

THREE LIVES LOST IN GULL LAKE

Another Triple Tragedy by Drowning.

LITTLE TOT DIED OF LOCKJAW

Three-Year-Old Stopped on a Rusty
Nail—Fatal Scuffle on Board a Steamer.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Sept. 8.—Another drowning tragedy occurred on Gull Lake Friday night, when A. C. Miller, of Battle Creek, Herman and Henry Breuer, cousins, of Yorkville, lost their lives during a storm. Nothing was known of the accident until last Saturday afternoon when a hat and an ear were found near the head of the lake, seven miles from where the boat was hired. The bodies are believed to be in water 100 feet deep, and it is not believed that they can be recovered before they rise to the surface. The young men had been warned against starting out in the storm, but they laughed and joked away. That was the last seen of them. Miller's coat was found in the lake Sunday afternoon.

TWO MORE.
Grand Haven, Mich., Sept. 8.—Harry Ford, of Fruitport, and Miss Effie Reams, of Kalamazoo, members of a yachting party, were drowned in Spring Lake by the capsizing of their boat. The balance of the party were rescued.

FATAL SCUFFLE.
Montreal, Sept. 8.—F. Thievery, aged 25, a laborer engaged in unloading one of the steamers in port, was killed in a peculiar manner this morning. He was scuffling and wrestling with a fellow-laborer, when he was thrown to the deck. His head struck with great force, and he died instantly.

DIED FROM LOCKJAW.
Mendon, Mich., Sept. 8.—John Kline, the 2-year-old son of Charles Kline, died today of lockjaw, a result of stepping on a rusty nail.

BODY RECOVERED.
Perry Sound, Ont., Sept. 8.—The body of Mrs. White, wife of C. L. White, lighthouse keeper at this place, was found on the shore about a mile from here this morning. Mrs. White and her son, Jackson, left here on Saturday evening for a sail on the lighthouse boat, and it is supposed a squall capsized their boat. No trace of the boy's body or the boat has yet been found.

SUICIDE BY SHOOTING.
New York, Sept. 8.—Ernest Reysersbach, a clerk in the banking house of Knauth, Nachod & Kuhne, shot and killed himself tonight. He was in a room in which were the words: "When they examine my accounts in the office of the bank they will find all."

MURDERED BY HIRED MAN.
Terra Haute, Ind., Sept. 8.—Thomas Burke is dead at his home here, with his head almost completely severed from his body. While his wife is in a dangerous condition from either knife or razor wounds, inflicted by Matthew Alexander, a colored man, who had been employed about the house for the past five years. Alexander entered the room in which Mrs. Burke was sleeping with her 15-year-old daughter at midnight, while her husband lay asleep on a couch on the other side of the room. Mrs. Burke was awakened by feeling the edge of a sharp instrument drawn across her cheek, and screamed. Alexander rushed to the rescue of his wife, but he was slashed across the neck and face by the negro. When Burke fell dying upon the floor, the negro rushed out at a side door, but attempted to re-enter the room after the door had been bolted by Mrs. Burke. Burke died almost instantly. No cause is known for the tragedy, as Alexander had been well treated and trusted by the family. He was said to have been a slave to the cocaine habit recently.

DROWNED IN A BARREL.
Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 8.—The 2-year-old daughter of Mrs. Daigneault, of St. Boniface, yesterday fell into a barrel containing water and was drowned.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and this fact has been supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Although the medicine business should, above all, be carried on with the utmost conscientiousness and sense of responsibility, the unfortunate fact is that in no other is there so much humbug and deception. The art of selling sick and their relatives are traded upon in the most shameful manner; impossible cures are promised; many preparations are absolutely worthless, and some are positively dangerous to health.

As a consequence, all proprietary remedies are regarded with suspicion by many people, and the good suffer for the bad.

FOUNDER OF DRUMBO DEAD

Henry Muma Passed Away at His Homestead, Pine Grove.

Drumbo, Sept. 8.—Henry Muma died at his homestead, Pine Grove, an Saturday, in his 80th year. He located on his present farm, then a wilderness, in 1843, and was a member of the township and county council about 30 years. He was the founder of the Village of Drumbo, a justice of the peace, notary public and C. E. A. land agent for years. He acted for the late Hon. Thomas C. Street, of Niagara Falls, up to his death. He was a warm, confidential friend of the late Sir John A. Macdonald, serving during his time as Dominion arbitrator and land valuator on the Welland Canal, and after the Riel rebellion was a member of the commission sent out to settle the claims against the Government caused by the rebellion. His family was six sons and two daughters, the only ones surviving being Charles A. Muma, merchant, Drumbo, and Alexander J. Muma.

