Lecture by Mr. I. C. Morris.

The third weekly lecture of the F. A. Society was given last night to an audience which filled their spacious hall. Such an audience is proof of the popularity of free lectures, when the subject is interesting and the lecturer's style is attractive. The band of the society was present and rendered selections before and after the lecture, which was about "Old Ferryland." The lecturer opened by telling the story of Baltimore's first attempt at colonization in Ferryland, and his later and greater and more successful experiment in Maryland. He told of Kirk and Whitbourne and other worthies whose work brought them to the New Found Isles, and after he had given a short historical sketch of the Southern Shore, he gave a topographical description of its chief scenery and settlements. The lecture was full of witty remarks by the way, incidents told with humor and stories of human effort told with pathos and effect. Particularly was this so in the case of the Deserter Village at Chance Cove and the terrible wreck of the Anglo-Saxon at Clam Cove. Mr. Morris's talk, as he called it, held the attention of the audience an hour and a half, and was liberally interspersed with applause. Some six views of Ferryland and the vicinity thrown on the screen closed the lecture, for which the lecturer received the hearty thanks of the audience as moved by Mr. H. O'Brien and seconded by Mr. Geo. Coughlan.

United Services at Gower St. Church

Rev. J. K. Curtis was the leader last night and the services were well attended. Rev. Dr. Cowperthwaite offered prayer and Rev. Fr. R. Matthews read the lesson. The Rev. C. Hackett made the exhortation and the Rev. J. K. Curtis besought the people to give themselves to God. Mr. Pratt presided at the organ.

C.A.A. Debate.

There was a very lively debate at the C. A. A. Rooms last night on the Daylight Bill. On the vote being taken the affirmative side, that is those who were in favour of the measure won by a majority of seven. The principal speakers in favour of the measure were:—H. N. Dyer, R. Maun-der, Ira Curtis, and those who took the other side were:—F. W. Pincock, C. Grimes and P. Curtis. They sought to prove that the Daylight Bill would not benefit the people of Newfoundland in general. Mr. G. Bradley occupied the chair and fulfilled his duties very satisfactorily. The attendances are generally increasing every debate night. Next Tuesday another debate will be held.
