MORMONS IN CANADA

THEY HAVE A TOWN IN ALBERTA AND DO NOT PRACTICE POLYGAMY.

The People, However, Believe in the Teach ings-A Singular Case of a Man With Two Wives Obeying the Letter But Not the Spirit of the Law-Daughter of Brigham Young Is Couspicuous.

A new town is rapidly growing into existence on the rich irrigation lands of Southern Alberta, says the Calgary Herald. It is named Raymond, in honor of the son of Jesse Knight, a rich Mormon capitalist who has taken a great interest in the Mormon settlements of Southern Alberta.

A few years ago, a number of the Mormon settlers in Alberta sowed some sugar beets and had them sent to Utah for the purpose of testing them. They were found to contain a remarkable quantity of the saccharine essential for sugar making purposes. In some cases they were found to contain fifty per cent. more of this matter than the beets grown in the State of Minnesota. Mr. Knight, who makes his headquarters at Salt Lake City, took an interest in the matter, further tests were instituted, and the results were that could be desired. Mr. Knight has accordingly purchased a large tract of land in the vicinity of big irrigation canal, and is allowing settlers to take up holdings on his property under certain conditions

One of the conditions is that at least twelve acres of sugar beets should be grown every year; another condition is that no liquor es-Marie., Mich., and Detroit, Mich., and tablishment should ever be operated on the land. A site has a!ready been located for a rannery, and plans drawn, and within the next month building operations will be

> Mr. Knight is a very devout Mormon and is very popular with the people of that religion settled in The Mormons have always been good settlers, being progressive and up to date in agricultural operations. The whole of Southern Alberta contiguous to the boundary line is given over to them, and they have transformed a wild country into a perfect garden.

Although a great many of the Alperta Mormons are polygamists, they don't practice ploygamy in Canada. Most of the older men have a wife in the States and one

A peculiar incident occurred recently which shows the desire of the Mormons to live within the letter of the law. A prominent resident of Cardston, the little Mormon metropolis here, had brought one wife with him from Utah, while wife number two remained in the States. him in Canada was his little son, the child of his absent wife. The little boy became very ill, and his mother was sent for. The same train that brought her into Canada carried away the father, as he not remain in the country would with both his wives. The child recovered and his mother took back to Utah with her. This Mormon is very much attached to both his wives, and regularly visits wife number - two in the States for a period each year

Although the Mormons don't practice polygamy in Canada, there is no doubt that they still believe in it, and they will defend it vigorousv. in argument. They are very re igious, and the old men are especially devout. The younger ones are at times inclined to kick against the restrictions imposed by the church, but they usually find that it is to their advantage to stand in well with their ecclesiastical leaders. One Sunday in each month they have testimony meetings. As these meetings are held at two o'clock in the afternoon and those participating are supposed to have fasted since he previous midnight, they are ofen in an excited and overwrought condition. Some little time ago, at one of these testimony meetings at Cardston, a young Mormon woman got up to recite her experiences. She was in a very overences. She was in a very over-wrought condition, and stood for a minute or so gasping for the utterance that would not come. Then all at once she began to speak freely in an utterly unknown tongue, gesticulating freely. She continued like this for about a quarter of an hour, then subsided into her seat the picture of mental and physical exhaus-

Then up rose the old Mormon Bishop, as if nothing out of the way had happened, and said: "The Lord has given our sister the gift of tongues; who is there here who can interpret?" Several people jumped up at once, but an elderly woman, the wife of a dignitary he church, caught the eve of the bishop first, and he motioned her to proceed. She declared that the language just heard was ancient Sv-riac, and that, being interpreted, it was a message of the Lord to bereaved parents who had recently lost their children. After this there was a perfect epidemic of speaking in "tongues" which continued until a high church dignitary from Utah arrived in Cardston and put a stop to it.

One of the most conspicuous fig-ures among the Mormons in Alberta is Mrs. Card, the wife of Charles Ora Card, who is the head of the Mormon Church in Canada. This is a daughter of Brigham Young, the famous Mormon leader She is a woman of great natural shrewdness, and being possessed of Fare, going dates, and Emit.-At great force of character, exerts, a great influence upon the whole com-munity. Last fall when the election for the Dominion Parliament was on, both sides, knowing Mrs. Card's influence, made many efforts to en-list her sympathies. She, however, to the Liberal side. Her remark to Mr. Bennett, the Conservative candidate, was a non-committal masterpiece. She said: "We like the Government, we like Mr. Oliver (the sitting member), and it you are elected we will like you."

