

EDUCATIONAL ANNIVERSARY.

Rev. A. E. Lavell, of Niagara Falls, Here.

Special Subjects in a Number of City Churches.

Eloquent Young Minister in Knox Church Yesterday.

Educational anniversary services were held at Charlton Avenue Methodist Church yesterday. The preacher for the day was Rev. A. E. Lavell, B. A., of Niagara Falls, Ont., member of the Methodist Board of Education. Mr. Lavell said this educational anniversary was not just to solicit collections, but to study the immense problem of education in all its phases. He asked why do we send our children to school? It was not merely that they may become clever, not merely to make them think accurately, but that they may acquire knowledge. Knowledge, he said, is "Love of truth," "Humble consciousness of our ignorance," and "To determine the truth," and if these three things were accomplished the accomplishment of the great aim of education was complete. The speaker stated that it was often said that knowledge increases sorrow and everyone must admit the truth of the statement, for the more knowledge we get the greater the responsibilities and the seriousness of life. It also shows us what we cannot do. But knowledge, he said, gives us joy through the consciousness of the seriousness of life and increases our reverence. Education makes us better, but education and information were often confused. Good education should be for the development of the best that is in people, and not what we would like to see in them. Schools, said Mr. Lavell, are doing a greater work than the church, not that what the church should be doing the greatest. He pointed out that the great disasters to the Christian church were brought about by people misinformed. It was generally supposed ministers should live better lives than the people, he said, but that is a mistake and utterly fallacious. The people should live as good lives as the ministers, and the ministers need as high an education as can be given to them. The efficient because progress rests on the efficiency of the ministers. The training of 50 years ago was not sufficient for present day requirements. The older people recognized that by giving their children better chances than they themselves had. College education was essential in these days, and closer examination of the scriptures led to a better knowledge of the Master. Concluding, Mr. Lavell appealed to the congregation to help the educational fund and explained that the Government assisted almost every other study but theology, and the money collected was not given to students, but said to them for work done while preaching during the summer vacation, away in districts where there were no ministers. The church should do more for educational work, as last year they gave in Charlton Avenue Church over $600 to missions and only $29 for educating the ministers.

ed, and as an instance of juvenile enthusiasm he mentioned Thomas Edison, who made up his mind when a child to read every book in the Detroit free library, and who was only stopped when he had finished fifteen solid shelves of books. As his third point, the lecturer took up the question of the church as regards the juvenile. The adolescent period, that undecided period, he said, is the time that the decision should be made. It is well understood that more conversions are brought about in this time than at any other. He quoted some figures of interest in regard to this matter. Professor Coe had made a study of it, and had come to this conclusion, that from 1784 conversions in a stated period the large majority of them were made of the church at the average age of 16 1/2 years. Professor Starbuck showed in his book that the average age for the conversion of females was 14 1/2 years of age, and that of males "little over 16." Mr. Unsworth presented the Church of England confirmation classes and the yearly Methodist church meetings as being great assistants in this work.

Centenary Church. Being Communion Day, a large congregation gathered at the morning service yesterday. Rev. R. Whiting, the pastor, preached a strong and telling sermon on "The Value of Human Life, in Reference to Its Capabilities for Usefulness." A large number were received in profession of faith, as new members of the church. The pastor preached again in the evening, and, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, a capital congregation assembled to hear No. 4 in the series of special sermons appropriate to the Lenten period. The theme was "Christ Before Jewish High Priests." First before Annas, as a preliminary trial. This man, though not in active service at that time, was appealed to for counsel. Though feared and greatly disliked, he was strong in influence among the people. The preacher graphically described John and Peter entering the gate of the palace, the one bold and fearless, the other afraid and giving fellow when challenged as being a follower of the Nazarene. Poor Peter! And yet what a difference between Peter and many a coward in the church today, who lacks moral stamina in some time of special duty or of Judas even, and the man who sells the truth or what is right and honorable for some monetary consideration? Here the preacher showed the difference between that great and good man Paul before Annas twenty years afterwards, and Christ before Annas. In the one case the high priest gave orders that the apostle be smitten on the mouth, and Paul cried "God shall smite thee, thou whitened wall," and then made apology for so saying, but in the other case Christ was struck in the face, and then with the dignity of Jehovah, and with all the glorious majesty of self-possession, said, "If I have spoken evil, prove the evil, but if not, why smitest thou me?" Jesus never lost his temper, never made apology, and never from God nor man asked forgiveness. He will not pardon others, but never for himself, and there was a divine reason why. He knew no sin, never was guilty found in his mouth.

Then Jesus was hurried away before Calphas, son-in-law to Annas, the high priest in charge. The whole of the august seventy were waiting for the trial. Its mode of procedure was a contravention of all the previous history of the great Sanhedrin. The so-called trial stands out as the greatest piece of injustice in all human history. Then Judas comes on the scene, making confession that he had betrayed the innocent, followed by that cold reply, that such was now his business and not theirs. Had Judas repented of his sin, as Peter did, there cannot be a doubt that the same divine mercy shown to Peter would have been shown to him. The music throughout the morning and evening services was well entitled "Passion music," for such it was, which had a solemn effect on all present. This week each evening there will be a special service, with special topic, in the lecture hall, as follows: Monday evening—"Mary at the Cross." Tuesday evening—"The Two Paths." Wednesday evening—"Counting the Cost." Thursday evening—"Seeming to Live." Friday evening—"Homelessness of the Soul." All these special services are sure to be deeply interesting, and pre-eminently spiritual. New Members Received. Eight new members were taken into the fellowship of the Wesleyan church yesterday morning. They were welcomed by Dr. Tovell in a few brief words. The sacrament of the Lord's Supper followed, and it was largely partaken of by the congregation.

