INTERCOLONIAL HAD EXCELLENT EXHIBIT AT NATIONAL FAIR

Showing of People's Railway One of the Big Features of Dominion Exhibition at Toronto.

Among the exhibits which drew special attention at the Canadian national exhibition at Toronto that of the Intercolonial and Great Northern railways is outstanding. The originality of the display has been the subject of much pleasing comment on the part of the trip of the first trans-continental train and it is hoped that negotiations being carried on with the British government regarding the building His Majesty, George V., as one of its passengers. Such an event would indeed be an auspicious one for the whole of the Dominion.

A Camping Party. Mrs. T. Hayes has been chaperoning a merry party of nine during the last week at her summer camp at Elberton. The party at the Old Mauds Inn, as the camp was named, included the Misses Elsie Estabrooks, Helen Wakeford, Charlottetown, May Hayes, Marion Flagg, Carolyn Stockton, May Goodwin, Mildred Barnes and Elizabeth Holder. On Wednesday last the Old Mauds entertained Alton Marshall, William Clark, Louis Ritchie, Percy Steel, Joe Gray, Prof. Steel, Charlottetown, Fred Foley, Harold Evans and Frank Donnelly. The guests returned to the city on Saturday after having spent a most enjoyable week.

Red electric glows are placed very closely together along the whole line. The principal points of interest appear in large letters and are lighted from back by powerful tungsten lamps so that they may be plainly seen at a distance. A novel running effect has been introduced by the ingenious arrangement, so that the spectator is taken on an imaginary trip along the whole route from Montreal to the Atlantic terminal, St. John, Halifax and the Sydney, and also along the lines of the Prince Edward Island Railway. After reaching these points the journey commences over again. To the left of the map is an illustrated transparency of the "Ocean Limited," which by an electrical contrivance has appearance of running at a high rate of speed, so that the combination of the main and side maps tells the story of the Intercolonial's crack train and the route she travels. On the wall, by means of a number of bromide enlargements of some of the scenes enroute, and these are surrounded by draped Canadian and British flags.

"The Sportsman's Country." A model of the S. S. Bruce, the new steamer between North Sydney and Port au Basques, which was specially sent from Glasgow, Scotland, for the exhibition, together with palms and bay trees scattered here and there complete the scene. Passing under a rustic entrance, which is a smaller space mentioned above is reached. This has been decorated with trophies of the chase and the line—moose, deer and bear heads mounted, salmon and trout. The color scheme is green, emblematic of the woods.

"Teddy bear," which has figured so conspicuously in various international exhibits, has been specially looked after for he stands on a rustic stool decorated with hemlock boughs. New Brunswick's big bear is also here to the delight of the small boy and the hope of the hunter. The big game store pictures of fishing and hunting in Quebec and the Maritime Provinces complete an exhibit which should whet the appetite of any sportsman.

"1912 Exhibit Best Yet." The Canadian government railways have had many excellent exhibits, but for direct attraction, chaining of attention and setting imagination on fire, Canada's famous summer train, the Ocean Limited, and the route it traverses, that of 1912 nonpareil. The exhibition, reports received here from Toronto, state large attendance and great interest in the Intercolonial and the Maritime Provinces. The exhibit should whet the appetite of any sportsman.