'NO TONGUE CAN TELL'

he Fain E dured by Mr. Bradley was Be. Your Description-For Over Nine Years, she Never had a Good Night's Sleep - She Couldn't eat, and had Given up Bopc - Dodd's Dyspepsia

Mrs. James Bradley, of Smith's Cove, Digby county, N.S., is a very happy woman. For years, she suffered a great deal with dyspepsia. She kept on doctoring without and for the last few months had practically given up all hopes of ever being cured.

Now she is well. How this cam about is better told in her own words: "I have had dyspepsia for over 9 years, and have tried the best doctors in this place, and never got any re-

"I have had to starve myself, until

I was very weak. I could eat scarcely anything. After so many trials and failures, I had given up hope of ever being any better. No tongue can tell what I have suffered. I cannot describe it.

"Some time ago, I saw an advertisement of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. I purchased six boxes, and have taken nearly all of them, and I am thankful to say that I am entirely cured, I can now eat almost anything. "For years, before using the tablets

I had never enjoyed a good night's sleep. Now I can sleep comfortably all night, something which I never expected to do again in this world. I advise all who suffer as I have, to use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, for they are the best remedy that ever was discovered, and I hope that this may be read by many who suffer from Dyspepsia, for I am sure that if I could make them understand what Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have done for me, it would be the means of saving many others from continual suffering."

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets always ure, no matter how chronic the case, or how long you have suffered. The fact that other medicine has failed to cure you, doesn't prove that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will fail. They never disappoint the sufferer with stomach trouble. If you suffer, try a box and be convinced. They will

Nothing amuses me more than to see woman who is under the thumb of her She is common enough, for house girl. she has a horror of housework and does foolish things to keep a competent girl. Now, girls who are forced to battle with the world for a living are no fools, and they feel the fear of an employer, and they recognize the weakness, as horses and dogs will, and sometimes take advantage of it. When hiring anybody, it is well to state just what is expected and what will be given in return and then live up to it. A worker wants her wages when they are due; she wants her afternoons and evenings when they are promised. She appreciates any little favor that can be extended on the hard days when there is washing or ironing. She likes praise and resents unjust censure and altogether requires much tact in the handling. I have seen women to whom no servant in the world would think of being anything but respectful. I have seen others who could not command a respectful bearing from their own children or their pet animals. Think this over and try to find out in what class ou belong and if in the bad class begin the reform right away.

Enlightened Motherhood.

The time is coming when an exalted conception of motherhood will prevail as the most important and sacred of all the functions given to woman. Enlightened motherhood will be complemented by enlightened fatherhood, and science will come to their aid with all that it has learned concerning parental being. vention will have simplified household as it has agricultural labor, or co-operation will have extended to housekeeping as it has to business, and the home will then become a sanctuary for the young child, whose surroundings will be ideal and who can be trained and molded aright from the cradle. Then will "the statelier Eden come again to man;" then will hu-man fatherhood and human motherhood take on something of the fullness, tenderness and divineness of Godhood, and then will the children born into the home have trooping about them such divinities as were never, never throned on old

WHEN WOMEN WORE "STAYS" AND TOOK NO EXERCISE.

Thousands Who Went Out Only to Attend Religious Services-A Radical Who Recommended the Skipping Rope.

In looking over a file of old Connecticut newspapers I came across the following excerpt from an English treatise on "Diet and Regimen" that warmed the cockles of my heart;

"The skipping rope, a toy which is discarded by the young girl when entering a premature womanhood, but which ought to be looked upon as a necessary article in every boudoir or a private room occua woman of civilized life and civilized habits, is one of the best if not the very best kind of gymnastic exercise that I know. It exercises almost every muscle in the body. There are few women who do not neglect exercise. Thousands upon thousands of English women never cross the thresholds of their houses oftener than once a week, and then it is to attend to the public worship of their Maker. And it is seldom that in town the distance to the church or chapel is such as to occupy more than ten minutes in going thither.

