HITTING A HORSE.

Rough-riding Westerner Talks About Royalty.

Pictures of the country's recent guest, the Prince of Wales, engaged in assistant cow punching in the west and riding a western saddle in the western fashion, have been generally printed in the newspapers. Perhaps even in this age of automobiles there are horsemen enough still left to share the interest in the exhibition expressed by a Canadian writing in the "Daily Mail of London."

"Yesterday," he writes, "I was comparing a photograph of the Prince of Wales taken in Hyde Park and another of him taken during his tour in Canada. In the first he sits an Irish hunter on an English hunting saddle. He has the seat of a born cavalier. In the second he sits a Canadian bronco on a California stock saddle (a stock saddle has a high cantle, a horn, and is ridden with a long stirrup. His heels are up and he is 'all of a hump.'"

"Horsemen in Canada smiled indulgently at the prince's father when, as the Duke of Cornwall and York, he made a similar tour to the one his son recently made and first put leg across Canadian horseflesh. Englishmen could not sit a horse, they proclaimed. They were all right for hacking about, but when it came to riding—real riding—they were not in it."

"I recall well the day the riding master strode into the Royal Northwest Mounted Police stables at Regina and announced that he was looking for a high-stepper to carry the heir to the throne. No 'mean' tricks, some sense and plenty of style was what he called for."

"I was in the rough-riding squad at the time, and we paraded a few of the 'perfect ladies' that we had in the stables. He chose a bay mare who had brains enough to do almost anything except talk; and told me to school her and get her into shape for royalty.

"Some weeks later the duke—to-day's King—rode through the lines on that same little bronco and inspected the Northwest Mounted Police. He inspected me casually, I am afraid, for she was giving him a lot to do. He did not understand the stock saddle and the biting."

"We, on the other hand, inspected His Royal Highness critically. We liked his horse but we did not approve of his seat. Englishmen certainly could not sit a horse."

"Many years later we came to the war. And we saw Englishmen, many of them sitting on horses. At first we were inclined to sneer. There was nothing about the management nor the handling of horses they could teach us."

"But we worked side by side with crack British cavalry regiments, and they kept their horses in as good fettle as we did, and seemed to make longer marches with as little fatigue, we began to wonder if, after all, there might not be something in the English seat and the English saddle."

"Finally our lot got cut up a bit and for reinforcements we got Household Cavalry horses with universal saddles. And our boys looked 'all of a hump' for a week or two; that sitting a 'mean' horse in a universal saddle takes horsemanship. Sitting the same horse in a stock saddle is like sitting in an easy chair."

"So now we agree that Englishmen are something more than park riders, and we do not smile indulgently when we see the young prince 'all of a hump' on a bronco."

CURE YOUR COLD WITHOUT MEDICINE

Just Breathe "Catarrhoxone." It's Balsamic Vapour Does the Rest.

It's a tiny germ that sets up the irritation that makes colds so disagreeable. Colds die quickly if Catarrhoxone is used, simply because the vapor of Catarrhoxone instantly destroys the germ that keeps the cold alive.

Every breath you draw through the inhaler fills the whole breathing apparatus with pure piney essences that stops colds at their very beginning. You experience a pleasant sensation of relief at once. Soreness, congestion and irritation leave the nose and throat, the head is cleared, and every trace of cold or catarrh is cured. Catarrhoxone is so sure, so pleasant, such a safe remedy for winter ills that you can't afford to do without it. Get the dollar outfit, it lasts two months and is guaranteed to cure; small size 50c; trial size 25c, all dealers of The Catarrhoxone Co., Kingston, Canada.

APPLE PIES.

Here Are a Few First-Class Recipes.

Almost every housewife has her own favorite recipe for apple pie. One old lady in New England, who is famous for hers, makes a rich apple sauce first, spreads it over the bottom crust, covers it with a layer of the thickest of yellow country cream, puts on a rich, flaky crust and bakes it. It is no wonder her relatives all ask for it whenever they plan to visit her, because no one seems to be able to make it suit tastes quite like "grandma's."

Apple Meringue—An apple meringue pie is delicious, too. Make two cups of good, well-sweetened apple sauce and strain it. Add half a teaspoonful of cinnamon, the juice and rind of half a lemon, and then stir in two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch moistened with a little cold water and the yolk of two eggs, well beaten. Line a deep plate with pastry, pour in the filling and bake until it is firm. Make a meringue of the whites of the eggs and heap on the top. Put back in the oven for ten minutes until the meringue is set and a delicious brown.

Apple Pot Pie—If you are in a hurry and haven't time to get out the pastry things and roll out the crust for a pie, and still your family's mouths are watering for one, make an apple pot pie. Have a kettle of sweetened sauce on the stove. Make a batter of a cup of flour, two tablespoonfuls of baking powder, salt, one egg and enough milk to mix. Drop into the sauce by the spoonful, cover and cook till done. Be very careful it doesn't burn.

Apple Pork Pie—An old-time recipe is called apple pork pie. The plate is lined with fat juicy tart apples sliced thin. Four heaping table spoonfuls of sugar and half a teaspoonful of cinnamon are spread over them, and on top of that are dotted twelve small pieces of fat salt pork the size of a pea. It is baked with an upper crust.

There are those in Japan who regard with disfavor, despite their excellence in the eyes of reigmers, the dolls wearing the "latest thing" in costume, that it has become more and more the custom to display in shop windows. These dolls, they say, represent the decadence of the ancient Japanese art of doll making. They lack the simple art of the Japanese doll of an earlier period. They are nothing but window mannequins. The criticism seems to be founded on fact, for although the care some who maintain that doll making is still one of the Japanese fine arts, no modern doll-maker seems to have succeeded Kinsaburo Matsumoto, with whom ended, in 1889, the doll-making traditions of the pre-Restoration period. More than that, the modern theatre and now the motion pictures have supplanted the puppet shows that long provided a fine incentive to the men who made dolls for them, and created a great number of dolls which everybody recognized as characters in the national drama. The other dolls, moreover, were not dressed in real clothes, but painted to represent different styles of costume, and a finished doll, like any other work of art of the world over, was expected by the connoisseur to reveal something of the personality of the artist. No wonder the mannequins in the shop windows look to some Japanese like the decadence of a fine art.

