air concerts. The attendance was very large and the band played in a manner that won them golden opinions. Indeed, it was generally remarked that the music last night was much superior to any previously given by this band. Owing to the rain coming on the band was compelled to shad on