It may be presumed that this extract is intended to draw the attention of American women not only to their neglect of physical exercise, but also to the superi-ority of the skipping rope as an implement to assist in stirring their sluggish circulation.

From the lips of an old lady who was in her early girlhood at the time this treatise was written (1835) I obtained the following graphic description of one article of dress worn by women in every station of life at that period:

"I was a vigorous, romping girl of thir-teen, who hated restraint of any kind, above all that of dress, and was common ly in disgrace because of my careless hab its in regard to clothes. However, my older sister, Martha, was determined to bind me into a proper shape with 'stays.' "One Sunday, in spite of protestations, I was laced into that cruel instrument of torture and started on a two mile walk to 'meeting.' Did you ever see a pair of stays? From a drawer in a mahogany chest the old lady drew out a pair of old fashioned corsets beautifully made out of a kind of buckram, covered with fine white linen. Small gussets were set in the front, and it was stitched between the materials. The opening was in the back, where ivory or horn eyelets were provided for the lacings. The front was re-enforced with a sort of pocket two inches wide, open at the top for the insertion of the "busk" or "board," which was literally a piece of thin board, a "straight front" such as we never dreamed of. The stays measured sixteen inches around the

"Such agony as I endured before that long morning service was over!" contin-ued my old friend as she carefully replaced the stays. "Noon came at last, how-ever, and when I went out to eat my cookies I rushed behind the meeting house, jerked out that board and, after breaking it in two, threw it away. I was soundly whipped for doing it, but children in those days expected whippings.
"When I was fifteen or sixteen years old, my sister and I used to help each other lace our stays on Sunday, and we did not take them off until the next Saturday night."

An examination of the fashion books of that period confirms this story of tight lacing. The imagination conjures a comical spectacle when it pictures those tortured matrons, with their wasp waists, tiny caps with flowers "drooping in the neck" and voluminuos skirts "gauged with one or two rows half an inch apart with care that they hang evenly and well," solemnly skipping the rope in the privacy of their boudoirs.

The prevalence of recipes for lotions and pastes for the complexion and the universal use of paints and powders leads to the conclusion that there were defects to be covered that might have been re moved by the use of the skipping rope or other exercise assisted by the lavish use of soap and water.

The girl or woman of this generation, moving about with the glorious freedom made possible by the short skirts, loose waist and stout shoes, is as different physically from the woman of preceding generations as the bird that enjoys the full freedom of the heavens is different from the one that is caged and whose wings are clipped.

The ten minute walk taken once a week in "prunella shoes" has lengthened to a ten mile walk taken in shoes her brother might wear. The skipping rope wielded in the privacy of her boudoir has been re-placed by the golf stick wielded in the open air. The sixteen inch waist has ex-panded to twenty-five inches. It is within the power of this fine creature to overcome her inheritance of weak nerves and the tendency to hysteria, the natural re-volt of nature against tight lacing, thin shoes and lack of physical culture. It is also within her power if she will cultivate repose as assiduously as she cultivates out of door exercise to eliminate "nerves" and "hysteria" from her vocabulary, and the children of future generations might search with curiosity for the meaning of those obsolete words in old dictionaries that have found a place by the side of the "stys" and the "Treatise on Diet and Regimen" in the ancient chest of draw-ers.—Agnes E. Blanchard in New York Times.

"Just Like a Woman." "Just like a woman." What's just like woman? Oh, everything that is small and narrow minded and childish and irrational, evidently. Pooh! How about men? You never heard of a man who told little white fibs or looked under a bed for a burglar, did you? Oh, no! Perish the thought! The truth is there are women and women just as there are manly, splendid men and men of little contempti ble souls. If you ever hear any one say, "That's just like a woman," light into him and tell him a thing or two or three or four or eight or ten.-Elmira Telegram.

Drink Water Regularly. If you do not accustom yourself to drink water regularly, you are liable to have the waste products of the tissues of the body form faster than they are re-moved. Great weakness and languor on rising in the morning is generally due to a large secretion of these waste products, and the remedy is to drink a tumblerful of water, either hot or cold, just before retiring. This materially assists in the process during the night and leaves the tissues fresh and strong, ready for the ac-