SAM SMALL OF GEORGIA

Some Characteristic Utterances of the Noted Lecturer.

His Collapse Recalls Them to a Newspaperman's Memory.

Brooklyn, Sept. 2.—Rev. Sam Small, the southern revivalist and cold water advocate, who unfortunately died in the lowest degree of degradation in a condition which plainly indicated that he had at least momentarily strayed from the straight line of his teachings, was quite prominent in the lecture field hereabouts a dozen or more years ago, says the Times. As an epigrammatic talker he could discount the Hon. William Deverly. His witticisms and plain speech used to keep his New York audiences in a continued roar of laughter, and to an extent detracted from the seriousness of the subject he used to handle so ably.

He was wont to intersperse his lectures with stories in the German dialect, which for fidelity to nature would have done credit to Joe Emmett or Gus Williams, in their palmy days. Mr. Small never showed any hesitancy on the platform in using the words "damn" and "hell" in their broadest sense. The noted Georgian prohibitionist used to appear in this section largely under the banner of Gen. Clinton E. Fisk.

He was an attractive figure at Chickering Hall, Manhattan, for several weeks in 1887, during a protracted revival by the temperance people of this section. "I feel strongly upon this subject," he used to say at those meetings, "and I think I have a right to say it. I have observed the saloon interests of this country for a good many years, and if there is any philosophy in the business I know what it is to have seen to the bottom of the matter. I know that I have deserted my former constituents, they claim that I am acting unfairly in describing the evils resulting from being a good fellow. I hold that if I have forsaken them, the least I can do is to hold my tongue."

Right here I want to say that if there is any subject that the devil wants you to let alone, it is the liquor traffic. You can reason about any subject you like, but if the devil was consulted, he would say: "I have a mortgage on the business; keep your hands off." They say down south that prohibition is only one of thoseisms made up by a hypocrite for the purpose of making a few dollars. We know a little about that, and I can say decidedly that prohibition is one of those Yankee tricks with which we have become tangled up, and which we are going to see through. What anybody says about prohibition will never hurt it, and I would remind those who are kicking against it of the very terse remark of my brother, Sam Jones: "When the Lord says whoa, you better whoa."

Mr. Small used to refer to a public speech of John Sherman, in which the statesman was rather lukewarm on the temperance subject, and observed: "If I was republican, I would take the other side over the door." He was wont to denounce the Democrats as "rubber-necked individuals," and he was fond of telling that he had been official reporter of his state's senate, and was consequently in a position to know something of the traits and habits of professional politicians. He used to say that he had witnessed the ineffectual efforts of temperance advocates before the senate committee, and he was sorry to say that with the majority of senators, a temperance measure met with no favor. He repeatedly accused the Germans of being the great enemies of prohibition, combined with the saloon element.

Mr. Small has been a popular figure, and a great drawing card all over this country for many years, and there are a host of his admirers who sincerely trust that his "back-sliding" was the result of only a momentary weakness, and that he will quickly return with renewed energy to the cold water field, in which his permanent absence would leave a great void.

MAN-HUNTING IN TENNESSEE

Shooting of Two Desperadoes Who Have Killed a Dozen People.

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 8.—A special to the "Sentinel" from Rogersville, Tenn., says: Jim Wright and John Templeton, noted Hancock county desperadoes, were killed, and Wright's son was captured by a posse of 25 headed by Joe Moss, of Galt City, Va. In the engagement, Wright shot and killed a fatally wounded George Wolf, of Spears Ferry, Va., and Jack Rogers, of Rogersville, both of whom were members of the pursuing posse. Two fights occurred, and in the first, which began at 10 o'clock last night, Templeton was instantly killed and Wright's son was captured.

Jim Wright, however, retreated to a nearby house, where he engaged the officers until daylight, when he was routed out and killed, as he would not be taken alive. Wright was an escaped convict from the Tennessee penitentiary, where he was serving a sentence for murder. Wright and Templeton are said to have killed as many as six men each.

CARS TIED UP IN ST. THOMAS

Electric Company Refused to Furnish Power.

CITY MAY TAKE OVER THE ROAD

Street Railway Company Away Behind in Their Payments, Hence the Trouble.

[St. Thomas Journal, Sept. 8.]
The city street railway system is tied up today, not a car being run. The cause of the tie-up is the lack of electric power, Manager Oill, of the Gas and Electric Light Company, refusing to further continue to supply power until the amount due the company by the street railway company is paid.

It is understood that the position of the street railway company is that there are no funds and they cannot pay, and the probabilities are, indeed, it might be said for a certainty, that the road will fall into the hands of the city.

