

TABLE OF CONTENTS

CHAPTER

I. CANADA'S NATURAL MARITIME ADVANTAGES :	PAGES
The Dominion's Extended Coast Line, Her Innumerable Harbors and Univalled Inland Waterways. Lakes and Rivers which Contain More Than Half the Fresh Water on the Globe,	9-11
II. CANADA'S SHIPPING :
Some Historical and Statistical Data about the Dominion's Merchant Marine. The Pioneers of the Trans-Atlantic Steam Service and of both Sail and Steam Navigation on the Great Lakes,	12-18
III. THE ST. LAWRENCE ROUTE :
Its Inestimable Value to Canada and Canadian Trade. How the Obstacles of the Interior have been Overcome by the Canals. The Georgian Bay Canal Project,	18-24
IV. THE ST. LAWRENCE SHIP CHANNEL :
The Story of a Vast Undertaking Recently Placed in Charge of the Department of Marine and Fisheries. The Gateway of the Dominion,	24-32
V. THE DEPARTMENT OF MARINE AND FISHERIES :
Something about its Origin, its Work and its Present Greatly Extended Scope.	32-41
VI. AIDS TO NAVIGATION.
Lightships, Lighthouses, Buoys and Signals. The Sub-Marine Signal and Wireless Telegraph. The Hydrographical Survey and Meteorological Service,	41-50

CHAPTER

VII. WINTER NAVIGATION :	PAGES
Fighting Against Nature in the Straits of Northumberland. Interesting Experiments Inaugurated on the St. Lawrence. The Expedition to Hudson Bay and Northward,	59- 71
VIII. THE DOMINION GOVERNMENT FLEET :
History and the Description of the Nucleus of the Canadian Navy. The Origin and Development of the Fisheries Protection Service. Marine Schools. The Officers and Men who Serve Under the Blue Ensign,	71- 85
IX. A CANADIAN NAVAL MILITIA :
The Necessity for such an Institution. Previous Canadian Naval Militia Organizations and their Services to the Country in Times of Peril,	85-111
X. CANADIAN FISHERIES :
Their Extent and what the Department is Doing to Protect and Develop them,	111-115
XI. FISH CULTURE :
Interesting and Valuable Work of the Dominion Fish Hatcheries. Lobster and Oyster Propagation,	115-119
XII. AN IMPORTANT EXPERIMENT :
A Practical Effort Being Made by the Department to Extend the Canadian Herring Curing Trade. Attempts to Abate the Dog-Fish Plague	119-124