STANDBAD PERIODICALS FOR 1870. By the Leonard Scott Publishing Co.,

Indispensable to all desirous of being well in-rmed on the great subjects of the day.

1. The Edinburgh Review. This is the oldest of the series. In its main features it still follows in the path marked out by Broughau, Jeffrey, Sydney Smith, and Lord Holland, its original founders and first contributors.

2. The London Quarterly Review which commences its 128th volume with the January number, was set on foot as a rivel to the Edinburgh. It resolutely maintains its op-position in politics, and shows equal vigor in its ilterary department.

8. The Westminster Review

has just closed its 92d volume. In point of lit-crary ability this Review is fast rising to a level with its competitors. It is the advocate of politi-cal and religious liberalism. 4. The North British Review, now in its 51st volume, occupies a very high position in periodical literature. Parsing beyond the narrow formalism of schools and parties, it appeals to a wider range of sympathies and a higher integrity of conviction. 5. Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine, was commenced 52 years ago. Equalling the Quarterlies in its literary and scientific departments, it has won a wide reputation for the narratives and sketches which entires its page.
