Some Results of Torpid Liver.
Headache, bad taste in the mouth, indigestion, feelings of fullness and discomfort, constipation, back ache, kidney derangements and bodily pains are some results of a torpid, sluggish liver. By their extraordinary influence on the liver Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills positively remove the cause of these ailments and disorders.

Superstitions on Skin Disease.
Of all superstitions probably the most foolish is the idea that when a sore is healed and cured by means of external applications it will "strike in" and do further harm. No reputable physician will give any constance to such a notion. Skin disease of every form and especially eczema, salt rheum, scald head, etc., are promptly relieved and certainly cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mr. Wm. Henry, of Chattanooga, Tenn., had rheumatism in his left arm. "The strength seemed to have gone out of the muscles so that it was useless for work," he says. "I applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm and wrapped the arm in flannel at night, and by my relief I found that the pain gradually left me and the strength returned. In three weeks the rheumatism had disappeared and has not since returned." If troubled with rheumatism try a few applications of Pain Balm. You are certain to be pleased with the relief which it affords. For sale at Rand's Drug Store.

Senator Tillman, attacking a certain measure, said: "The penalty this measure imposes is unjust. It makes the offender pay twice. It is like an incident that occurred one night in a Pennsylvania restaurant. A patron, dining in the restaurant with his wife, said to the waiter when the bill was brought: 'Waiter, one item is wrong here. We didn't have three plates of soup. We had only two.'
"The waiter, you forget the plate what I spilled over the lady's dress."

Value of Rye.
Rye as a grain crop is becoming more popular each year among stock-raisers in Canada and in the United States. In some sections it is used for bread or for mowing, and the straw finds extensive use in papermaking. The yield of grain runs fifteen bushels to thirty bushels per acre. It will grow on poorer soils than any other cereal, and is hardier and will withstand a rigorous climate even better than wheat. Sown in the cornfields at the last cultivation, it furnishes good late fall and early spring pasture, and may be turned under for green manuring. It will not thrive on wet soils, and heavy clays are not favorable to its best growth. The heaviest yields of grain and the greatest amount of forage are produced on the lighter fertile, well-drained loams.
The composition of rye grain is very similar to wheat. The matured straw has a low feeding value. The grain should not be fed to milch cows, as it gives the butter an undesirable and sometimes bitter flavor. Fed to hogs it produces a good quality of pork, and is about equal to barley for this purpose; but rye shorts should not be fed alone, as the pork is likely to be soft and of poor quality. In the northwestern states winter rye is usually pastured closely in the spring by sheep, and then is allowed to grow for a grain crop, and often yields 18 or 20 bushels per acre.

Legal Advice.
It's this way, explains the client. The fence runs between Brown's place and mine. He claims that I encroach on his land, and I insist that he is trespassing on mine. Now, what would you do if you were in my place?
"If I were in your place," replied the lawyer, "I'd go over and give Brown a cigar, have a chat with him and settle the controversy in ten minutes. But as things stand, I advise you to sue him by all means. Let no arrogant, domineering, insolent pirate like Brown trample on your sacred rights. Assert your manhood and courage. I need the money."
The News—No Pure Drug Cough Cure Laws would be needed, if all Cough Cures were like Shoop's Cough Cure—and has been for 20 years. The National Law now requires that if any poisons enter into a cough mixture, it must be printed on the label or package.
For this reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison-marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label.
And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and see No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Simply refuse to accept any other. "Ah, weel," said Wylie in his canny Scotch manner, "I have to play Martins this afternoon."
"Never mind, my boy; mit dose cigars you will play for good."
Later in the day they met again, and Wylie informed his friend that he had won a game with Martins that afternoon.
"Vere goot. It tells you it was der cigars."
"I hardly think that," said Wylie.
"Bnt, weel, did you not schmoke der cigars?"
"Me smoke them?" cried Wylie. "Na, na; I didna smoke, ye ken, but I gi'd one to Martins."

