If They Attempt Medical Inspection of Children Against Parents' Will

GREENVILEE, S. C., May 13.-Governor Cole L. Blease, denouncing in campaign here the proposed medi-cal inspection of school children, declared, he would pardon any father who killed a physician who attempted against the father's will to make a physical examination of his daughter.

Governor Blease asserted that the proposed law would furnish an opportunity to an unscrupulous physician to blight for ever the life of an innocent girl who was the daughter of a political enemy, by making a false re-

Bishop of London Makes An "Unofficial Wager"

[By Special Wire to The Courser]

LONDON, May 13 .- (Montreal Gazette Cable)-What is called an "unofficial wager" has been made by the Bishop of London, and he wants Londoners to help him to win it. Speaking at a meeting in support of his fund for building churches in the metropolis, the Bishop said that at a great banquet given in his honor in New York he made the "unofficial wager"-it would not have done for a bishop to make a bet, he added-that he would make London a better, squarer and soberer place before they could make New York so. There was now a sort of friendly rivalry between the two nations as to which could make the finest town in the world.

"You don't want to see me beaten, disgraced and ashamed to go to New York again," remarked the Bishop, amid encouraging cheers.

Conflicting Views Are Expressed Re Ulster

[By Special Wire to The Courier]

LONDON, May 13 .- (Montreal Daily Mail Cable)-The Morning Post, understanding that the Government proposes to introduce its amending bill in the House of Lords alongside the Home Rule Bill, urges that Premier Asquith at once declare his proposals, and insists that the complete and ungrudging exclusion of Ulster forms the only solution. The Post warns Mr. Asquith that his drifting policy is creating a perilous situation in Ulster. The Daily Graphic advises that the House of Lords ignore the amending bill altogether, give the Irish Government Bill its second reading, and then amend it in the committee stage, but such a course would be objected to as giving assent to the principle of the bill, and it is not conceivable that the Unionists would allow this.

The Daily Express declares that the inevitable has happened, and that the Government is definitely facing a general election or a civil John Redmond Delivered An Electric Speech in House of Commons.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] NEW YORK,, May 13-A cable to The Tribune from London this morn-

The Home Rule situation suddenly developed an acute phase again last night when the government found themselves on the brink of a precipice, with Redmond warning them that in certain contingencies he will push them over. Mr. Asquith, announcing his policy on the future progress of the Home Rule Bill, informed the measure as it stands and then introduce an amending bill, with the intention that both should reach the statute book at about the same time. .Then, in an electrically tense scene, he laughed the amending bill to scorn throughout political circles, and Liberal as well as Unionists are now eagerly discussing the prospects of a gen-