Mr. E. H. Caughell, president of the street railway company, was seen by the Journal this morning, and in answer to the question as to why the cars were not running, was informed that the reason was that the company could not longer secure power from the Gas and Electric Light Company. Mr. Caughell stated that the company were behind in their payments to the Electric Light Company, but what the outcome would be he could not say, and would not make any further statement until this afternoon.

It is learned, though unofficially, that a meeting will be held in the street railway company's office this afternoon by directors and representatives from Toronto, who have been negotiating for the purchase of the road, but the probabilities are that the road will fall into the hands of the city, as the company will advance no further money for its operation or for the liquidation of the claims against it.

Mr. George L. Oill, manager of the Gas and Electric Light Company, was seen, and stated that the power for the street railway had been shut off because the indebtedness now outstanding had not been made good. What the amount was Manager Oill refused to state.

The position of affairs seems to be that the company have reached that stage where they cannot continue to operate the road. This means that it will fall into the hands of the city, who are responsible for the $50,000 bonds guaranteed by the city. It is $1,000 interest on bonds due in July unpaid will have to be added interest to the present time. There is a claim of $500 or $700 for the Wilson bridge, and a claim of $400 for damage done by electrolysis to water pipes, which is unpaid. Besides this the city paid $2,000 for the first year's interest on the bonds.

The rolling stock and the machinery are well worn out, and it is estimated by those who should know that it will require $3,000 to $4,000 to put the equipment in proper repair, and several thousand dollars will be lost in operating the road yearly for some time to come, unless radical action is obtained. It is said that the outlay for the first year in repairs and loss would not be much less than $10,000, which, with the debentures guaranteed and other expenditures made and machinery would amount to a burden upon the city of about $50,000.

The street railway company have certainly been up against it. What with the very unfavorable season, and all they have to encounter, the road has been operated at a great loss. If current reports be true, the company are $7,000 to $10,000 in the hole.

It is understood that besides other indebtedness, the amount of the electric power amounts to over $300.

A special meeting of the city council will likely be called to consider the situation, but Mayor Chant & at present in Toronto.

What is to be the largest cotton mill in the world is to be located near Kansas City. The investment will reach about $10,000,000.

Remarkable Recovery From Nervous Collapse

A Methodist Minister Tells How
He Was Rescued From a Helpless Condition by

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

That Dr. Chase's Nerve Food possesses unusual control over the nerves and rekindles nervous energy when all other means fail is well illustrated in a case described below. Mr. Brown was forced to give up his ministerial work, and so far exhausted that for a time he was positively helpless. Doctors were consulted and many remedies were resorted to, in vain. Every effort to build up the system seemed in vain, and it is little wonder that the sufferer was losing hope of recovery, when he began to use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Rev. T. Brown, Methodist minister, of Omemee, and late of Bethany, Ont., writes: "A year ago last November I was overtaken with nervous exhaustion. For six months I did no work, and during that time I had to be waited on, not being able to help myself. Nervous collapse was complete, and though I was in the physician's hands for months, I did not seem to improve. At any little exertion my strength would leave me, and I would tremble with nervousness."

"From the first I used a great many nerve remedies, but they seemed to have no effect in my case. I had almost lost hope of recovery, when I heard of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and began to use it. As my system became stronger I began to do a little work, and have gradually increased in nerve force and vigor, until now I am about in my normal condition again. I consider Dr. Chase's Nerve Food the best medicine I ever used. Not only has it proven its wonderful restorative powers in my own case, but in several others where I have recommended it."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50. At all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Toronto.

STORING COAL IN WATER

South Wales Dealers Say This Will Preserve Heating Force.

London, Sept. 9.—The leading dock authorities of South Wales are urging the Government to make experiments in storing steam coal under water as the best means of preserving its calorific power. Rear Admiral Lord Charles Berosford, in arguing that the efficiency and power of immediate action of a British fleet depend upon an adequate coal supply at a naval base, declares that his experience has been that a vessel will have to consume more than twice the normal amount of coal per indicated horse power if the coal has been kept too long in store.

The dock managers, in writing their experience, say that when the docks are periodically dredged lungs of coal found which had fallen during the process of loading were covered with mud and coal dust, and had been from three to six months under water. This, when dried, burned well. A further test was made of immersing a quantity of coal for two months. After its calorific power was compared with a quantity from the same block of typical Monmouthshire steam coal, more than twice the normal amount of coal per indicated horse power if the coal has been kept too long in store.

The dock authorities advise the construction of concrete tanks capable of holding 5,000 tons or more which would be run off into sea water. When wanted for use exposure to the sub-tropical heat of Malta or Gibraltar would soon dry it.

Prominent Hamilton Lady Writes About MALT BREAKFAST FOOD

She Recommends This Kind of