Found what? Why that Chamberlain's Salve cures eczema and all manner of itching of the skin. I have been afflicted for many years with skin disease. Here is something of a real practical value to any one driving a horse that pulls on the bit: Fasten a small ring to each side of the bridle and as near the brow-band as possible. Pass lines through bit rings and snap them into rings at brow-band. This, with a common jointed bit, will enable a child to hold a 'puller' or hard mouthed horse with ease under almost all circumstances. It can be used on a fast horse in double team, on one or both as desired. It is cheap and easily applied and it won't make the mouth sore. It is better than any patent bit.

WHO SHE WAS

SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF LYDIA E. PINKHAM

And a True Story of How the Vegetable Compound Had Its Birth and How the "Panic of '73" Caused it to be Offered for Public Sale in Drug Stores.

This remarkable woman, whose maiden name was Estee, was born in Lynn, Mass., February 9th, 1819, coming from a good old Quaker family. For some years she taught school, and became known as a woman of an alert her mother, combined forces to restore the family fortune. They argued that the medicine which was so good for their woman friends and neighbors was equally good for the women of the whole world.

The Pinkhams had no money, and little credit. Their first laboratory was the kitchen, where roots and herbs were steeped on the stove, gradually filling a gross of bottles. Then came the question of selling it, for always before they had given it away freely. They hired a job printer to run off some pamphlets setting forth the merits of the medicine, now called Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and these were distributed by the Pinkham sons in Boston, New York, and Brooklyn.

The wonderful curative properties of the medicine were, to a great extent, self-advertising for thousands of years commended it to others, and the demand gradually increased.
In 1877, by combined efforts the family had saved enough money to commence a business in the city of Lowell, Mass. At that time the growth and success of the enterprise were assured, until to-day Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had become household words everywhere, and many tons of roots and herbs are used annually in its manufacture.

Lydia E. Pinkham herself did not live to see the great success of this work. She passed her reward years ago, but not till she had provided means for continuing her work as effectively as she could have done it herself.
During her long and eventful experience she was ever methodical in her work and she was always careful to preserve a record of every case that came to her attention. The case of every sick woman who applied to her for advice—were those records, together with hundreds of careful study and the details, including symptoms, treatment and results were recorded for future reference, and to-day these records, together with hundreds of thousands made since, are available to sick women the world over, and represent her work as effectively as she could have done it herself.

With Lydia E. Pinkham worked her daughter-in-law, the present Mrs. Pinkham. She was carefully instructed in all her hard-won knowledge, and for years she assisted her in her vast correspondence.
To her hands naturally fell the direction of the work when its originator passed away. For nearly twenty-five years she has continued it, and nothing in the work she has done than the first Lydia E. Pinkham dropped her pen, and the present Mrs. Pinkham continues this great work, and probably from the office of no other person have so many women been advised how to regain health. Sick women, this advice is "Yours for Health" freely given if you will only write to ask for it.

Such is the history of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; made from simple roots and herbs; the one great medicine for women's ailments, and the fitting monument to the noble woman whose name it bears.

Worry, overwork, over-study and indigestion cause insomnia. Healthy, natural sleep can't be produced by drugs. First, the blood circulation must be improved. It's because Ferrozene equalizes circulation, because it soothes the irritation, because it removes congestion that it does ease insomnia.
For building blood and nerve, for instilling force and life into overworked organs, for establishing strength and vitality, where can you find anything so sure as Ferrozene. Remember, sleep is just as important as food. You must sleep, or break down. You can't if you'll use Ferrozene and thereby remove the conditions which now keep you from sleep.