TORY LEADERS TO BE INVITED.

Provincial Premiers Asked to Tour the Country

In an Endeavor to Hoodwink the Electors.

Sam Garrity at the Saturday Night Public Meeting.

If Leader Borden acts on the suggestion of his Hamilton followers, the approaching battle will be enticed by the booming of the big guns of the party—the Long Toms from the different Provinces. It is planned to have them batter holes in the reputation of the Dominion Government through which Borden and his supporters hope to march to victory. The scheme was divulged at the Conservative Club's meeting on Saturday night, when Vice-President John Hoodless read a resolution, praying Sam Barker to lay before Leader Borden for his consideration a proposal to have Whitney, McBride, Roblin, Haultain, Hazen and the others go through the country telling how awfully wicked the Laurier administration is. The meeting was asked to endorse the resolution by a standing vote. Sam Garrity, the City Hall elevator man, who sits in the front row on occasions of this kind leading the applause and interrupting the speakers with his comments, was on his feet in a jiffy, followed by the rest of the faithful, whooping it up. "Square Deal" Farrar seconded the resolution. Of course the genial Mr. Barker told them how tickled he would be to hand Leader Borden the resolution from the "Hamilton stalwarts." At this one of the stalwarts caused a commotion by crashing through a chair. It was not hard to discern that the eve of battle is approaching. The meeting was a large and enthusiastic one. The Tory aldermen and civic employees were there in force, including Ward Foreman, Church and William Berry, two former Labor men. So was John Gault, wearing his sunniest smile, and the other big moguls extending the glad hand. Mr. S. McCarthy, M. P. of Calgary, introduced by President Barker, as "Lugie McCarthy, an old Hamilton football player," was the first speaker. What would happen at the next federal election, he said, could not be judged by what happened in the West in 1905. The Government could not use prosperity as one of its planks this year. He charged it with falling down on the Grand Trunk Pacific scheme, with reckless expenditure and inflicting on the west one of the most outrageous and iniquitous gerrymanders in history. Mr. Northrup wound up by telling them what nice honest men Mr. Whitney and his followers were. W. B. Northrup, M. P. for East Hastings, is a pleasing speaker, who kindly introduced an audience entertained. Most of his time was devoted to telling what it cost the country for the steamers, Arctic and Montcalm. To hear him tell it, these boats must have proved as expensive to the Government as the sandalwood did to the City Council last year. Mr. Northrup roared the Government over the Ross rifle, for selling nineteen and a half acres of the Plains of Abraham to Sir Charles Ross, over the civil service report, and many other things. He also assailed the Government over the Japanese treaty, and declared Canada was the only civilized country in the world that could not control immigration. He declared that Mr. Northrup rattled the yellow peril skeleton for all it was worth. The only reason that Hamilton was not overrun with Japanese labor, he said, was because Japan for reasons of its own did not fit to send their religious bodies all over the country, the civil service report and what had been shown by the Opposition was all wrong, he said, or Sir Wilfrid Laurier was the biggest scoundrel in Canada. He declared that the country's interests at home and abroad had suffered since the present Government came into power.

First Methodist Church is soon to lose its popular soprano soloist, Miss Grace Longhurst. She has handed her resignation to the music committee, to take effect in June next.

NIAGARA CAMP

Reported That 300 Acres Are to be Added.

It is reported that the Dominion Government has about completed the purchase of a tract of some three hundred acres for an addition to the military training ground at Niagara. The new ground is situated westward from the present historic camp ground adjoining Fort George, and extends to Four-mile Creek. It is well wooded. The buying of this site will obviate the need of deserting the old camping ground, and will afford the additional room required for the training of the military in district No. 2, the western Ontario command, the grounds at Carling Heights and Niagara being together insufficient for modern needs. There is a statement abroad, to that the Government is negotiating for the private property and the Chautauque Park between the present camp and the new plot.

A FINE ADDRESS.

Rev. H. B. Christie at Central Y. M. C. A.

The men's meeting in Central Y. M. C. A. was addressed yesterday afternoon, by Rev. H. B. Christie, pastor of Simcoe Street Methodist Church. His subject was "Abundant Pardon." The text was from Isaiah 55, verses 6 and 7. Mr. Christie referred his hearers to the many biblical promises about forgiveness of sin, and said it was impossible to find a wider or fuller love than ranged in God's promises which were sufficient to reach all, no matter how far down in sin. It was not sufficient to just turn one's back on sin, said the speaker, but one must have poured into the soul God's irresistible tide of salvation, and no man was safe until he had the Divine inspiration. All must go to God for pardon, recognizing their own helplessness, for God alone is able to dispel all the evil that arises from wickedness. Finally Mr. Christie referred to the distance God removes sin from us if we repent and to give the audience a faint idea of the illimitable distance sin was removed gave many a shudder in the astrophysical world, such as the distance of stars from one another; and appealed to everyone to dispel all doubts as to God's mercy. No matter how depraved or how black the sin there was abundant pardon if they repented. There was a large gathering to listen to Mr. Christie's splendid address which appealed to every listener. It was one of the most forcible given in the Y. M. C. A. for some time, and was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Prof. D. M. Barton led the singing and Mr. E. S. Hogarth was chairman. The cornerstone of the new parish house for St. John's Church, Norway, was laid by the Archbishop of Toronto. Replying to the grand jury, Judge Winchester said juries should exercise more intelligence, in trying cases of criminal operations.
