Housekeeping.

BY H. L. RANN.

Housekeeping is something which is handed to the June bride in exchange for the privilege of getting married under a large red wedding bell in the front parlor. It consists of physical culture exercises which if followed up properly will develop every muscle in the human body. Some women become so muscular as the result of close contact with single-handed housekeeping that their husbands never contradict them except over the long-distance phone.

A woman is said to be a good housekeeper when her husband can bring home two famished friends without warning and find his wife at the helm of a six-course dinner, wreathed in smiles and a pink silk tea gown. Some women object to this habit and try to get even by serving a passe cereal garnished with two fried eggs.

Man is a queer bird. He will work from 9 to 4 and then play golf, but if his wife gets through with the ironing before 10 p.m. he will suggest that it would be a good thing to set bread and frame up a batch of caraway cookies before retiring.

As a rule, housekeeping begins at 5.30 a.m. and continues without interruption until the roll is called up yonder. This is causing a great many women to wish to live out their expectancy to forsake the continuous performance and congest the boarding houses and hotels.

Every man likes to come home after taking in the ball game and fall peacefully into a Morris chair and a pair of dog-skin slippers, while his wife wrestles with a soup bone and toys nervously with the vacuum cleaner.

When a woman keeps her house so that her neighbours won't think they have strayed into the henery, she is referred to in terms of deep emotion by every husband whose wife refuses to work over eighteen hours a day.

If the average man did as much work and covered as much ground in a day as his wife does, in the effort to keep a ten-room house from looking like the catacombs of ancient Rome, there would be more demand for the family meal ticket and fewer relatives straying in for the weekend.

Makes the Hair Beautiful.

At last a remedy has been discovered that will positively destroy this pest Dandruff. That Dandruff is caused by germs is accepted by every sensible person. Dandruff is the root of all hair evils.

SALVIA will kill the dandruff germs and improve Dandruff in ten days, or money back. 50c. a bottle.

Here and There.

GETTING CLEANED UP.—The surveying yacht Ellinor is undergoing a thorough overhauling. A gang of men are now engaged removing her two boilers as two new ones will be placed in position.

Dr. de Van's Female Pills
A reliable French regulator; never fails. These pills are exceedingly powerful in regulating the generative portion of the female system. Refuse all cheap imitations. Dr. de Van's are sold at 25c a box, or three for $1.00. Mailed to any address. The Seabell Drug Co., St. Catharines, Ont.

PATIENT ARRIVES.—A woman named Collins arrived by last night's train to enter the General Hospital. As all the cots at the institution are filled the patient was brought to a boarding house by Mr. Ell Whiteway to await her turn.

A CURIO.—While trawling in the vicinity of the Flemish Cap recently a member of Capt. Lewis' banking crew picked a miniature jar off his hook. It is incased in a shell and is quite a hero. The owner is keeping it as a souvenir from the sea.

The Cobbler.

I paused before the cobbler's door, and cried: "Oh, man of shoes, we are down-trodden more and more till good men have the blues! The special interests have got the nation by the throat, so leave your wax and all that rot, and come with me and vote! Now every cherished bulwark busts, and Freedom's bird's an owl! We're robbed and rid-dled by the trusts, so come with me and howl! The sacred boon of liberty has perished in the storm, so leave your work and come with me, and rant and yell 'Reform!' Oh, cobbler leave your sordid bench and help in paint things red, and bring along a monkey-wrench to cave in some one's head!" The cobbler stitched and pegged along, and answered: "By the powers! I work and I see nothing wrong with this fair land of ours. You say the country's on the skids; I say that it is fine; you ought to see my wife and kids, and that new home of mine! I am as happy as any man when claims are at their best, and as I work I sing a psalm, and chortle when I rest. My trade increases day by day because I do things well, I'm out of debt, and I'm as gay as any marriage bell. And while I've health I'll here be found to work and pay my bills; let idle soreheads rant around about the nation's ills!" Such men as this, who do not care for aught but sordid things, have brought this nation to despair and wrecked its hopes, by jings!

SALMON PLENTIFUL.—A report from the Fishery Warden at Gambo says that the rivers and streams in that section are teeming with salmon.

Service For Gen. Booth.

A memorial service will be held in the city on Thursday evening next, out of respect for the late General Booth, founder of the Salvation Army. The service will be conducted by Brigadier Morehen and active preparations are now being made. Clergymen of various denominations, also some prominent men in the city will take part in the ceremony.

A Statement From Carbonear.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—In commenting on the Regatta recently held at Harbour Grace, the Carbonear correspondent of the Daily News apparently seeks to cast reflection on the good people of the Second City by insinuating that fair play was not shown the crew that went up from this town to contest for the Archibald Cup. The insinuation though couched in Johnsonian style and long-winded, is none the less mean and without justification. We say this without holding any brief whatever for our Harbour Grace neighbours. The facts are, briefly:—Our Carbonear boys who intended to compete for the Archibald Cup were dumbfounded on seeing a crew of stalwarts from Bristol's Hope and rather than row the course with them to certain defeat substituted two of their registered crew (both of whom were on hand) for other oarsmen not of the town. The infringement of the rules governing the Regatta, not to speak of the cowardice, the Committee properly took exception to. Because of the Carbonear crew, with more indiscretion than honour, backed out of the race altogether. It was a most pitiable exhibition of weakness, and a course far removed from the true sportsman's spirit. We do not wonder at the donors of the Cup, and of the hundreds of others on the race course evening on the action of the coxswain, and it is to be hoped for the sake of Carbonear's reputation in future that no such exhibition of cowardice will be manifested at any similar event in which our boys may participate.

Thanking you in anticipation,
I remain yours, etc.,

Regatta and Picnic at Lower Isld. Cove

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—Kindly allow a short space in your valued paper for a few comments on the Regatta and Sunday School Picnic held here on the 15th, inst.

I have been informed that the Juveniles (North Side) did not row the "Myrtle," as the Secretary of the committee said in his report. The "Myrtle," rowed by the North Side Fishermen and Students, is far inferior, as a race boat, to if our young men would get together and get our shipbuilder, Wm. Broderick, to build two good race boats, which would prove more satisfactory to both winners and losers.

We have a nice pond right in our settlement, which has good surroundings, and I think that Island Cove, to lighten the gloom somewhat could have its annual "Race Day," which we could look forward to just as the people of the city.

Some said that the races interfered somewhat with the picnic, as such interest was taken in them that the smaller children did not enjoy their picnic as they should, owing not a little to the absence of beloved pastor, Mr. Browning, who, being chairman of the District Meeting, had to attend his session at Heart's Content, T. B.

Anyway when he came back he heard about it, and he and his good wife were equal to the occasion and gave the children of the Primary Department a picnic to-day, Aug. 21st, which, by their hilarious outbursts, they enjoyed immensely.

Too much praise cannot be given to Mr. and Mrs. Browning for they are hustlers.

Yours sincerely,
CHAS. GARLAND.