The regular business meeting will be held in the Board of Trade rooms the first Tuesday evening of each month.
The Rum Traffic.
First and foremost, as always, is the fact that the sale of liquor results detrimentally to the community, individually and collectively.
A few men are prospered financially by the licensed sale of liquor, but the vast majority are made poorer by it, and thousands are subjected by it to extreme hardship and misery.
There is not a single sound argument, moral or material, that can be advanced in favor of the sale of liquor.
Many good citizens vote 'Yes' year after year on the assumption that the sale of liquor cannot be stopped by a 'No' vote, and that it is better to have the business regulated under license.
Many others vote 'Yes' because of the money the sale of licenses brings into the city treasury.
Neither of these reasons justify the infliction upon the community of the evils of the rum traffic.
There has never been any honest attempt to regulate the liquor traffic under license.
A computation of the extra burden of expense entailed upon the city by the rum traffic through the police and pauper departments would show that the city pays out more than it receives on account of it.
Add to what the city pays in extra police and pauper appropriations the amounts expended by the churches and charitable institutions and by individuals in caring for the victims of the pauper breeding traffic, and the amount received from liquor licenses appears only a drop in the bucket in comparison.
Then the loss of income to many families entailed by drunkenness, which results in the loss of time or the loss of jobs must be taken into consideration.
Account is rarely taken by the average voter of the greatest evil of all; the hardship, misery and suffering the rum traffic entails upon the wives and children of its victims.
Children are deprived of education and of opportunity to prepare for success in the struggle of life by the rum traffic.
Homes are blasted and families are broken up by the rum traffic.
The rum traffic has been responsible for more hardship, misery, suffering and death than all the wars in which the country has been engaged.
Out of each war has come good, but out of the rum traffic has come nothing but evil.—National Advocate.

Giants Slain by Drink.
(TAR REV. C. F. AKED, IN THE "NATIONAL ADVOCATE.")
It is not the rough and uneducated only that the drink demon claims for his victims. From pole to pole of human life he holds his ruthless sway. There is no depth of mortal wickedness he does not plumb, no height of intellect he does not scale. From the mudsill creature in Whitechapel, to men of world-wide fame, whose genius has shone starlight in the heaven of lofty thought, no rank or class escapes him. What names on history's dead roll are stained by the vice of drunkenness! Among the older poets, Parcell, Cowley, and Prior were slaves of the cup. Addison's powerful brain reeled under the influence of strong drink. Hogge, the Ettrick shepherd, was mastered by it. Theodore Hook was wrecked and ruined by his criminal indulgence. Hartley Coleridge, son of the great metaphysician and poet, nephew of Southey, friend and favorite of Wordsworth, possessing something of the genius of each, was reduced to miserable decrepitude by intemperance. The giant memory of Edmund Keam gave way beneath it. Richard Brinsley Sheridan, orator, dramatist, statesman, wit, with gift and faculty almost divine, the friend of princes, the idol of peers, died in a garret, a broken down, miserable old wretch, the bailiffs waiting only until the breath was out of his storm-battered body to arrest the corpse—and that was drink!
Charles Lamb's deplorable servitude to the bottle has been told us with a disgusting fidelity to himself. Campbell, whose verse has the ring of the clarion, and the roll of the ocean, was a drunkard. The weird, fantastic genius of Edgar Allan Poe was not proof against the blight—he died drunk. Burns, strange mixture of gold and filth, was a 'lost laddie' by reason of intemperance—that fatal Globe Tavern brought him to his grave. William Pitt, the younger, lost his health and strength in dissipation. And Byron, the most famous Englishman of his generation, died in the prime of manhood, alone on a foreign shore, affording one more terrible tragic proof that a man who sows to the flesh must of the flesh reap corruption.
The liquor traffic is a cancer in society, eating out its vitals and threatening destruction, and all attempts

For bronchitis, whooping cough, asthma, and every form of throat and bronchial trouble, this great family medicine is a quick and certain cure.
Mr. Wm. McGee, 49 Wright avenue, Toronto, Ont., writes:—"There is no remedy in my opinion that can set more promptly than Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It cured my son of croup, absolutely, in one night. We gave him a dose when he was black in the face with choking. It gave him instant relief and cure."

to regulate it will aggravate the evil. There must be no attempt to regulate the cancer; it must be eradicated, not a root must be left behind. For until this is done all classes must continue in danger from the victims of strong drink.—Abraham Lincoln.