OVERSHOES THE CRAZE.

Before they busted into society they were known as overshoes—and had no place in milady's wardrobe. But now they're arctics, if you please—and the rage.

You've noticed the bumper crop this winter of course. Clank, clank, clank, the flappers stumble along the thoroughfares, arctics nonchalantly unclasped and rattling like a broken tire chain on a patriarchial Ford.

"Well, land's sakes!" we heard a motherly old soul exclaim the other day. "That poor girl's overshoes have come undone an' she don't know it."

Yes she did, ma. Left 'em that way on purpose. Supposed to denote "pep" and qualifies her for the "cutie" class. Hook 'em up and you're old-fashioned; leave 'em flop open and threatening to drop off every step and you're all to the mustard.

No, we don't know who started it. Neither do the merchants whom we queried. All they could say was that they've sold more overshoes—pardon, arctics—this winter than ever before. In fact, they can't keep up with the demand.

"Some of them let the arctics flop open right from the start," said one merchant. "Others let us hook them up tight and then open them as soon as they reach the street, and get in the swim. Looks like—well, if they want them that way, it's strictly up to the dears themselves."

One local wag suggests that, as the buckles are of no use, that the manufacturers leave them off in the future, and thus help to reduce the H. C. of L.

Naturally, like the shimmy, jazz bands and prohibition, somebody started the dern fool thing. The best solution so far advanced is that a movie star, late for work one day, didn't have time to button 'em up. And thus a new fad was born.

Well, maybe the same celluloid corymbae, some of these days, won't take time to put on her—

Say, brothers, this thing's got possibilities.

A HUNGARIAN IDOL.

British Admiral Could, If He Wished, Be Dictator.

A man, who, by his strong personality and confidence of the people of Hungary, could become dictator to-morrow if he so willed, is Admiral Sir Ernest Troubridge, K.C.M.G., president of the Danube Commission.

Nominally his functions do not extend beyond the Danube. Actually he is the arbiter, counsellor, friend of soldiers, sailors and politicians alike. The Hungarians have the utmost confidence in him, and if he so willed he could become Dictator of Hungary.

Each time he appears in his box at the opera he is cheered to the echo, for the Hungarians know he has stood between them and the ravishing Roumanians. To him the Magyars owe their very existence as a nation. Every time the Roumanians have tried to requisition food destined for the starving population, Admiral Troubridge politely said "No," has struck terror into their hearts. The Roumanians had 40,000 men to enforce their demands. The admiral had two submarine chasers armed with six-pouncers to enforce his.

In appearance Admiral Troubridge is a typical John Bull. Snowy locks over a kindly, wrinkled face do not hint of the power that lies behind.

Many stories of the admiral in Budapest were told. When the Roumanians were setting free Bolshevism in the hopes that Hungary would be left in such a state of chaos that they would get a mandate from Paris to stay permanently in Budapest, the admiral devised a plan to counteract them. He started a passenger service up and down the Danube. "It's like this," he said, "Bolshevism is a disease which comes from lack of work and interest in the normal things of life. Some of the poor haven't seen their relations for months. I give them little trips down the river. They see their friends, buy cheap food in the country, come back normal, happy people, and forget all about Bolshevism."

SPRING WEATHER HARD ON BABY

The Canadian spring weather—one day mild and bright; the next raw and blustery—is extremely hard on the baby. Conditions are such that the mother cannot take the little one out for fresh air so much to be desired. He is confined to the house which is often over-heated and badly ventilated. He catches cold; his little stomach and bowels become disordered and the mother soon has a sick baby to look after. To prevent this an occasional dose of Baby's Own Tablets should be given. They regulate the stomach and bowels, thus preventing or relieving colds, simple fevers, colic or any other of the many minor ills of childhood. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Snowdrops From Hooge.

Hooge is an evil memory to a great number of our returned soldiers. East of Ypres, close to Maple Cope and Sanctuary Wood, just above Belleward Lake, and astride the Menin road, no stretch of ground has been more often and more hardly fought over from the dark days of late 1914 until last September. The whole area of Hooge and Belleward is scarred and pocked by shell holes, craters and defences until there remains not a yard of undisturbed ground. Yet here, making gunpits last March, the writer discovered on the very lip of a shell hole a clump of snowdrops gayly blooming and when in April we had to wade back from the Ypres fronted because the Germans had outflanked us the south, he carried away with him the bulbs. They were sent home, and to-day in a Harborne garden are ehly putting up their buds of white, green-striped, and a few days of more congenial weather will bring them into bloom.—London Mail.

ODD AND INTERESTING.

The Burmese have a curious idea regarding coins. They prefer those with a female head on them, believing that coins with male heads on them are no lucky.

The number four is in great favor in Japan, because its name, "shi," is the term for death. There are no fours or forty-fours in the telephone directories of that country.

Ex-King Manuel, Portugal, has kept a diary ever since he was able to write. It now amounts to twenty-five volumes, each being bound in Morocco leather with a silver lock and key.

A little more than a century ago, in 1800, laws were passed by the British Parliament which imposed very heavy penalties on any who conspired to raise wages. Under this act six Dorsetshire laborers, who had made an agreement to stand by one another in all their working difficulties and troubles, were transported to Van Dieman's Land.
